Anat Request of a Dying Millionaire Obeyed by His Mourning Children.

A millionaice had died. There had been great apparent grief among those who had been most substantially remembered. And some real-for-sure regret among those who had expected to, and hadn't got a dollar, relates the Baltimore American.

The funeral was over. The millionsire's sons had gathered for conference. Among the pet plans of the old man's declining days was a magnificent palace, on whose style of construction he had disagreed with every otner member of the family. "You will remember," said the eldest con, choking back his emotion wonderfully well, "that it was the last request that we carry out every plan he had made regarding the new house."

"Yes," they groaned in chorus. "Well, I have arranged that it be done." Thereupon he piled all the plans of his father's architect into a large wastebasket and bore them triumphantly out to the rubbish bin in the back alley.

"I may say truthfully that it is a pleasure to carry out the plans, even though we disagreed in their forming," replied the young man as he returned with the empty bask t.

Rabbits, which have been the pest of Australia and New Zealand for many years, have now become a source of large revenue. Frozen rabbits to the value of over $805,000 were exported from Victoria, New Zealand, last year, in addition to $70,000 worth of preserved 1ab bits. This business is daily increasing. Now that the trapping industry is such an important one, employing as it does several thousand hands, and is largely effective in keeping the rabbit pest in check, the chances are that the methods of compulsory suppression now enforced on landholders will at least be moderated by the government. The rabbits in Australia and New Zealand were originally shipped from England, and it is almost impossible to keep them out of the cattle ranches. Fences have been built around these vast stations with a wire netting sunk 18 inches below the surface to prevent the rabbits from getting inside, but as soon as grass becomes short on the outside, "Mr. Bunnie" will burrow under the wire netting and eat up the grass on the inside.

Rabbits in this country rarely burrow but are to be found in stumps of trees and under fallen timber. In and about Chicago, where land is divided for building purposes, rabbits make their homes under the wooden sidewalks, and can be easily turned out by a good dog. Such, however, is not the habit of the Australian pest.

Old Stone Chimney Stands as a Reminder That English Once Held City of Detroit.

Dorr, in Four- in 4-ounce tin boxes, the lids of which Track News, on the left, now nestling are perforated so that it can easily be mongst huge brick factories, is the picturesque stone chimney known as "Fort Schlosser." This old stack, which has been spared in the march of improvements, has weathered many seasons since its capacious flue drew the sparks from Joncaire's hearth in the days of the French occupation. Standing at the head of the old portage around the falls, the Joncaire house was a landmark of importance in the early settlement of the frontier. Several buildings have been located here. The chimney, of substantial limestone masonry, remains a mute witness of the onward sweep of evilization, and the vast changes of two enturies in the environment of ataract.
