Tobacco News.

J. B. Stewart, of the Department of Agriculture, Bureau of soils, is superintending the harvesting of the crop of covergrown tobacco at the State Experimental plant on the farm of Dr. H. M. Alexander. Mr. Stewart reports that this crop of tobacco is as fine as that grown anywhere; that the texture of the leaf is a fine, and that the weight will be fully up to the average. He also states that the average weight per acre, of cover-grown tobacco is from 1,200 to 1,500 pounds per acre of raw tobacco and about 1,000 pounds per acre of cured or sweated tobacco. This tobacco is not harvested in the ordinary way, but is removed and hung up each leaf separately. A week ago the three ground or sand leaves were removed from each plant. The leaves from four rows are laid in piles and carried out in baskets. This work is done by men, but when it has been taken to the shed, girls hang it on "Snow" lath, seventy leaves to the lath and hung up to cure. On Wednesday the first picking or priming, as it is termed, of ripe leaves was made. The ripe leaves are not always on the bottom of the stalk, but are taken from any part of the plant, wherever they may appear. Mr. Stewart expects to remain until about September 10, by which time he expects the bulk of the crop to be housed. Raising tobacco in this manner costs about $100 per acre.
