Maynard Ferguson at DHS tonight

Maynard Ferguson in action

The Maynard Ferguson orchestra will be performing at Donegal High School tonight, October 29, at 8 pm. As the Susquehanna Times went to press there were still some tickets available. For ticket information call the school at 653-1871.

The cultural event is being sponsored by the Donegal Band Club, and it will be the biggest project ever undertaken by the organization.

The Maynard Ferguson orchestra is made up of 13 members in addition to Maynard. All the members are excellent musicians in the jazz-rock idiom. They come from all over the world and spend a great deal of time on the road touring.

Maynard, 52, started playing the trumpet at age 14 and has been playing professionally for most of his life. He attracts a large number of followers from all different age groups because of his feel for change. He started out playing only jazz, but he now blends the jazz with all the elements of music.

The Band Club invites all to come take advantage of this opportunity to see the band.

Group from Cocalico delights in Marietta

Forty members of the Cocalico Area Historical Society visited Marietta last Saturday, October 25, hosted by the Marietta Restoration Associates.

The group, primarily from the borough of Ephrata, plans only one bus trip a year and decided to come to Marietta because of the interesting restoration work being done.

They began their day with an orientation session at the Associates headquarters at 36 West Market Street, and then boarded their bus for a guided tour of the town. After this tour they visited the Old Town Hall Museum, the home of Mrs. Aline deVity on the square, and various downtown shops. After lunch at the Candy Shoppe, the group was entertained by the organ and old-time movies at the Marietta Theatre.

Many members of the tour expressed surprise at the great variety of historical architecture found in the borough.

Despite the rain, they had a "delightful day" and many are planning to return for the Marietta candlelight Tour to be held Sunday, December 7, from 2 to 7 pm.
