Movie Review

The Electric Horseman

by John Raiz

In a slick five minute opening, Sidney Pollack amusingly lays down the necessary historical background for The Electric Horseman. With sparse economy and colorful vignettes, he informs us that the story to follow will be about an aging and battered five time all-around rodeo champion, Sonny Steele (Robert Redford). Trading on his enormous popularity, Steele retires from competition to become the spokesman for a huge conglomerate, AMPCO, to promote one of their products. Of course, he realizes that he has sold himself to gain financial security.

Unfortunately, screenwriter Robert Garland's unabashed borrowings from prior movies fails to provide anywhere near the depth of characterization that this potentially interesting story requires. Instead, the plot creaks of old Hollywood fare and the dialogue is covered with trail dust from the Red River Valley to the Chishom trail.

Nonetheless, The Electric Horseman stars Redford, and Jane Fonda as a courageous newscaster. It also has a marvelous country sound track written and sung by Willie Nelson—who also makes his screen debut as Sonny Steele's sidekick. Because of its attractive duo and a refreshing performance by Nelson, The Electric Horseman is a pleasant diversion as long as you overlook its foolish social messages.

I have no complaint about the concept of romanticism per se. It does annoy me, however, when the myth is sentimentalized to the point that only those individuals who sleep beneath the wide-open skies are pure and noble and anyone who is associated with big business is an unscrupulous money-grabbing devil. The loner who constantly locks horns with the system isn't always a knight in shining virtue. Sometimes he is merely a misfit.

Mount Joy Welcome Wagon meet to be held February 20 at Legion

The February board meeting of the Mount Joy Welcome Wagon was held at the home of Gail Huff.

Betty Nixdorf, of Shaklee Products, will present the program at the next meeting to be held Wednesday, February 20, at the American Legion Hall.

The annual Book Sale will be held on April 18 and 19. Boxes will be placed in various locations for collection of books. Anyone wishing to donate books of any kind should look for the boxes at local businesses. All proceeds from the sale are given to the Mount Joy Library. Braves Parents organization wishes to thank contributors

At the conclusion of the 1979 football season the Parents Organization for the Donegal Braves football teams encountered a brief problem for the 1980 season.

A new regulation states the helmets approved by the N.O.X.Y. must be worn for safety and protection of the players.

Due to the great expense of these helmets the Parents turned to local business establishments in October, 1979, seeking contributions. To date, the organization has met approximately one third of its financial obligation.

The Parents Organization would like to take this time to thank the following for their generous contributions:

American Legion Aux. Unit # 185, Arnold Pontiac, B.B. Billmeyer Jeweler, Bob Smith Contractors, B. Titus Rutt Insurance Co., Caruthers Auto Service, D.C. Gohn Associates, Donegal Mutual Insurance Co., Farmers First Bank, First Federal Savings and Loan, Florin Fruit Market, Forry's Texaco Service, Hawthorn's, Howell's White Swan, Kinsey Archery, Marietta Beneficial Assoc., Mount Joy Auto Parts, Mount Joy Chamber of Commerce, Mount Joy Welcome Wagon, National Standard Co., Newcomer Oil Corp., Dr. Schlosser and staff, Sico Company, Spangler Flour Mills, Spangler Appliance and Sound, Tropical Treat Restaurant, Vogt

"Stripes for College" offered by Air Force

Men and women 17 to 27 years of age with some college credit may be eligible for a new Air Force accelerated promotion program, Air Force officials announced recently.

Individuals with 45 semester or 67 quarter hours of college credit may apply for enlistment in the Air Force in the rank of Airman First Class (two stripes). Also, 20 semester or 30 quarter hours may qualify a person for guaranteed enlistment in the rank of Airman, according to MSgt. Woody McGee, the local Air Force Representative.

The Air Force implemented the new "Stripes for College Experience" options for people without prior military service to enhance the recruitment of highly qualified people for the Air Force.

Persons with dependents qualifying for the rank of A1C will begin earning $776.70 per month in pay and allowances while a person with 20 semester hours will earn $757.20 per month as an Airman.

Additionally, all Air Force enlistees earn four semester hours after successfully completing six weeks of Air Force Basic Training toward an associate in applied science degree through the Community College of the Air Force, officials said. The college is similar to any other community college.

Airmen attending Air Force Technical Training Schools also earn credits through the CCAF and may supplement these courses by attending nearby colleges and universities during off-duty hours. In the latter case, the Air Force pays 75 percent of the tuition. Other education programs are also available in the Air Force.

For more information about the "Stripes for College Experience" options and what other opportunities are available, call MSgt. Woody McGee at 717/299-2252.
