THE OSBORNE
HAY TEDDER
There are Other Tedders but There is Only one Leader and That is the Osborne.
The full value of a hay crop cannot be saved without it; by its use a perfect cutting of the grass is effected, and the result is a hay with all its nutritive qualities fully preserved and free from dirt and grit.
The forks toss the hay so evenly that it falls lightly to the ground, thoroughly open to the air and its influence to cure and dry rapidly.
The crank shaft, upon which the fork arms are journaled, is one piece of solid steel and is revolved by the full power of both of the tedder wheels, through a chain drive operating from the center of the axle.
In all tedders having a crank shaft of two distinct pieces, it is impossible to keep the forks properly spaced; in turning a corner one part of the shaft and the forks attached to it will be out of action; the forks are thus thrown out of the proper relation to each other and the result is a crop of badly tedded hay and a rapid wearing machine.
With the solid crank shaft of the Osborne the forks are always in their correct positions, whether in turning a corner or ted-ding straight ahead.
The Osborne Roller Bearings are again conspicuous in their application to lessen friction; three of them are on the axle and assist to decrease the draft of the machine and add power to the working parts.
The Forks, forged from crucible steel, are journaled upon the tubular steel arms, with the points of the tines rearward of their pivots, so that any obstruction will cause them to give quickly without danger of bending or breaking. Each fork is reinforced by a strong steel spring adding to its flexible and durable qualities.
The forks outside of the wheels ted any hay the wheels pass over. The power operating the crank shaft is thrown in or out of gear by a lever convenient to the driver.
The fork's can be made to ted as close to the ground as desired, by means of a lever close to the seat.
All jarring and jolting resulting from travel over rough or stony ground is compensated for by strong coiled springs on the front of the tedder frame. The driver's seat, mounted on a steel standard, is adjustable. All bearings are easy to oil. Combination pole and shafts are furnished with every tedder.

We have just received another car load of
