Jill McVey, Lanc. social worker, discusses child abuse with BPW

Jill McVey, a social worker with the Lancaster office for Children and Youth Social Service Agency, was the speaker for the January dinner meeting of the Mount Joy Business and Professional Women's Club at Hostetters Banquet Hall.

"Helping children—legally, socially and morally", was the subject of the presentation by Ms. McVey. "Prior to 1874 there were no laws protecting children. In 1883 Pennsylvania enacted laws of this type for the first time," the speaker told the group of women. The agency represented by Ms. McVey provides various services. It provides rehabilitation to families, in order that children can remain with the family. It provides units of protection, placement and adoption, as well as care and service for unwed mothers.

225 child abuse cases were handled by the agency in 1979. "Most abusive parents are unhappy persons and were abused themselves as children," Ms. McVey remarked. "Lancaster County has children in need at all social-economic levels, all colors, but most calls are in the low income range." She noted that referrals can be made directly to the agency and that all referrals are in confidence.

Helen Hamilton, chairperson of the BPW's Personal Development committee, arranged the program. Kim Boyer presented a voice and guitar musical program.

During the business meeting the club voted to order 100 armetale 4" Queen Anne Coasters commemorating the 25th birthday celebration of the club to be held March 24. The plates will be sold at $5 each on a first come, first served basis.

President Lillian Fry introduced one new member, Mrs. Mary Stoner, and announced that the next board meeting will be at her home on February 11 at 7:30 pm.

The February 25 dinner meeting is being arranged by the Young Careerist committee. Nancy Bricker will speak on "Cancer and You."
