THE BEAUTY OF MAN.
A beautiful woman
Who leads the lead-
part.
"Nothing happens to the ugly woman," said a cynical gentleman, who had just glanced at the newspaper notice of a social function to a New Orleans Times-Democrat man. "She must live the most prosaic life imaginable. Her hostess is always a beautiful woman. The heroine is always a beautiful woman, and even in the sublimest conceptions of poesy, where facial and physical beauty generally is subordinated, the woman is always a beautiful woman. Evangelina was beautiful. Lucille was beautiful. Lucrece was beautiful—in fact, all down the line from Eve's day to this good hour, whenever a woman staggers to the center of the stage in any way, she is a beautiful woman. I have often wondered what part the ugly woman plays in life. She does not give any of the big functions. She is never the president, the secretary, or anything else in any of the women organizations of the day. She is not my sweetheart, nor yours, nor the wife of the other fellow. These are all beautiful women. Even in the more violent walks of life the ugly woman plays no part. She is never the subject of the designing villain, and the meanest pickpocket in the world would not honor her by snatching a purse from her. The fiendish fellow who delights in the mutilation of human forms would never think of picking out an ugly woman for a subject. He would rather dash vitriol or something equally destructive into the face of a really beautiful woman. He would want a victim who was bewilderingly beautiful, stupendously stunning and all that sort of thing. These reflections have convinced me that nothing ever happens to the ugly woman, and she must indeed live a very dull and uninteresting life. But really I have another solution of the matter. I do not know the ugly lady, and while I have made no special effort to peer into her place of hiding and cannot say for certain whether she is there or not, yet I am inclined to believe that there are no ugly women. They are all beautiful, and I guess this is why nothing is ever put down as happening to the ugly woman."
NO REST IN AMERICA.
Machinery in the United States Is Not Permitted to Last Out of Date.
An experienced railroad engineer has the following to say regarding English railway methods, says the New York Times. "It is singular, to say the least, that the English railway managers have discovered that American locomotives consume more coal, use more oil and require more repairs than those of their home make. If this is a fact, it could have been demonstrated in a trial lasting a month. Over here we wouldn't accept an English locomotive as a gift. It would be regarded as an antiquated monstrosity. I fear that the British are beginning to feel a trifle sore over America's commercial invasion of all the markets of the world, and the Midland railway people are trying to knock us on our locomotives."
Continuing, the official said: "The chairman of the Midland made one impressive statement, namely: 'We tend our engines carefully, rest them, clean them and do everything to make them last.' In this country we rest nothing, not even ourselves. Bishop Cumberland's familiar saying: 'It is better to wear out than to rust out,' has taken hold of us, body, soul and breeches. The Englishman rests his hats, shoes, trousers, coats, horses, carriages and whatever else he may own, animate or inanimate. A few advanced Americans have recently adopted the practice of 'resting' their shoes for a rest, and the result is longer wear without losing shape. Some of our locomotives are never allowed to cool from one year's end to another. Little wonder they do not live to be classed among the antiques."
Sensible Course of Action.
A pedantic pedagogue had taken a few of his pupils to the zoo. While the lions were being fed he asked the keeper: "If one of these gigantic and ferocious carnivora should contrive to emancipate itself, and should hurl its prodigious strength into our midst, what steps would you take?"
"Long uns, sir," answered the boy—Tit-Bits.
Began to Economize.
She—As we are to be married next month, don't you think you ought to begin to economize?
He—Oh, I've begun already. That very thought occurred to me this evening as I was coming here.
She—What did you do?
He—Passed the candy store without stopping.—N. Y. Weekly.
Hygienic Enough.
Lady (seriously, to policeman in Central park)—Officer, did this walking through the wet grass according to Father Knipp ever really cure anything?
Officer (with enthusiastic heartiness)—Shure, ma'am! Dirty feet.—Judge.

Dance Music is Played in Church.
By a stirring address at the woods meeting at Ephrata, Rev. Harry M. Lengel, Reading, deplored the introduction of unpaid choirs, Communion cups and automatic speakers in the churches of today. He said that in some Reading churches, "dance music was used by the organists, and they were making a great mistake: of course they would not be willing to admit it until the judgment day."
Not Puddle Beer.
At the closing of the August term of the quarter sessions court of York county Judge Bittinger directed stable Wiles to investigate alleged peddling of beer in a wagon in Warrington, which was being peddled on the highway to say the least.

For a Large Convention.
The locating committee of the German Baptist Brethren Conference met yesterday at the home near Manheim for the purpose of selecting a place for the great gathering of German Baptist Brethren from the United States next May or June. Harrisburg, Columbia, Lebanon and Lancaster are after the meeting. General Manager F. S. Given, of the Conestoga Traction company, and Manager H. B. Griffith of Rocky Springs, were present at the meeting to offer inducements to have the meeting held in Lancaster. A communication from Mayor Muhlenberger setting forth the advantages of Lancaster, was also read before the committee.
The committee heard the propositions offered by each city for the meeting and they will arrange to visit each place. At the meeting next month they will make a report and the place of meeting will be decided upon.
It will be the first time that has been held east of Chambersburg as 25,000 representatives of these great meetings, and days the attendance is 40,000. Meetings continue for six weeks.
CATERPILLAR PEST.
Caterpillars are not only you but everybody else in eastern Pennsylvania. Not only trees, but also plants and vines have been attacked and denuded of their foliage. Experienced men who have successfully battled against this pest say that the only way to get rid of the caterpillar is to spray the trees with paris green, but this turns the leaves to a bronze color. It kills the worms, however, and the tree will be all right in another year. The caterpillars have lately taken to invading houses, and crawling through open windows and making boulevards of the hall-ways and rooms.
The following from the National Dictionary may give you some additional information on this interesting little creature.
CATERPILLAR—The larva or larval state of a lepidopteron insect. Its body has thirteen segments. In this state it is like a worm, generally with numerous feet, but sometimes with none. The anterior feet are jointed; the others, called pro-legs, are fleshy and without joints. From the caterpillar or larva stage it passes into a pupa, chrysalis, or nymph, and lastly it becomes a perfect active insect, with wings and antennae.
Marriages.
