Sponsors needed for DEA Volleyball Marathon

The Donegal Education Association will hold its third annual Volleyball Marathon on March 2 and 3rd. Participating students are already collecting pledges from local people to help support the DEA's Higher Scholarship Fund.

Beahm Junior High kids who sign up for the event are trying to get sponsors who agree to give so much money per hour to the fund for each hour of the 24 hours of marathon volleyball the kid stays on his or her feet. Many local merchants donate prizes, which are awarded to students who win serving contests. The contests are a side-line to the regular marathon game.

The marathon will take place at Beahm Junior High. The public is invited to watch for the modest fee of 25 cents admission charge. The admission money will also go into the fund.

The marathon is supervised by teachers who are members of the DEA. Mr. Walt Price, a Beahm teacher, is the chairman of the event.

Kermit Norris, DEA president, expresses his thanks to the community for its outstanding support of the marathons in past years. The DEA has raised thousands of dollars to help worthy Donegal High School graduates finance their freshman years of higher education.

The past recipients of DEA scholarships have been:

1976—Rory Gallagher, Millersville State; Kathy Beach, Lancaster General Hospital;

1977 — Loris Raber, Clarion State; Cindy Emeneiser, Penn State; Greg Lindemuth, Shippensburg State;

1978 — Sue Meszaros, West Chester State; Kathy Shelly, U. of Indiana (PA); and Lori Gebhart, Shippensburg State.

Barr died at age 102, in 1921.

Mrs. Harry Zuch, 89, of Marietta, worked in Pappy Spangler's general store.

Bob's father, J. Barr Spangler, started working in the family business at age 12. In 1924 he moved the business to 32 West Market and began selling appliances and hardware, and doing electrical contracting work. Bob bought the business from his father in 1961, and ten years later he moved it back down Market Street to the original Spangler's Store building, where it still is. Bob has expanded into appliance repair and the laundromat.

Bob Spangler learned electronics, about which he knows quite a bit, on the job and in the now-defunct Army Signal Corps. He served in the European Theater during World War Two, maintaining high-powered broadcasting equipment.

Bob has been active in civic life for many years. He was mayor of Marietta during Agnes (he served from 1970 to 1974). He was also a member of the Planning Commission, the School Board and the Sewer Authority.

Bob is now a regional director of Farmers First Bank, a director of the Marietta Area Ambulance Association, and director of the Community House. He is a member of the Lions, a trustee of the Columbia Hospital, and a member of the Marietta Restoration Associates (as is his wife, Mary Anne).

Bob and Mary Anne have two children—Tom Barr Spangler, 26, and Anne, 22. Tom is an engineer. At the moment he is in Marquette, Indiana working on a job there. His permanent residence is in the warehouse of the old Spangler general store, where the original counter is part of the furniture. Anne lives in Lebanon, where she works as a decorator for Sherwin-Williams.

TYRANNY

Heaped torso-high this night of wintry nights,
The snowdrifts wall the pavements of the street.
With icy fangs the cruel northwind bites
Into the stinging core of hands and feet.
The city sleeps. Now silence rules alone,
As if the world's great heart had ceased to beat;
And brash with power, mounts its tyrant throne,
Elate to know its empery complete.
Like dragon eyes with baleful light agleam,
The arc-lights blink among the wizzened trees.
No fall of foot, no vital auguries
The hush with living parity redeem.
What catch of faith can ope this iron portal
That shuts against the need of all things mortal?
