Colored Waiter Who Had Fought at San Juan Ends an Argument in a Jiffy.

The incident here related happened the other night at a Chicago boarding house. One of the boarders is an Englishman, who talks with much wisdom on many subjects. He is particularly strong on military matters, and one of his favorite pastimes is to criticize severely the tactics of famous generals in recent campaigns. He thinks nothing at all of "calling down" Gen. "Joe" Wheeler or Gen. MacArthur, and not even his own Lord Kitchener escapes his nimble tongue.

The other evening at dinner, says the Chicago Tribune, he happened to take up the fight at San Juan hill and after abusing the leaders to his heart's content he began to pick flaws in the courage and military discipline shown by the men. The other boarders, who knew the uselessness of arguing with the great military critic, were listening in broad silence.

It happened that one of the negro waiters employed in the boarding house was in the dining-room at the time the soldiers of the American army in Cuba were being denounced. It was seen that he was laboring under some suppressed excitement. Finally he could stand it no longer.

"Excuse me, sah," he began, approaching the orator. Before he could say any further the great military critic turned on him savagely.

"What do you mean by interfering in this conversation?" growled the critic. "What do you know about it, anyway?"

"Well, sah," the negro went on. "Of course I don't much about it, sah. But I sived ten years in the Twenty-fifth Regiment, sah, and I was in dat chawge myself. My own brother was killed right beside me in front of de block-house, sah. Dat's all I know about it."

The other boarders broke out into roars of applause, under cover of which the military critic beat a hasty retreat. The bulletin from the seat of war is to the effect that he is about to change his place of residence.

 "Yes! He is at the phone. Who am I talking to?" "Why, I'm Sammy Smart. My papa says you should bring me a jenny lind for Christmas and I want you to please be sure and bring me a

Matchless Jenny Lind

"All right Sammy, but you needn't have called me up to tell me, for that is the vehicle I intended bringing you. The Matchless Jenny Lind is the most satisfactory wagon I ever handled; I never get any complaints about it." "Yes, you know you brought my brother one three years ago and he's got it yet and it's just as good as ever. That's the reason I want one just like it." "Ha! Ha! Your Uncle Kris knows the good things. But you're a wise fellow Sammy, and I'll not forget you. Good bye, and a Merry Christmas."

30 Building Lots For Sale!

The undersigned offers for sale, Thirty Choice Building Lots in the village of Florin, Lancaster Co. Pa., at very reasonable prices.

Any person who intends to build should not by any means select a location until they have consulted H. B. Nissley. All the lots have a high elevation, good location, convenient to schools, post offices, churches, stores, P. R. depot and only ½ mile from Mount Joy. These lots would also be very suitable for an industry of some kind, the P. R. siding bordering them on the southwest, thereby saving the purchaser the additional cost of laying a siding which any manufacturing establishment should have.

Remember these lots will all be sold and if you want first choice come a running. Call on or address
