Should Have Lived Here

Michael G. Hoke, a West Cornwall man, had warrants issued for the arrest of the entire School Board of the township. He charges the six directors with having awarded one of them the contract for digging a cistern.

The action is brought under the act of 1860, which prohibits members of Councils, School Boards and other public officials from accepting contracts for work for the public in their respective districts. Some weeks ago Hoke brought a prosecution against the same man for laying a cement pavement for the School Board in the same township.

If Mr. Hoke would have lived in Mount Joy before the "Reform" Council, he certainly would have had plenty to do along that line.

LAST SUMMER'S PRODUCT WORTH $3,332,000

The Following of Interest to Farmers, Appeared in Yesterday's North American It is estimated $3,332,000, in round figures, is the amount the farmers of Lancaster county will receive for the tobacco crop which they raised last summer, and which is now in the curing barns. It is the biggest crop of tobacco the farmers have raised in many years, and, in point of quality, it is the finest ever grown here.

From reports presented at a recent meeting of the Tobacco Growers' Association, it is estimated that the acreage last season was about 18,000 acres, a decided increase over the acreage of the previous season.

Encouraged by the fancy figures received last year, in some cases as high as twenty cents a pound, the farmers greatly increased their acreage this year, and devoted more attention to this money making crop.

The average yield per acre in the last few years, has been about 1400 pounds, and, while this is estimated as the average for this year, many growers say their average will run to 2000 pounds.

About one-half of the crop has already been sold at prices ranging from 12 to 16 cents per pound.

Figuring at 14 cents per pound as an average price, the total sum realized will be about $3,332,000.

Much of the money to pay for this immense crop comes from outside the county, most of it from New York state.

The yield in money per acre, at the present prevailing prices, is about $200. It costs from $55 to $75 to raise an acre of tobacco, and this will leave a net profit of $125 to $150 per acre.

The farmer who has an 80-acre farm, of which ten acres is planted in tobacco, will have a net profit of from 1,200.00 to 1,500.00 from the ten acre field, more, probably than from his seventy other acres all taken together.

Tobacco has been one of the most important factors in making Lancaster county the richest agricultural district in the United States. The other crops which their farmers grow do not yield so largely in cash.

This accounts for the large number of mortgages that are now canceled yearly and for the many successful banking institutions that are found in this rich agricultural community.
