

A Startling Void.
 "Why did the parson stop suddenly and clutch at the corner of the pulpit?"
 "He happened to catch sight of one of old Mrs. Widemouth's yawns."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Inexcusable Procrastination.
 "They say he ran through his wife's money in two years."
 "What caused the delay?"—Town Topics.

Then and Now.
 "This is indeed a lonely world,"
 Said the widow, with a sigh;
 But now she has caught on again,
 And she winks her other eye.
 —Chicago Daily News.

FILIAL DEVOTION.

"Coward!"
 "Coward nuffin! Yer don't t'ink I'd lift me hand agin me mudder, do yer?"—Chicago American.

Horse Sense.
 There's a small grain of wisdom
 Which runneth this way:
 Men who have horse-sense
 Know how to say "neigh."
 —Philadelphia Record.

 "I see you advertise for some one to run your trust," said the young man to the magnate, "and I wish to apply for the position."
 "Have you ever had any experience running trusts?" inquired the magnate with interest.
 "No," replied the young man, "but I ran a bucket shop which robbed the people for five years."—Ohio State Journal.
