

Final day of summer fun

Pat Alleman, 21 West Donegal Street, Mount Joy, took advantage of the holiday by cleaning the family car. "I sure picked a hot day to do this," she laughed.

The Mike Eshleman family, 5 South Market Street, Mount Joy, celebrated the day with a yard sale. In the above photograph Beth and Cory, in front, show our

Paul Ginder, R.D.#3, Mount Joy, spent the morning doing farm work and then enjoyed an afternoon family picnic at Sico Park. After the picnic the family enjoyed a leisurely stroll by the Little Chickies Creek. In the above

Thomas Grosh IV spent the day helping his grandmother, Mrs. Thomas Grosh Jr., 44 North Chestnut Street, Marietta, mow the lawn. The six-year-old told us he is looking forward to returning to school this year. He will be in first grade.
