

DID YOU HEAR

Jack W.W. Loose, DHS social science and history teacher, was the subject of a recent article in the Millersville State College Alumni Review. The article, covering two pages, listed his many honors and activities, discussed his tastes in music, and quoted his explanation of how he accomplishes so much—"I'm not married," said

Jack. "While you married men devote 24 hours each day to your wives... I can go about serving the community." $$$

Dr. Francis Ferguson, professor of regional planning at Capitol Campus, Penn State, and a resident of Maytown, will address the Rotary Club of Mount Joy on August 21.

How to protect Mount Joy home during vacation

The Mount Joy Police remind all borough citizens that in order to make the "Vacation House Check" program effective, homeowners must observe the following guidelines:

1. You must request a police vacation watch of your home in person at the Borough Offices by talking with a police officer or secretary.

If no policeman or secretary is at the office, an officer can be summoned by calling the Lancaster County Police Radio Communications Center at 653-1457.

2. A form must be filled out in its entirety, signed, a dated by the homeowner. You can discuss any special circumstances with the police officer.

3. You must file your request no less than 48 hours before you leave on vacation, and no more than one week beforehand.

4. You should call the police at once when you get home, by calling the Communications Center number given above (this line is manned 24 hours a day, every day). Informing the police of your return is important to avoid an unexpected confrontation with the police when you return early. By having the Vacation Watch cancelled by the homeowner on his or her return, the police can keep watching houses until the owners return, even if they are away longer than planned.

Your cooperation in this program will make it work smoothly.

Rain doesn't faze BPW

A late afternoon thunderstorm was over and gone by 5:30 PM on Monday, July 23, when the BPW of Mount Joy held a summer outing at the South Market Avenue home of club member Betty Groff.

Swimming, cards, and bingo were enjoyed before and after the 7:00 o'clock buffet-style supper served on the porches of the Groff home.

Virginia Horst offered prayer to begin the meal of Cornish hen, seasonal summertime vegetables and desserts, iced tea, and coffee. Debbie Brooks played accordion music throughout the evening. The amplification system made the accordion sound like an electric organ. This occasion, catered by the Groffs with some help from several club members, was arranged by past president Yvonne Koser.

Recently appointed committees are now preparing for the 1979-80 BPW year in cooperation with president Lillian Fry and vice-president Ada Thompson.

The BPW will sponsor its annual Candle Light Tour on November 18. The club will be glad to accept offers from persons who are willing to open their homes for the tour. Application may be made by calling Diane Rice at 653-4240 or Carol Lambert at 653-1258 or Nancy Sprecher at 653-4193. These people will refer your name to the finance committee and a personal visit will be arranged to discuss the procedures and standards the club uses and maintains in conducting the tour.

The National Convention of BPW was held in Boston from July 23 to July 27. President Fry attended and will report on activities there at the September meeting.
