

DID YOU HEAR?

Mr. and Mrs. John S. Hiestand of Maytown attended a service at president Carter's church in Washington recently.

They called the First Baptist Church of Washington beforehand to find out if they needed reservations to attend the president's church. None were needed, and they went to Sunday worship there.

Mr. Hiestand (who is a president himself—of Farmers First Bank) and his wife ended up seated two pews and one isle from Carter and no less than eight Secret Service men.

Jimmy shook hands with both of the Hiestands after the service.

The Hiestands missed President Carter's adult Sunday School class. He didn't teach it that day.

The guest preacher that day was Dr. Coffin of the Riverside Church in New York.

A note on the program stated: "The audience will remain seated while the President and his company retire and organ postlude begins."
