SOME USEFUL INFORMATION FOR FARMERS-READ IT

Healthfulness of Home Depends on Food and Water-World's Supply of Live Stock-Plant a Wind Brake For Your Buildings-Other Items.

Hen Manure is too concentrated a fertilizer to be put on the land liberally, as is done with other man-It should be mixed with dust or litter while accumulation, and even then one should spread the stuff We have known of mature apple trees being knocked out by too much kindness in the application of this fertilizer.

Treating seed corn with coal tar by stirring a small quantity of it in a peck of seed at a time so that each kernel is smeared with a little of the tar is said to keep the crows and it is planted. If the kenels are inclined to stick together more corn should be worked in and possibly a little flour, which will tend to keep the kernels apart.

Every farmstead located in a sec ion where winters are cold and pines of firs. The strip devoted to such wind break ought to be located at a sufficient distance from the house and farm buildings to give for feed lots, garden, etc. This strip should be put in mellow condition and given frequent cultivation after the young trees are set. It is well to select for the shelter belt varieties which are recommended by the nearestj reliable nurseyman Only those trees should be bought which are guaranteed to have good roots and to grow when properly care for. Trees that have been transplanted several times in the nursery are far preferable to those which have not been. The important thing to keep in mind in buying the trees is not how cheaply they can be bought, but, having been set how well they will do and how thrifty and symmetrical a shelter belt they will make. Shoddy poor rooted trees that can be got for a song are the nost expensive kind of trees that a fellow can buy in the long run. While the statistics of the world's supply of live stock are incomplete the latest estimates are interesting Sheep are the most numerous of the domestic animals, and their total number is placed at 580,000,000. In this industry Australia ranks first with 88,000,000 head, Argentina next with 67,000,000, and the United States third with 57,000,000 head The world's supply of cattle is given as 430,000,000 head, and in this line British India leads with 91,000,000 head, including buffaloes and buffalo calves. The United States stands second with 70,000,000 head and Russia third with 37,000,000. In the raising of hogs the United States far and away in the lead, being credited with 50,000,000, or more than a third of the world supply. Gersecond with 22,000,00 head, while Euopean Russia has a bout 11,000,000. The total number of horses is placed at 95,000,000 head, and the United States and European Russia rank about even with between 20,000,000 and 25, 0000,000 each. This country is credited with more than half of the 7,500,000 mules. Asiatic Turkey raises most asses, British India leads in goats, Asiatic Russia has most camels, while Russia leads in the number of reindeer. The healthfulness prevailing in any home depends in part upon the wholesomeness of the food consumed but in much larger measure upon the water supply, the purify of which is largely affected by the proximity of contaminating causes, such as the cesspools. Where it is not feasible to install a toilet system with water tight drainage to a cesspool located at a safe distance from the water supply the most rational equipment for the outhouse is a substantial drawer made of two inch stuff, the contents of which can be killed by the addition of slacked lime from time to time and which can be hauled afield and dumped as often as may be necessary. By such disposal of night soil the danger of a contamination of the water supply is reduced to a minimum. We realize that this is not a pleasant subject to discuss, but it is practical and vital and concerns chiefly those who are least able to foot heavy doctor's hills. Where a cospool is already.

in bad shape conditions may be improved by dumping in half a barrel or so of quick lime, which will put a quietus on any disease germs which may be lurking there. It should then be cleaned out and filled. and a better system installed.
