A MONSTER GOOSE CLUB.
Schemes Whereby the Poor of Manchester Get a Good Dinner Annually at Lowest Cost.

A famous institution in Manchester one of the items on the programme for each year is a goose club. This was originally founded to make it possible for poor people to have a really good dinner on Christmas day at the lowest cost, and to obviate the necessity of their joining any public house goose club, says Location Tit-Bits.

Seven years ago, when the club was started, there were 173 members; this year the membership totals considerably over 3,000, making it one of the biggest things of its kind in existence.

For ten weeks prior to the great "distribution" day the members of this club each pay one shilling per week, receiving at Christmas in return for their ten shillings about 13 shillings' worth of goods, including a goose or turkey (or, if preferred, a joint of beef, mutton, pork or ham), bread, cake, flour, currants, cheese and tea—enough for a good meal for 20 people.

The weights for last year are interesting, including 1 1/2 tons of tea (sufficient to provide a cupful for every man, woman and child in Manchester), flour, nine tons; bread, six tons; cake, six tons; cheese, 1 1/2 tons; fruit, three tons; geese, etc., 16 tons; a grand total of 43 tons.

Money in Transit Protected by Policies Against Every Possible Hazard.

The careless way in which large packages of bank notes are tossed through the windows of the New York post office for transmission to out-of-town points has excited the wonder of persons familiar with the risks involved and the sums at stake. The movement is especially heavy just now, states the New York Post of recent date, aggregating from $3,000,000 to $5,000,000 a week, and including consignments from most of the large banks and banking houses of the city. The currency is sent everywhere in single packages containing $10,000 or less, protected by policies of insurance protecting the owners against every possible hazard at rates varying from 15 cents to 30 cents per $1,000 of currency insured. Most of the notes are $5, $10 and $20 denominations, besides supplies of ones and twos for use as "hand-to-hand money" for crop movement purposes.

These transfers go to all sections of the United States and Canada, Great Britain and the continental points. The business has now grown to large proportions and is written by some of the strongest insurance companies of Europe and America. One very interesting claim paid a few days ago was for the loss of a parcel containing $2,700 in bank notes shipped through the mails by a Canadian institution. The destination was a small post office, where the business was so light that the postmaster, not having the use of a safe in which to store valuables, was forced to take home every night undelivered registered mail that had arrived during the day. The package of bank notes was taken out of the office in this way, and just before the postmaster reached home he was attacked by footpads and relieved of the money. The loss was immediately reported, and the insurance company at once reimbursed the institution, at the same time offering $500 reward for the detection of the thieves. The case has not been cleared up yet.

Packages containing $20,000 of insured bank notes were on the train that went through a bridge in a southern state last week. New York underwriters were much concerned over the incident until they discovered that the car in which the insured packages were stored remained safe on the rails. The largest single risk ever written was taken in England some time ago, when one package containing $25,000,000 was insured.

Drumming Up Trade.
Things matrimonial being a trifle dull in Hamilton county, Mo., Probate Judge Martin has undertaken to start a little boom by publishing advertisements which descend on the joys of wedded life. Among the ads. is this: "Our fire will do for two. Matrimony, like Bethlehem's star, is guiding the wise men and maidens of the east and of the west to the only condition under which human existence is complete and commendable. I have tried it for more than 50 years, and have never found marriage a failure yet."

Slight Correction in Title.

HOW TO BECOME MUSCULAR

Example of the Japanese is recommended to Those Who Wish to Gain Strength

Although the Japanese are a race of small stature, they are among the strongest in the world. Any boy of 14 or 15 who will faithfully practice the system of prying strength will find himself at the end of a few months able to cope in a power with the average man of 25, and all this without the danus practice of lifting very heavy weights. It should always be remembered that rest must be taken after exercise.

Whistling, deep breathing, standing, though not in a strained position and throwing the chest out, and drawing the abdomen in and holding it there for a few minutes, and let the chest fall inward again and the abdomen outward. For 20 minutes to half an hour is a long enough time to devote to jujitsu, and this includes the time spent in breathing during the exercise.

For deep, correct breathing, one of the best exercises is in inhaling the breath through either the nostrils or the mouth, and exhaling always let the breath escape through the mouth.

SILENCE NOT ALWAYS BEST.

One Woman Found a Flaw in the Time-honored Adage—Experience with Swedish Cook.

