

Emperor's House Cleaning Help.
A good story of Emperor William is being told in Berlin. When he informed Herr von Buelow that he was now imperial chancellor, Herr von Buelow expressed his delight, but said that he had just chanced to think of his wife. She had nothing against the chancellorship, but a great deal against the chancellor's palace, for while her present home was a regular little jewel box, the great cleaning down in the chancellor's palace would not be completed before this time 12 months. "Give my greetings to the countess," his majesty replied, jocularly, "and tell her I will contribute my part toward the cleaning down." A few days later a very bulky parcel was left at Countess von Buelow's by the emperor's orders. It contained a hundredweight of soap, the promised contribution toward the great cleaning down.—Chicago Record-Herald.

His Hit.
It was Charlie's first game of golf. His patient friend had taken him sadly around the 18 holes and watched him hack the ball into small bits and cut up the green as though it had been plowed by shrapnel. After the game Charlie and his patient friend were talking to a few of the golfers on the clubhouse veranda.

"That was a beautiful shot you made this afternoon, Charlie," said the patient friend.
Charlie brightened up and flushed happily, while the young women looked at him admiringly. "Which one?" he asked, eagerly.
"Why," said the patient friend, "the time you hit the ball."—Baltimore Herald.

Good Yacht Sailors Scarce.
Those who have studied the art of preparing cup defenders for their work are aware of the immense amount of care needed to properly tune the yacht long after she has sailed her first race. The most scientific part of the work of the handlers of a cup defender is in the perfecting of her rigging and her various gear so that everything will carry harmoniously upon the big 90-footer. Here is where the really fine distinctions of yachting occur and there are actually but few men in the world who are capable of handling such problems successfully. Certainly not 200 men on earth are able to decide these matters with accuracy and success.—Baltimore Herald.

Original.
As the farmer entered the town a courtly man drew near with a view to scolding him.
"You can't sell me a gold brick!" said the farmer, at once.
"How original you are!" said the man.
"Yes," said the farmer, "I am a man of course, but I am no mere original. I tell you those!"

Worse and Worse.
"Cordin' t' th' statoots," began Judge Wayback, as he stood up, "I'll hev 't' giv' y' ten yer'es t' th' penny-tenchury."
"But," exclaimed the lawyer for the defendant, jumping to his feet, "there are extenuating circumstances."
"They is?" cried the judge in alarm.
"Ef I thought thet, durned ef I wouldn't giv' 'em fifteen yer'es."—Columbus (O.) Journal.

No Standard of Distance.
In China there is no regular standard of distance. Standards vary in the different provinces of the empire, the chi, or unit of length, varying from nine to sixteen inches in different provinces. A Chinese mile may be from a quarter of an English mile to a mile and three-quarters, according to the province.—London Mail.

The Name That Was Not Real.
A Philadelphia captain of detectives tells of one of the Malaprops of his force, who, despite his deficiency in education, is a clever operator. Responding to an inquiry, he explained to a friend the possession of two names by a prisoner by saying: "Jim Henry is his real name; Percy D. Klyne is his ananias."—Argonaut.

Mrs. Whyte—I hear that you have sent your daughter to Bryn Mawr. Is she learning rapidly?
Mrs. Browne—Yes, indeed! She can spell the name of the college now the first time trying.—Somerville Journal.

Amber Pete—Well, stranger, he talked so much through it I thought I'd let a few holes for the words to get out.—Chicago Daily News.
