

Long-time organist Anne Milanof stands before the Presentation BVM Church in Marietta, where the Mount Joy parish held a reception for her. Those who attended the reception stand in the rear. Anne is holding one of their presents to her, a pair of brass bookends shaped like G-clefs.

Anne Milanof honored by her parish

Anne Milanof was honored on Sunday, July 1st, at a surprise reception given by the parish. She has been the organist at Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary Parish, Mount Joy, for the past 23 years, serving faithfully for both Saturday and Sunday masses as well as special services.

Miss Milanof has been an active member of the church, serving in the following capacities: member of the Altar and Rosary Society; past president of the Parish Council of Catholic Women and the Lancaster Deanery, past president of the Parish Advisory Board, and chairman of the Liturgy Committee.

The parish gratefully acknowledges her dedicated services.

Miss Milanof also contributes much of her time to the Mount Joy Library.

Marietta Zoning Hearing Board

Three requests for special exceptions were heard by the Marietta Zoning Hearing Board Wednesday night in the Council Chambers.

Jerry Martin was granted permission to install his forge and tin smithing equipment in a former body shop in the 100 block of W. Apple Alley. He stated he works alone, mostly by appointment and has no interest in having a larger operation. Parking would be to the side of the building for a limited amount of customers.

Granted also was the application of John Dombach, 227 Clay St., Lancaster, to alter a structure at Market and Bank Sts., Marietta, (known as the Linden House) into eight-one bedroom apartment units which would rent at approximately $250 per month with 600 square feet of space (each).

The basement area, according to the proposal, would have coin operated washers & dryers for the tenants use with additional space for other activities.

The living area for approximately 16 persons would have 3 apartments on the first and second stories and 2 on the third level. The parking area will be all weather-proofed.

Joel Sater, a resident, reminded those present of the "classic construction of the structure with a spiral staircase."

Ron Perry, chairman of the zoning hearing board, stated, "the house has been on the market for 2 years and is in a deteriorated status."

Dombach stated the staircase would have to be removed because of its sagging supports but he hopes to make little change to the exterior.

The application of Sylvia Swank to have a special exception to open an in home shop at 217 W. Market St., Marietta, was denied by the same board.

In stating her case, Sylvia stated operations would be on appointment basis selling some old-some new items and fabrics. The volume of the sales, she said, "would perhaps be just meeting expenses.

Since a prior board had previously rezoned this same area to R-100 the current board explained it would be creating a precedent by altering that decision. Perry moved the application be granted but the motion died for want of a second.

The Linden House, of Federal Architecture, occupied by the ironmasters Henry Miller Watts, Henry

Money for apartment fix-ups

The Lancaster County Redevelopment Authority will hold a public meeting on Tuesday, July 10, at 7:30 PM. at 148 N. Charlotte St., Lancaster, to explain a new program which is designed to rehabilitate County housing that is leased by low and moderate income families. The "The Rental Housing Improvement Program" is sponsored by the Lancaster County Commissioners.

Here is how the program works. When a landlord signs an agreement for the conditional grant, the Redevelopment Authority provides a cost estimate of the improvements needed to upgrade his property to current health and safety standards. If the landlord

Note to letter writers

Last week we received another letter concerning the MYAA dispute, signed "Two Teenagers." Unfortunately, we cannot publish such a letter without a signature or signatures.

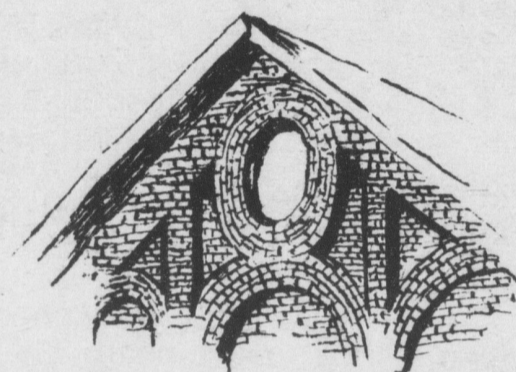

This paper will be happy to withhold the names of those who write letters to the editor, but we must have a signed letter in our files to protect ourselves.

We invite the Two Teenagers to come to our office and sign the letter, after which we will publish it with the signature, "Two Teenagers." Anyone else who wishes to write, and have his or her name withheld, is invited to do so.

—Editor

Heads Up!

Do you recognize the building in the drawing above? [Hint: it's in Marietta.] If you do, don't delay! Send a letter or postcard with your guess of its location and your name, address and telephone number, and send it to the Marietta Restoration Associates, P.O. Box 3, Marietta PA 17547. You might win five dollars if you do this, because the Associates will give a prize to the first person to guess it right.

Two previous mystery drawings for the Heads Up contest have run in this paper, but no one guessed either. Apparently they were too difficult. The Restorationists hope this one will be easier.

The previous Heads Up drawing showed a house on Clay Street.

Maytown Playground

The Maytown Playground has completed its successful first week. Eighty-five children registered. Sixty-two participated in the free swim. Relay games and organized play were held each day, with Friday afternoon as craft time. Jeanne Lindemuth and Fred Gaupp were supervisors.

Pinochle party

The Maytown Civic Association is planning its regular monthly pinochle party for Friday, July 6, at 8:00 PM at the municipal building. If gasoline is a problem, please car-pool it.

—Ivan Hess

Program, which is administered by the Lancaster County Housing Authority. Through this program, the Redevelopment Authority hopes to rehabilitate rental units within the next year.

Owners of rental property located in Lancaster County are especially encouraged to attend the meeting. The general public is also invited.

accepts the estimate, he must then arrange private financing for the balance of rehabilitation. The landlord must keep the rent at reasonable levels for three years under the 15% grant, or five years if he uses the 25% grant. To receive the 25% grant, he must also participate in the Lancaster County Rent Assistance