Old Relics.

H. C. Reem, of West Donegal, has an old German paper printed in 1810 at Lancaster, and entitled "Der Wahre Amerikaner." Gadrucht Olle Somsdawg by Feineich and Benj. Grimie. Its size is only about 12x14. Among the advertisements are those of a reward for a runaway sergant girl, a petition to Court for a turnpike from Lancaster to Columbia. Also a sheriff's sale held at George Redsecker's hotel in Mt. Joy township, seized and taken into execution as property of Christian Newcomer and containing 39 acres of land in West Donegal township.

Mr. Reem is the owner of a clock that was made in 1700, and was brought to this country by his great great grand father, Everhart Reem, who founded Reamstown, this county. The clock keeps very correct time.

Plenty to Shoot at.

"Any good shooting on your grounds?" asked a sportsman on Saturday of a farmer in Rapho township. "Well, I guess!" replied the farmer, with a twinkle in his eye. "Here's a drive well man down in the meadow, a cloth peddler and book agent at the house, a candidate out in the barn, two tramps in the stock yard and a sewing machine agent in sight. Climb over the fence young man; load both barrels, and sail in. You can bag everything that you bring down."—Columbia Daily News

Peter N. Gish of West Donegal and Lizzie L. Landis of Conoy

David W. Stoner of Rapho and Agnes L. Irvin of Penn

Squirrels Plenty.

Squirrels are reported exceedingly plentiful this year, our hickory nuts and chestnuts are scarce. This is unusual, for it is generally the case that when the nut crop is prolific squirrels are also plentiful and vice versa.

The

WILLIAM WALDORF ASTOR.

Rich New Yorker Who Has Just Apologized for Having Abandoned His Country.

William Waldorf Astor, who has just apologized for his self-expatriation by saying that the bitter criticism of American newspapers drove him from the country, became a naturalized British subject in 1899, about one year or so after it became widely known that he was intending to renounce his allegiance to the United States. Mr. Astor was born in New York city on March 31, 1848, the oldest son of John Jacob Astor. He was married in 1878 to Mary Dahlgren Paul, of Philadelphia, who, through her mother, was descended from the American naval hero, Dahlgren. Mr. Astor occupied a few public offices under the American government. He served as a member of the New York legislature in 1878 and in 1881, and he was United States minister to Italy from 1882 to 1885. He had lived much in England, and about ten years ago he started the Pall Mall Magazine and purchased the Pall Mall Gazette. Since then he has lived almost entirely in the British Isles.

To the Public.

Allow me to a few words in praise of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I can recommend it with the utmost confidence. It has done good work for me and will do the same for others. I had very severe cough and cold and feared I would get pneumonia but after taking the second dose of this medicine I felt better, three bottles of it cured my cold and the pains in my chest disappeared entirely. I am most respectfully yours for health, W. S. Meyers, 64-Thirty-seventh St., Wheeling, W. Va. For sale by J. S. Armyana Florin.

Church Chronicle.

Sabbath School at 9 a. m., Amos Risser Superintendent. Class meeting Sunday morning at 10 a. m. Prayer-meeting Thursday 7 p. m. Rev. Wayne Channell pastor, Rev. John Boehm assistant pastor.

Some Recent Odd Patents.

The summer season suggests all sorts of means of waylaying the pestiferous insects of the city and country. Numerous inventors have applied for patents on schemes for destroying the black, hard-shelled bugs which congregate about the electric lights in cities and are a terror and something of a menace to pedestrians. One inventor has secured government protection on an insect trap which is literally a bughouse. This is a shell of translucent material framed in the shape of a small house. Some sort of poisonous powder is placed in the inside, and the outside of the house is smeared with an adhesive composition. The equipment of the home furnishes a vast field for the inventor. One of the most interesting of the recent inventions of home comforts is that of a New Yorker who has invented a glass bathtub made to set in a false bottom which acts as a hot-water passage.—Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post.

An Animal Curiosity.

There are not very many transparent animals, but recent studies of two larval eels which possess this peculiarity, and which belong to the National museum, seem to show that among the possible advantages of being transparent is economy in personal decoration. In ordinary opaque animals the color markings are symmetrical on the two sides of the body but this is not the case with the transparent eels. Each of them, when looked at from one side, appears to have seven large black spots arranged at nearly regular intervals along the length of its body; but closer examination shows that in each case three of the spots are on the left side and four on the right, and irregularly spaced, but in such a manner that, on looking through the body, all seven appear in a symmetrical row.—Youth's Companion.

The Southern Woman's Voice.

