THE KEYSTONE STATE

Latest News of Pennsylvania Told In Short Order.

Ignatz, Klenent, of Olyphant, 22 years old, accidentally shot and killed his young bride of two weeks in front of his home in that city. Klenent was married two weeks ago and had just returned from his wedding trip with his bride, who was but 17 years old. About one o'clock in the afternoon Klenent announced his intention of going out hunting. He picked up his shotgun and kissing his wife good-by started for the gate. She followed him out into the yard and playfully called out: "See if you can shoot me, Ignatz." Ignatz stopped at the gate and laughed. Then he raised the gun and pointed it at his bride, who stood only six feet away.
"I think I could, Annie," he said. "If the gun was loaded I'm certain I could shoot you." For a moment he stood thus when the gun was discharged. The bullet struck the girl in the left breast, killing her instantly. As she fell her husband dropped the gun and rushed to her side. He knelt over her body and kissed the cheeks which the blood was pouring from.

Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills cure all kidney and bladder ills. Read the following case:

Veteran Joshua Heller, of 706 South Walnut street, Urbana, Ill., says:
"In the fall of 1899 after getting Doan's Kidney Pills at Cunningham Bros.' drug store in Champaign and taking a course of treatment I told the readers of the paper that they had relieved me of kidney trouble, disposed of a lame back with pain across my loins and beneath the shoulder blades.
During the interval which had elapsed I have had occasion to resort to Doan's Kidney Pills when I noticed warnings of attack. On each and every occasion the results obtained were just as satisfactory as when the pills were first brought to my notice. I just as emphatically indorse the preparation today as I did over two years ago."

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mr. Heller will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Medical advice free; strictly confidential. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. For

The Chinese Carpenter.

"Did you ever get a Chinese carpenter to stop up a hole in the floor?" asked one flat dweller of another. The other had to admit that he had not.
Then the first proceeded to tell his wonderful tale, which the listener would not believe until he tried an Oriental for the same purpose the next month.
"There was a worn place in the floor that needed patching, and I thought I'd show my wife what a carpenter I was, so I sawed a square section of the planks out. But I cut my hand the first minute, and had to send for the Chinaman who has a shop right around the corner. When he got to the door he grunted something that sounded as if it might mean 'Where?' and I pointed to the square hole over in a dark corner.

"Wow," he said as he squinted at it a minute. Then he turned around and walked out. I thought—well, I didn't know what to think, I was so amazed.
I couldn't understand his giving up such a simple job. I was still puzzling over it half an hour later when I heard a knock. He said 'Wow,' or some other word like it, and held up a square board. Then he walked over to the dark corner of the room and—what do you think? He put the square in, and it fitted just as if it had grown there.
And he had just taken a peep at the hole from where he was standing in the door."

The flat dweller's tale is no fairy story. That's the way a Chinese carpenter stops a hole in the floor.

Fall in Birth Rate.
The best calculation that can be made shows that the average number of children in the white native family a century ago in the United States was more than six; in 1830 it had fallen to less than five; in 1860 to less than four; in 1872 to less than three; in 1900, among the "upper classes" in Boston, to less than two.

Trouble Brewing for Abel.

The man who runs the elevator at a terminal railway station was accosted in a dull time of day, not long ago, by a tall countrywoman with an expression on her face compounded of fright and determination.

"Could I ride up high as you go?" she asked, in a husky tone.

"Sure, rest'rant top floor," said the elevator man, and after facilitating her entrance with a judicious shove he slammed the door and started his car.
At the top floor he flung open the door and attempted to assist his passenger out.

She waved off his hand, however, and shook her head with great decision.

"I thought I'd need something to eat after it," she said briskly, "but 'tisn't what I'd been led to expect, and now all I want is to get downstairs again, take the four o'clock train for Pratt's Corner and tell Abel Jowders what I think of him.

"He's been holding it over me for the last six months—ever since stockholders' day—that he'd rid in an elevator and I never had. He's got one share of stock in the railroad, and what with that and his talk about the way his hair rose and his suspenders bust with the tremendous speed in the elevator, and how folk that stayed at home had no notion of the gimp it took to ride in one, there's been no living with him.
But you just let me get home! I left him housed with a grippy cold so I know he'll be there."

A Maiden's Troubles.

Helen—Gertrude lay awake almost the whole night last night worrying.

Clifford—What was she worrying about?

"Oh, she's afraid the man she is going to marry may love her more for her money than for herself."

"Why, Gertrude hasn't any money to speak of."

"I know, but she has a rich relative somewhere in the old country, and she thinks he may leave her something."

"But does her fiance know of this rich relative?"

"Oh, she hasn't any fiance yet; she's thinking of the time when she will have one."

Clara—Pa, George says he isn't half good enough to be my husband.

Pa—Humph! He talked to me as if he was plenty good enough to have me for a father-in-law.
