

Vacations and trips over?

Now is the time to think about winterizing your car.

Why not have your cooling system power-flushed? Also, replace coolant, thermostat and hoses.

Trooper Engle discusses her police career

back to her and tell her how she had changed the girl's life.

What is Trooper Engle's advice to girls considering police work as a career?

"If you want to know exactly what you're going to be doing from one minute to the next, don't go into police work.

"I like variety.

"You get to see a lot of bad situations. You see the way people live, and you'd like to do something about it, and you realize that nothing can be done. If you have a queasy stomach, don't become a policeman.

"Just be sure of what you want to do. If you think police work is like what you see on TV, better check into it further. On TV they never show you working on reports.

"You should have a lot of common sense. A policeman's downfall is a lack of common sense.

"You have to make quick decisions. You do what you have to do. You don't have too much time. You have to make the right decision. Sometimes a person's life is in your hands."

Does Trooper Engle like danger? She laughs. "Walking across Route 30 is dangerous," she says.

Is she married? "Happily single," she replies.

Of interest to members of the Brethren in Christ: Trooper Engle's grandfather was a minister in the Brethren in Christ. She is one of those many descendants of that patriarch of the Conoy, Jacob Engle.

Anti-nuclear speakers address fifty at Marietta

[continued from front page] high cancer rate among Navajo Indians, who do most of the mining. After the meeting, she urged anyone who opposes the re-opening of TMI to write to the NRC, Governor Thornburgh, both state senators, and Congressman Walker.

The final speaker, professor Richard Veith, who teaches at the Lancaster Theological Seminary, discussed alternative energy sources. A combination of solar energy and conservation, he suggested, is the only safe, available, ecologically sound, and affordable way to solve the nation's energy problems.

Zelda Heisey discusses Creekside

"It's enough to make George Washington spin in his grave, the way foreigners are buying up this country."

At the meeting last week

she suggested that people start raising money (because you can't get anybody to do anything these days except for money), to pay a Paul Revere to ride his horse through the streets of Mount Joy, shouting to the people, warning them: "The British are coming! The British are coming!"

The Creekside proposal has aroused some very old, but not yet dead, feelings in Mount Joy.