I think the reason southern women have such deliciously soft voices may be traced to the deference of the men. Southern men look upon their women as angels. When a southern man's wife or daughter begins to talk she doesn't have to yell for the purpose of attracting his attention or getting him to stop his story and give her a chance. When a southern woman speaks the southern man is silent and attentive. He listens to her words as if they were honey dropping to his lips. This attitude of respect upon the part of the man for the woman, which seems to be universal through the south, makes the southern woman the gentle, sweet-voiced creature that she is.—J. Whitecomb Riley, in an interview.

Indictment of London.

London is possibly the most inconvenient and most untidy city of Europe. The streets are either muddy, slushy or dusty; they are littered with straw, cabbage leaves, newspaper papers and omnibus tickets, and are constantly being

If You Are So Disposed You Cannot Bequeath Your Corpse to the Doctors.

The supreme court of California has decided in a contest between next of kin on the one hand and claimants under a will on the other for the possession of a corpse, that a man cannot by will dispose of that which after his death will be his corpse, says the Chicago Chronicle. The custody of the corpse belongs to the next of kin in preference to the administrator. This view is based on the fact that the general English and American legal authorities establish the rule that, in the absence of statutory provisions, there is no property in a dead body.

If this rule is correct, the sooner statutory provisions are obtained enabling a man who feels that a great benefit to humanity will accrue through increase of medical knowledge, by the continuance post mortem of an investigation into his case, or that new light may be shed upon other scientific problems, to authorize by will such use of his corpse, the better.

In a Tight Place.

"You look thoughtful to-night, Smith," remarked Brown, as he stretched himself on the bed.

"Yes," sighed Smith; "I have just got a note from the landlady."

"What does she say?"

"She says that I must pay my back beard at once, or her daughter will sue me for breach of promise. I'm thinking what I'd better do."—Tit-Bits.

His Pertinent Question.

"What was that?" asked the old gentleman, suddenly appearing in the doorway.

"I—I guess it was a kissing bug," she answered, hesitatingly, while the young man tried his best to appear at ease.

"The old gentleman looked at them both sharply.

"Does the kissing bug make people blush?" he demanded.—Chicago Post.

The Inevitable.

"Why don't you make those two tiny children quit fighting?" exclaimed the kind-hearted lady.

"Well, miss," answered the mother of the infants, "I done tried, but it weren't no use. You see, I done name one of 'em 'Sampson' an' de yuthuh 'Schley.' And a white gemman tole me I might as well give up. 'Case dar warn' no hope of 'em ever livin' peaceable."—Washington Star.

The Roll Call.

"What's Bill a-doin' of?"

"Hoein' cotton."

"An' Dick—whar's he?"

"Splittin' rails."

"An' whar's Mandy?"

"Milkin' the cows."

Well, whar's Straddle?

What Ailed Him.

Winkers—What's the matter with your junior partner nowadays?

Minkers—In what way?

"He has become very absent-minded, never seems to notice what is going on, and appears to be drifting into a condition of chronic melancholia."

"Oh, that's all right. He recently became a proud and happy father, as the papers say."—N. Y. Weekly.

Evidence of Ignorance.

"Oh, she is the most ignorant girl I ever knew," remarked the girl in pink.

"Why do you say that?" asked the girl in blue.

"Why, two foreign noblemen were after her and the little ninny got all mixed up and actually accepted the one with the least important title. She has no head at all."—Chicago Post.

His Arrival Was Known.

"Tommy, run up and tell your sister I am here, will you?"

"Aw, what's the use? She knows it, 'cause when she see you comin' I heard her say: 'Dear me, there comes that empty-headed idiot again.'"—Tit-Bits.

Good as Brass.

Englishman—How your brass bedsteads?

Hotel Clerk—N-o, the bedsteads are made of soft wood, but you'll find the mattress nice and hard.—N. Y. Weekly.

Good Boy!

"Willie, I am glad to hear you say you would like to be an angel. What would you do if you were one?"

"I'd fly up to the top of that big cottonwood tree in our yard an' take my kite out of it."—Chicago Tribune.

Special Inducement.

Prospective Boarder—Why do you offer to board young men for six dollars less? Don't they eat as much?

Farmer—More, but you see I have six marriageable daughters to get off this year.—Chicago Daily News.

Matchless.

She is a matchless beauty, and that she can't forget. A match to make she's tried for years, but all in vain, so it appears that she is matchless yet.

—Lestle's Weekly.

Doing His Best.

"What a nice, sensible hat!" exclaimed he.

"I don't quite see why you speak of it in that manner," she answered.

"I was simply doing my best to catch the proper phrase. I have observed that whenever any garment that makes a woman less attractive comes into vogue it is invariably referred to as 'sensible.'"—Washington Star.

A Cautious Statistician.

"How large a permanent population has Ginnson Gulch?" inquired the tourist.

"None," answered the statistician.

"Why not?"

"Because the only permanent population is the one that comes to see the tourist."
