NOVEL WAY OF GETTING A MEAL.

Works Like a Slot Machine and You Get What You Want.
People are always looking for something new; but who ever thought of being able to step to a wall, drop a nickel in a slot and out will come a cup of hot coffee, or a dime in another slot and be able to draw out a hot mince pie, and so on around. If you want chicken pot pie or any other kind of pie or custard, you hunt the proper slot, drop your money and get your goods.
It's one of the greatest schemes of the age and is in line with the American idea of doing everything on a rush.
The above piace can be found on Chestnut street, Philadelphia, a few doors above Eighth, and is called "The Automat Lunch rooms." There is no time lost at that place waiting to have your meal prepared and the rooms are almost constantly crowded. You will see no waiters there to tip, for there are none except those who clear away the dishes. Everybody waits upon himself. Napkins are found upon the table you occupy and knives, forks and spoons are under the shelf from which you draw your meal. One clerk is there to give you the proper change needed, for the slots will not work unless the required coin is used. For instance two nickels will not bring out an article that costs a dime. Everything is good and hot (excepting the ice cream) and the rooms are well patronized by a very nice class of ladies and gentlemen.

THE BOYS IN BLUE.

Interesting Reminiscences by Veterans of the Civil War.
During the war of the rebellion the sights and scenes were often heart rendering and sad—the terrible slaughter—the fearful wounds, the agony and suspense, the fatigue of the march, the exposure to the inclemency of the weather, often without food or shelter, one feels like drawing a veil over the scene; yet amidst all these there were some times ludicrous occurrences almost in the face of the enemy. The winter recalls one of these during the battle of Antietam. Our Mount Joy boys left home on Monday, were mustered in on Tuesday and arrived about two miles in the rear of the battle field about noon on Wednesday amidst the awful dim of the battle. They were a raw and undisciplined crowd. While passing through Hagerstown, a man who was from the vicinity of Mount Joy (whom we shall call Fritz) was seated in front of a hotel and recognized some of his old acquaintances among Co. E. He followed them to their halting place. During the night he bunked with Capt. Gallagher and a few of the Captain's friends. Fritz thought he knew the position of both armies. While he was eagerly engaged explaining the position of our army and what would likely happen should our army be defeated—suddenly there was an alarm. "Horrieh a mole," says Fritz. "Ich glawp de rebels kuma. Miner sale se kuma," and with an expletive that would not look well in print, he disappeared in the darkness and confusion. What ever became of him has never been satisfactorily explained.

Danger of Colds and Grip.
The greatest danger from colds and grip is their resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used however and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for these diseases we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that it is a certain preventive of that dangerous disease. It will cure a cold or an attack of the grip in less time than any other treatment. It is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by J. S. Carmany Florin. And all Mount Joy drug gists.
