A Little Plain Talk on Our Borough's Institution

The School year just closed has been a year marked by a good spirit of co-operation.

Co-operation of pupils.—By this we mean that the pupils in response to the instruction of the teachers have worked well. They have displayed readiness to learn; and no matter what few occasional instances of friction occurred, the general tone of the student body was good.

Although the school year opened earlier than usual, yet the schools were full at the very beginning. The stragglers that come and go belong to that floating population which characterizes many communities. The attendance was good generally. Regular attendance is one important means of having teacher, school, and pupil in closest relationship for work.

Co-operation of teachers.—Only when teachers work in harmony with the purpose of education as signified by a school system does the whole educational machinery of the town schools move smoothly.

Each teacher needs to feel the importance of her position as a teacher, the importance of the duties of a teacher as they relate to life, the importance of the responsibility which each pupil in her school calls for her. Judging by the general tone of our schools we think it can be said truthfully that seriousness in the important relationships was felt by the teachers. The spirit of work marked the conduct of the schools.

The problem of the teachers is to make each child's life as rich as possible, to develop the good and repress the wrong, to fill the mind with the facts of knowledge in such a way as to make the child become a useful man or woman. The teacher is the strongest safeguard of public peace and public good in a community. When co-operation exists among teachers then does the greatest efficiency result.

Co-operation of parents.—It is of course true that no work with children can be done well unless parents manifest sympathetic interest in the work of their children. With that aiding, discipline, efficiency, heart development follows. The teacher then is relieved from the friction of unseemly opposition, has doubled her power of moral upbuilding, and has a keen sense of the appreciation of her work in forming young minds.

Many parents have visited the schools during the year, but not enough of them have done so. Visiting is a spur to both teacher and pupil, and is the best way of showing the parental attitude in school matters. The person who would criticize school affairs and yet never step inside the schools shows but the blindness of ignorance, not the clear-sightedness of wisdom. Teachers and school officers want judgment passed on their work, and are happy to greet all who are earnestly aiding to better school conditions.

Co-operation of direction.—A jarring school board, torn by petty jealousies or short-sighted policies is the greatest stone in the road of good school organization; but when harmony pervades and genuine public interest is the stimulating motive, then advance becomes real and appreciative, then the public rest easy knowing that school affairs are safe, then life in school work is assured. Our board of directors have never withdrawn their assistance when needed, but have shown that they feel the responsibility placed upon them and are deeply concerned about the standing and efficiency of our schools. We are thankful to them for the hearty co-operation they have given us and for the feeling of good fellowship generally existing.

During the year an excellent piano has been placed in the high school through the efforts of the Class of '07, the remaining students of the school, and the kindness of friends. Henry Reist a '07 graduate, turned over to the school a credit of $85 held with the piano firm of Kirk Johnson & Co., Lancaster.

The bill entered in our state legislature for high school supervision under the department of public instruction was defeated. This was unfortunate, for the supervision is much needed to promote great uniformity and stimulate interest in high school work.

The appropriation to the public schools is now $15,000,000, an increase of $1,000,000. Gradually Pennsylvania moves up to the place she should hold as a leader in educational thought. The end of state aid for public school work is not yet. We are but beginning to recognize the scope and great importance of public education.

The bill increasing the pay of teachers from $35 as a minimum to $40 and $50 was also before the last legislature. Such legislation is excellent. Benjamin Harrison once said that "A cheap coat makes a cheap man." It is equally true that a cheap teacher makes a cheap school. If the best teacher is required, then, suitable remuneration must be paid.

It is to be hoped that no backward step will ever be taken in our own town schools. None will be taken if men continue to shoulder their responsibilities bravely and not shrink from new conditions which demand new means of accomplishment. But there must ever be an open eye for the best and ever a true spirit to guide. Hope and confidence and fame are as necessary in school affairs as in business.

Geo. E. Mark, Prin. of Schools.

The combined age of these two old ladies is more than 200 years and they have been residing in Mount Joy for more than half a century.

New Pipe Line Completed.

A new double pipe line which the Standard Oil Company was laying from its pumping station at Millway through here to Bayonne, N. J., was finished last Friday. The entire line is 140 miles long. Work was commenced on it at different places. There are now two new lines of pipe running from the twenty-two tanks at Millway.

Why Not the First National?

Monday evening, June 3, our School Board will meet for organization. Among the positions to be filled is that of Treasurer of the Board. The position is worth about $75 a year, and the duties are light; but, it is possible to save this amount to the town each year, and if the saving is made and applied to the retirement of bonds, the amount saved the taxpayers in a score of years would be worth considering. Until some years since the Borough elected a citizen Borough Treasurer at a salary; but finally the Union National Bank was elected to the position without salary, and it has filled the position creditably. We suggest that, as there is nothing in the school laws against a bank acting as treasurer of the Board, that a bank be elected treasurer, without salary. Since the Union National has the Borough and Water accounts, it seems fair that the other bank should have the school account, and we are reliably informed that at the meeting of the directors of the First National Bank yesterday, a director having sounded the Board on the matter, the directors present all favored the bank's acceptance of the trusteeship, without salary, if elected. Marietta's school board has a bank for treasurer, and if one of our directors will nominate the First National Bank, its election of necessity would follow, since all members are sworn to look out for the best interest of the taxpayers, and no member could well vote against the bank if he values the good opinion of his constituents.

Base Ball

Last week the Elizabethtown Chronicle was throwing roses at its ball players for their good work. In Saturday's game they drew nothing but a shower of eggs which we hope they do not throw at our brother editor in reply.

The local juniors played their opening game here on Saturday afternoon with the Marietta juniors as their opponents. There was much ado all thru the game and when the storm was over the visitors had won by a score of 12 to 14. The local battery was Garman, Breneman and Hauenstein. J. Hendrix was the ump.

The base ball team known as the White Roses of Elizabethtown, that won several such good games, was walloped for fair by the Florin team on Saturday by a score of 21 to 10. Hershey started to pitch for Florin and was relieved in the third by Schroll, Conrad being the receiving end. With a good diamond, the local team is one of the best amateur teams that represented that village since the day that Joseph Welfly tells about so frequently, when it took a horse and cart to bring the balls back. Two umpires were required, Ishler being ruled out in the third, and was replaced by "Darling". Roland of Philadelphia, who gained popularity on the diamond the days Jimmy Sheekard was playing lot ball at Marietta.

The summary of the game was as follows: Two-base hits, everybody on the Florin team. Stolen bases, all that could. First base on balls and errors, lots of 'em. Hit by pitcher, Duffy, an awful whack. Struck out, everybody. Umpire, Ish and Darling. Collector, Kraybill. Umbrella holder, Heiner. Time, 4 hours, slow time. Attendance, 000,71.