Misunderstandings sometimes arise from slight causes, and occasionally one occurs which seems to prove that silence is not always good. In this case trouble was brewed without a word being spoken. Young Mrs. Bond's Swedish cook, says the Youth's Companion, was scrupulously neat about her work, but her figure was so unlovely, and her countenance so unprepossessing that her overfastidious young mistress could never bear to look at her. Instead, whenever the young housekeeper found it necessary to interview her unattractive maid she kept her eyes fixed upon a large black coat scuttle that always stood before the kitchen stove.

One day as Mrs. Bond stood, as usual, in the doorway gazing intently at the coal hole while Matilda was telling what groceries were needed, the handmaiden unexpectedly changed the subject, and proceeded to give vent to the pent-up feelings of many weeks.

"What for you all tam luke at my's coal bucket, messes?" exclaimed Matilda, with evident resentment. "Every day I scrub beam inside and I scrub beam outside, until he was just so clean as my can wash beam—luke, messes. I have scrub all she's skeen of beam—but all the tams you luke—luke at beam like you tank I don't wash beam at all! I never sees no lady so particular about she's coal bucket!"

NATIONAL SELFISHNESS.

Average Citizen Sneers at Civic Reformer—Balks All Progressive Efforts.

A great pall of selfishness covers this country from ocean to ocean, and the one demand of the high average citizen is to be left alone," says Frederick Trevor Hill, in Everybody's Magazine. "To gratify this desire he is ready and willing—no matter how honest he may personally be—to countenance anything and everything, and to allow each man to be a law unto himself. It is daily becoming more fashionable and knowing to sneer at the civic reformer and belittle his efforts in every line. The first thing he hears about any man who takes off his coat and starts in to better existing conditions is that he is 'out for the snuff' or that 'he won't last long,' but the usual verdict is that the reformer is a hypocrite and beside—'Well, it's much harder to do business than it formerly was.' That, after all, is the unparadiseable sin. It is harder to do business—an unusually cautious phrase in these days of plain speaking—and anybody who anything which stands in the way of short cuts is a nuisance, to be eliminated at the earliest opportunity."

USE OF COTTON THREAD.

Directly Forced by Napoleon's Seizure of Hamburg Which Cut Off the Supply of Silk.

Ex-Provost Clark of Paisley, England, has been relating the story of the cotton sewing thread, which was first used in that town in the weaving of "dies" as a substitute for silk, which stopped Napoleon in 1803 when he seized Hamburg, says the New York Tribune. Mr. Clark's grandfather and his son then thought of cotton thread, which worked so smoothly that Mr. Clark's father, then a youth, took to recommending it to women instead of linen, then mostly used.

Originally it was sold in hanks or skeins. These the women had to wind into little balls, as they do a cut of wool at the present day. Wishing to convenience them, young Clark on selling a skein of thread would sit down at a spinning wheel and wind the thread on a bobbin, for which he charged a halfpenny. This halfpenny was refunded when the empty bobbin was returned. Such was the beginning of cotton thread.

NO THIEVES THERE.

In Bermuda They Couldn't Dispose of Plunder if They Stole—An Idle Community.

The capture of the two negroes in this city charged with having looted a jewelry shop in Hamilton, Bermuda, will be the chief topic of conversation for the winter in that idyllic community, says the New York World.

Bermuda is not accustomed to thieves. No experienced Bermudian will enter the profession of pilfering, a least of taking things that cannot be immediately eaten.

For what can be done with them? If any property is taken the officers of the law have only to watch the steamship docks. The stuff cannot be disposed of on the islands. They are too small and everybody knows everybody.

It is a Bermudian legend that once a bicycle was stolen. It was the talk of the town. The ensuing problem of the thief was how to get any good of it. He did not dare do it; he could not send it out of the country.

That he might "save it up" was proved when six months later a fisherman brought up a missing wheel from a fishery deep water upon his hook.

Looking for Ancient Treasures.

As a result of the great success achieved in recovering antique treasures from wreckage, researches have recently been instituted for the lost fleet of Xerxes, which went down about 2,300 years ago. The bed of the sea is to be searched with the hydroscope, the newly invented marine instrument of great power. Search is later to be made for the ship chartered by Pompey to carry the art treasures which he had seized at Athens back to Rome, and which was wrecked in the archipelago something like 1,350 years ago.

Not Altered the Case.

Dr. Samuel Johnson, one time on a visit to Oxford, and after breakfast he and his host were walking in the garden when the host stooped down and, pulling a handful of weeds, threw them over into a neighbor's garden. "That," said the doctor, "is a very unneighborly action," to which the host replied: "My neighbor doctor, is a dissembler." "In that case I have no objection to offer, sir," returned the doctor.
