

Walker attends Marietta meeting

The Marietta Restorationists held a town meeting about the new flood law. Congressman Bob Walker and about 45 citizens attended.

Little that was definite came out of the meeting. However, Mr. Walker promised to help Marietta, and said that his people might be able to speed things up if the town decides to apply for an expanded historic district or Pennsylvania Inventory listing as protection from the "50%" rule of the new floodplain regulations.

Donegal Neighborhood

Donegal Neighborhood will meet in St. Luke's Episcopal Church, Mount Joy, on Monday, January 29th, at 8:00 PM.

...Ricedorf (cont.)

As president of the council he appoints members of the council to committees where their interests and abilities lie. The committees perform the actual work of the council and, after much study, make recommendations on which council can act. Ricedorf, a native of Rheems, lives with his wife, the former Joyce Berrier, and their daughters Stacey, 13, and Stephanie, 9, and their dog Fifi, at 242 Park Avenue. The Ricedorfs are members of St. Mark's United Methodist Church.

Jeff Bryant was again appointed as tax collector in Marietta.

Board-student meeting

Dr. Hartzler said that the Donegal High student council wants to meet board members for lunch on February 7th to discuss improving the school system.

Vandalism

A rash of vandalism seems to have broken out in the district. Several months ago, Mr. Hallgren noted that two windows had been broken at the high school, and commented on the rarity of vandalism here. Since then, however, broken windows have become more common. Two more were smashed in the high school shop in the last month.

In addition, more than $1000 worth of equipment was taken from the Beahm science room. $165 worth of mercury was spilled, and the burglars also took weights and precision scales, presumably for use in weighing drugs. They also broke into the nurse's office, apparently looking for something to get high on. $9.00 in cash was also taken.

Mr. Hallgren speculated that the burglars were familiar with the building.

Committee appointments

Here are the committee appointments announced by president Arnold (The first name is the chairperson):

Building—Jones, Fellenbaum, Weidman;

Education—Personnel—Kugle, Eshleman, Fellenbaum;

Extracurricular—Fellen-

baum, Hartzler, Jones; Future Planning—Eshleman, Hartzler, Kugle; Policy-Finance—Weidman, Eicherly, Kugle; Public Relations—Hartzler, Eicherly, Weidman; Teachers' Negotiations & Welfare—Eshleman, Jones, Hartzler;

Mr. Arnold made few changes. He commented on the flexibility of the committees, and said it was good that members of one committee could often fill in on another.

Jere Duke is Ex-officio member of all committees.

Authority report

The Donegal School District Authority met at the same time as the School Board. They made a report after the board meeting.

The "Big event," according to the Authority solicitor, was the paying off of the bond issues of 1952 and 1964.

In order to avoid the cost of legal advertising, the Authority is trying to contact all bond holders to make payment. This gets complex, as the bondholders live all over the country.

If not all can be reached in time, the bond redemption will have to be advertised after July.

Once this is taken care of, only Riverview School will not be paid for.

The Authority also reorganized. There were no changes.

The officers are: Jay Houseal, chairman; James Baker, vice chairman; Robert Kline, secretary; Robert Greider, treasurer; and William Eby, assistant secretary.
