GOT TOO FOND OF WINE.

So This Southern Gentleman Destroyed One of the Finest Vineyards in the South.

A gentleman who lives on the north side of the county, at the foot of the Peaks of Otter, recently destroyed what was one of the finest vineyards in the county, says the Bedford (Va.) Democrat. The vineyard was composed of about 1,000 healthy bearing vines of different varieties of fine grapes. For several years past, being unable to market the fruit at a profit, the owner has been turning his grape crop into wine, making sometimes as much as 1,000 gallons of fine wine in a season. Having a great quantity of wine and being endowed with that hospitality characteristic of old Bedford, he dealt it out very freely to his family and neighbors. The habit of imbibing grew on him, on his family, and on his neighbors, until, as he expressed it, "the thing got to be a nuisance," and the only way to get rid of what seemed to him to threaten the vitals of his family and the entire neighborhood was to get rid of his vineyard, so he went to work and destroyed the finest vineyard in the county.

A Safe Course. Jimmy Plate—Say, Billy, yer lack prudence in gettin' so drunk before yer goes up to that house. Billy Burglar—I know me business. I want to get in an awful condition so de dog will think it's his master comin' home.—Cincinnati Daily News.

Captious Revenge. Clarence—Billy, if you were disappointed in some great love or high ambition would you get even with the world by becoming a hermit? Billy—No, sir-ee; I'd buy a cheap cornet and move into a thickly populated flat.—Chicago Record-Herald.

"If I thought that any girl would accept me," casually remarked the bashful Mr. Dolgers, "I'd propose to-morrow."

"Why not this evening?" asked Miss Fosdick, coyly.

The affair will take place in about a month.—Detroit Free Press.

A Talented Man. Junior Partner—I see you have engaged a new clerk. Is he a good salesman? Senior Partner—Good salesman? Great snakes! I had to send for the police to prevent him from talking me into taking him into the firm.—N. Y. Times.

Sentence Suspended. Frank F. Sprout, of Rapho township, was before court last Saturday and plead guilty to three charges of larceny. There were peculiar circumstances connected with the cases. Three years ago he stole several articles of trifling value from Martin Risser. He was not suspected of the thefts and they were practically forgotten, when Sprout called on Mr. Risser and confessed his thefts, and made restitution, saying that his conscience had troubled him.

Sprout also called on John G. Heisey and confessed to him that he had stolen chickens from him; and on David Hitz, and confessed to him that he had stolen wire from him. He made restitution to both these parties and they had no intention of prosecuting him. The constable of the district heard of Sprout's confession, he sued Sprout, and compelled these people to come as witnesses. The court suspended sentence.

Estates of the Dead. Among the letters granted by the register of wills, on estates of the dead during the past week, are the following of local interest: Jacob H. Stauffer, of Mount Joy borough, administrator of Rebecca Helman.

Meria Hershey, of Rapho township, administrator of Catharine Hershey.

She said he had frequently threatened her, and she was afraid to live with him. The court ordered him to pay $2.50 a week for the support of his wife.

Two straw parties from Mount Joy went to Manheim last Saturday to spend the evening and have a good time which they all enjoyed. Over one hundred people from Mount Joy were at Manheim during the evening. The Troubadours who were showing in the opera house had a full house the place being crowded before any of the Mount Joy people got there and those that wanted to see the play were allowed to go on the stage and see the performance.

Burgess Harry last Tuesday issued a proclamation, on account of the death and funeral of President McKinley asking that the business places of town be closed on Thursday and that the day be observed with religious services and as a day of prayer, agreeably to the proclamation issued by President Roosevelt and Governor Stone. This request was very generally observed as the works of the town and the business places were nearly all closed and memorial services were held in the Methodist church, in the afternoon.

It is generally believed that the trolley line between Mount Joy and the surrounding country will be of direct benefit to the business men of Mount Joy, who if they adapt progressive commercial ideas as soon as some have already done, need not fear from the competition of the larger cities and towns. The fact that our business people have, comparatively speaking, a small amount of rent to pay, should encourage them to change their tactics, fall in line with modern progressive business ideas, and equip themselves better than ever before for the business in which they are engaged.

This borough is in mourning for the dead president. The business places, to a large extent, are draped in crape and flags fly at half mast, tied in the middle with black ribbons. Mourning badges are worn by many people. Party feeling has been laid aside and it is only remembered that the president of the United States is dead, the victim of an assassin's bullet.

In every church of the borough Sunday there were memorial services of one character or another. In some places of worship the remembrance of the martyred president took the form of simple prayers, in others his life and heroic death were made the subjects of orations and sermons.

McKinley Services at Donegal. Impressive services were held in the Donegal church East Donegal township on Sunday, relative to the death of President McKinley. An able sermon was delivered by the pastor, Rev. Downes, of Mount Joy, and the president's favorite hymns, "Lead Kindly Light," and "Nearer, My God, to Thee," were sung.
