Vogts visited by Dattas from India

The Keith Vogt family, of RD1 Marietta, was visited by some friends from India over the holiday.

J.C. and Anjah Datta of Calcutta, and their nephew, Sunoy Srimal, stopped at the Vogts' house as part of their two-month tour of the U.S. The Vogts met the Dattas on the Staten Island Ferry in New York City about four years ago. The Vogts' daughter, Michelle, struck up a conversation with Anjah Datta. Since that meeting the two families have stayed in touch by mail.

Mr. Datta is operations manager of Calcutta airport. He has visited the U.S. about six times. Formerly a pilot, he was forced to retire from that job when his eyesight became poor.

His wife Anjah has been to the U.S. once before, to visit her niece in New York City—the trip on which she met Michelle Vogt. Mrs. Datta works at a children's museum in Calcutta, and also sits on the board of directors of the museum.

While visiting here the Dattas toured TMI, Chocolate World in Hershey, a pretzel factory, a chicken house, a large dairy farm, and the "Amish country." They were amazed by the large shopping centers they saw, and impressed by the scientific methods used on American farms.

The Dattas presented the Vogts with many gifts, some of which they had made themselves.

The Dattas enjoyed the beef they were served at the Vogts' table: beef is rarely eaten in India. Nephew Sunoy, however, is a vegetarian and had none.
