Business and Professional Women

The Mount Joy Business and Professional Women's club saw a special Christmas presentation, "The Christ Child," at their December meeting.

Sharon Givler, an associate of St. Mark's United Methodist, portrayed Mary before the birth of Christ. A group of forty students from Hempfield High School, the Hempfield Singers, were included in the program. They performed holiday songs under the direction of Mr. Kline.

Mrs. Arthur Sprecher, chairwoman of the music and social committee, introduced the speaker. Ann Crankshaw offered the invocation.

Mrs. James Spangler, a member of the personal development committee, introduced Christine Graham, November Girl of the Month at Donegal High School, along with her mother, Ann Graham. Also introduced were the December Girl of the Month, Dalene Hummel, and her mother, Mrs. Richard Hummel, Jr.

Mrs. Gilbert Hamilton, chairwoman of the senior citizens committee, said that gifts would be given out to all senior citizens in the area. Volunteers will distribute the gifts.

President Yvonne Koser was given a gift by the other club members. She announced that the January board meeting will be held at her home on January 8th at 7:30 PM.

The regular January meeting will be held on Monday the 22nd. The personal development committee will arrange the event.

Our rosy cheeked caroler brings thanks, and wishes for a Merry Christmas from us to you!

Seiler School Christmas program

Seiler Elementary School will present its annual Christmas program Thursday evening, December 21, at 7:30 PM.

The all-school program will feature first grade in "Angel Band." Second and third grades will perform "The Week When Christmas Comes." The familiar Christmas story,

"The Night Before Christmas," will be acted out by the fourth, fifth, and sixth grades.

Please come and share in this evening of music to be presented in the W.I. Beahm Junior High School auditorium. It will be an evening of free Christmas fun for everyone.

Doctor Terror

Is your child afraid of doctors? The Red Cross hopes to change his or her little mind.

Last week Health Assistants of the Mount Joy Vo-Tech school visited local elementary schools—Maytown, Riverview, Bainbridge, and Grandview—to present a play designed to lessen the kids' terror of things medical.

The program is called, "Play Doctor/Play Nurse," and it is sponsored by the Red Cross Youth Program.

The half-hour story presents the case of Janie, a five-year-old who must visit the hospital. The Health Assistants use a rag doll, a story cube, stethoscopes, thermometers, tongue depressors, and even syringes to aid the presentation. Dressed in the white uniforms, the high school students allow each child opportunity to take part in Janie's treatment. At the end, each child gets a doctor or nurse cap.

Working in the program are Sandy Spoo, Ellen Klein, Joanne Musser, Tina Manno, Joan Overmeyer, Kathy Weaver, Barb Long, Charleen Lehman, Linda Miller, Marilyn Matthews, Theresa Freed, and Beth Rose.

Advisors are Mrs. Marlene Drace, instructor at the Mount Joy Vo-Tech, and Mrs. Sandra Heisey, director of community services for the Red Cross.
