FIFTEEN CENTS

Marietta committee on loitering

The citizens' committee appointed by Marietta's Mayor Flanagan as a response to complaints about teens loitering in downtown Marietta is planning to enlarge the committee to include wider representation. The committee hopes to become fully organized in the near future and to make recommendations in regard to the problems brought before Council at its last meeting.

Marietta Jaycees stage scare show 'Scream in the Dark' this weekend

The Marietta J-Cs Halloween Scream in the Dark show is running again. Starting at 7 p.m. this Friday, Saturday, and Sunday evenings, people will be able to be terrified in the maze, the graveyard, the gallows, and the vampire room. The show is at J-C headquarters in the old school building.

The Halloween parade will take place Monday, October 29 at 7:30 p.m.

starting at the Armstrong Carpet Plant, proceeding down Market Street and ending at Riverview School.

Admission to the Scream in the Dark show is one dollar.

D.H.S. Homecoming this weekend

Donegal High School will be celebrating their annual Homecoming this weekend; October 25, 26 and 27.

A parade and a bonfire at the Junior High on Thursday will mark the beginning of the celebration.

Friday's activities will include "Color Day", followed by a pep rally at 2 pm and finally the homecoming football game against the Cocalico team.

Saturday will bring with it the Powder Puff football game, and at 8 pm the school dance and the presentation of the new Homecoming queen.

Spangler: why buy at local stores

Robert C. Spangler, owner of Spangler Appliance-Sound in Marietta talked last week to the Susquehanna Times about the advantages of dealing with merchants in small towns.

With the low overhead that small town merchants pay compared to those in large expensive shopping malls, the prices charged by local merchants are reasonably competitive, Spangler believes.

But the most important reasons for dealing with local merchants are more personal. A customer knows and can trust a merchant in his hometown.

When it comes to service the local merchant has a great advantage over his big city competitor. A local merchant who lives in the same town with his customers knows he must provide good service to his neighbors. He has to back up his products.

Another reason for buying locally is that the customer can talk personally to the owner of the business. At the large urban stores a customer is lucky if he can talk to the manager of the store.

As a local business itself, the Susquehanna Times is very interested in encouraging local people to deal with local businesses.
