ity of the people, it makes this visit a wonderful experience," said Nancy Rubini, a representative of the National Trust.

Louise Cantwell, from arid El Paso, Texas, enjoyed Marietta's spring blossoms, green trees, gardens and grass as much as the town's buildings, which she termed "a beautiful architectural heritage."

An architect from Martinsburg, West Virginia, Mark Orling, was very admiring of Marietta's bank and the downtown Victorian commercial buildings. He wondered about the possibilities for recycling vacant and semi-vacant buildings.

Carol Brand of Monroe, Wisconsin, noted that in Marietta restoration is being done by "the natives—not professional planners," which she finds very encouraging. "I am from a small town like Marietta. Now, after seeing what the people of Marietta have accomplished, I know that restoration can be done without professional planners. I know that we can do it at home, ourselves. The people of Marietta have been so encouraging—and so very, very friendly. They made us all feel at home."

means that your number can be changed by typing instructions to the processor into a console.

The processor also detects breakdowns in the system.

In case the memory should be erased, duplicate tapes containing all the codes are kept in safes. The entire system could be reprogrammed in twenty minutes. Both the processor and the tape recorder have twin machines sitting next to them: if the one on line should go kaput, the other can be switched on in seconds.

The processor typifies the incoming telephone technology, which is all solid-state—silent, reliable, and quickly repaired. The Columbia office has a constant background noise of relays clacking and clicking, rattles of connections superimposed on the steady ticking of the relays that time your busy signals and rings. In a few years, the clicks may be gone as United Tel gradually buys more solid-state gear.

Lew told us that the relays sometimes cause trouble if they get dirty, and must be disconnected to be cleaned. (The incidence of trouble is kept down by a regular cleaning program.) Solid-state equipment, on the other hand, is always "modular," with plug-in components. If a part goes bad, it can be replaced in seconds and repaired at the technician's leisure.

Besides computer operation, modern electronics makes it possible to "chop" phone calls and send scores of them over one wire at the same time.

Lewis Hart lives at 119 South Harter Street, Maytown, with his wife Kathryn, son Brian, and daughter Lynn. His parents, John G. and Margaret Hart, live near Donegal High.

Little People Cooperative needs toys

The Little People's Cooperative Nursery School in Florin needs riding toys desperately for their 3 and 4 year-olds. If you have any that you can donate, they would be much appreciated, and they will be put to good use.

The Nursery School's vehicles have been through the mill with repairs on top of repairs. Any good riding toy for small children in good or repairable condition can be picked up.

Call 665-9356 (Jackie Rice) or 684-7926 (Bonnie Papdan).

The Little People's Cooperative Nursery is a parents' cooperative, with certified teachers and 45 kids enrolled. It is located at the top on the hill on Bruce Avenue in the Church of the Brethren.

The parents in the cooperative are involved in everything from sitting on the Board of Directors to mixing paint. Their policy is "TLC."

The Nursery is now accepting applications for next year. Tuition at the school works out to $.92 per hour.
