NEWTOWN

John Divit of Lancaster visited his parents on Sunday.

Herman Frank and family of York were visitors over Sunday at the home of Lewis Resh.

Mrs. Benjamin Rhoads and family of Columbia spent Sunday with relatives in this place.

The interior of the public school building in this place will be improved by a new coat of paper. Emanuel Myers will do the work.

The family of William Fogie, rural mail carrier of Route 1 consisting of eight children were baptized last Sunday in Mount Joy under the rules of the Episcopal church.

Samuel S. Greider, residing near here, has a small tract of land which he sowed last fall in a new variety known as Winter oats. He got the seed from the experimental station for trial, and the crop which will be cut in the near future, promises to be prolific.

Taken to the Hospital

A middle aged man employed on the trolley line, was found in a helpless condition yesterday noon in front of the Methodist church. Whether intoxicated or suffering from two badly mashed fingers we are unable to say but nevertheless he was taken to the council chamber where Dr. J. J. Newpher attended him. Later he came around all right, but in the evening again became ill at the Red Lion hotel and was then removed to the hospital at Lancaster.

Autoists Pass Thru

Nine of the contestants for the Hower trophy and thirty for the Glidden trophy passed thru here between 8.05 and 9.30 yesterday forenoon and attracted the attention of the entire community. At Washington House one of the cars ran against the corner stone almost threw the occupants but the machine escaped damage. In all there were 48 machines and thru town.

Creamery Wiped Out

The fire that broke out Thursday morning at Lancaster Junction reduced an ice house and creamery to blackened ruins. The buildings were of frame and were situated close to the tracks of the Reading railroad. The supposed cause was sparks from the locomotive of a special train for Penryn.

The creamery was operated by a company and its business was good.

May Lose Rural Routes

On account of bad roads this state may lose some of its rural routes, is a dispatch sent out from Washington, D. C., recently. Lancaster county people ought to be deeply interested in this matter, for there are many miles of road hereabouts that cannot by any stretch of courtesy be called "good" in winter and early spring.

Just Like Mileage Books

The Conestoga Traction Company has issued an order, putting the 100-coupon books on the same basis as railroad mileage. Hereafter these books will be good for passage no matter by whom they are presented. They will also be good for as many persons as the holder of the book wishes to pay for.

Bad Horses, These

Samuel Stauffer, who lives with Elmer E. Brandt, on the Brandt farm, in East Donegal, was thrown from a colt Wednesday morning and had his left arm dislocated at the elbow. A young son of Rev. Eshleman, northeast of Rheems, was thrown from a horse and now carries his arm in a sling. No bones broken.

Something Unusual

Mrs. Sarah E. Maurer, widow of the late Daniel C. Maurer, a Harburg Alderman, whose remains were recently laid to rest in the cemetery, deserves more passing notice. She is a daughter of Mrs. H. C. Kern, of Lancaster.

These southern coyotes, or prairie wolves, are only about one-third the size of the big gray timber wolves of the northern Rockies, writes Theodore Roosevelt, in Scribner's. They are too small to meddle with full-grown horses and cattle, but pick up young calves and kill sheep as well as any small domesticated animal that they can get at. The big wolves flee from the neighborhood of anything like close settlements, but coyotes hang around the neighborhood of man much more persistently. They show a fox-like cunning in catching rabbits, prairie-dogs, gophers, and the like.

After midnight they are noisy, and their melancholy wailing and yelling are familiar sounds to all who pass over the plains. The young are brought forth in holes in cut banks or similar localities. Within my own experience I have known of the finding of but two families. In one there was but a single family of five cubs and one old animal, undoubtedly the mother; in the other case there were 10 or 11 cubs and two old females, which had apparently shared the burrow or cave, though living in separate pockets.

In neither case was any full-grown coyote found in the neighborhood; as regards these particular litters, the father seemingly had nothing to do with taking care of or supporting the family. I am not able to say whether this was accidental or whether it is a rule that only the mother lives with and takes care of the litter; I have heard contrary statements about the matter from hunters who should know. Unfortunately I have learned from long experience that it is only exceptional hunters who can be trusted to give accurate descriptions of the habits of any beast, save such as are connected with its chase. Coyotes are sharp, wary, knowing creatures, and on most occasions take care to keep out of harm's way.

Although Japan has practically a monopoly of blind masseurs, a few professionals may be found scattered about the capitals of the world. New York has several of them, not Japanese, but the native or European product.

"It must be understood," said an instructor in massage, "that the blind of countries other than Japan have been backward about preparing themselves. Only recently have they begun to think it possible. From time to time travelers and invalids who have profited by the treatment of the Japanese in their own land have come back with tales of the wonderful benefits received, but it never occurred to them that the blind here might utilize their talents in the same way.

"At last, however, a few of the blind have come to realize their possibilities and at a school of massage in New York a number of them have applied for instruction. Some of these applicants have finished the course, and probably are practicing in the town now, either with private patients or in a sanitarium. Among the pupils I remember one woman from Brooklyn. I have kept her in mind because she was the most skillful hand at massage I ever knew. I don't see how even the Japs could beat her. Her hands were alive with magnetism. She seemed to know by instinct what set of muscles required treatment, and the case of locomotor ataxia that could hold out against her was stubborn, indeed. She went west several months ago, but possibly other blind recruits equally capable have been graduated since then to take her place."
