"I wouldn't take a thousand dollars for the good VINOL has done me. I was told that Cod Liver Oil was the medicine I needed for my weakened condition and poor blood. I could not take the greasy mixture, and when our druggist told me that VINOL contained not only iron but all the medicinal properties of Cod Liver Oil without the taste or oil or bad taste, I made my mind that was the medicine for me. I tried it and to-day am strong and well."

Shipped 15 Carloads of Truck
Fifteen carloads of onions and thousands of tons of cabbage have been shipped from the Heinz pickle farms at Middletown this season. Besides this there have been large shipments of cucumbers, peppers, tomatoes, horseradish, martynias and manga melons. All of the crops except the tomatoes were very large, being due to the fact that this vegetable was wanted for seeds and few were planted.

The cucumbers are all put in pickle at the farms and are not sent out only in small shipments or just as they are needed at the various Heinz plants. The horseradish is shipped shortly after it is taken from the ground.

Fell Down Steps

Mrs. Michael Kissling, who resides on Second street, Marietta, was the victim of a serious falling accident at her home Friday morning. Mrs. Kissling was in the act of descending the steps into the cellar when she lost her balance and fell to the bottom. No bones were broken but the bruises are "too numerous to mention."

PLEASANT HILL

We are getting an ample supply of the white element here at this writing. Winter is certainly on the job and from all appearances has come to stay. An early winter means an early spring, so let's go gallegher.

The protracted meeting that is being conducted at the Church of the Brethren down at Rheems is well attended and a good spirit is manifested there in which means a whole lot.

A lone gunner was canvassing Harvey Hostetter's corn field in search of a stray bunny that was not rounded up during the opening campaign on Saturday.

Frank Reapsome and your correspondent were busily engaged last week in getting his tobacco crop in shape, he having sold for 10 and 4 to a Lancaster firm. Jacob Shank and Irvin Fridy sold to the same party at the above named figure.

Miss Barbara Neideigh, has been confined in the house with a severe cold, therefore being unable to attend school last week.

Mrs. J. E. Williams and Mrs. E. R. Neideigh attended the Bible services held in the College Chapel last Friday evening.

J. E. Williams and your correspondent attended Bible services at the College last Thursday evening.

We had a duck roast at the fort last Sunday and all enjoyed the festivities to a considerable degree. There was one like the cat that fell into a bucket of milk, got a little too much of the good thing.

Harry Zeigler our Marietta butcher failed to materialize last Saturday at the fort owing to bad roads.

Jacob Eby Williams butchered a large porker last week.

Automobile traveling around here at present is like the boy who fell out of the balloon—not in it.

Edward R. Neideigh who had been working up on the Masonic plant for several months surrendered his job on Friday and turned his attention to getting his tobacco ready for market.

Enos Floyd who had been employed by Phares Landis during the threshing season has secured a position with Buch Son's Company in Elizabethtown, working on a night shift.

Our produce man of Florin paid 45 cents in hard cash last Thursday for eggs. The chickens have caught on to the game and only one egg a day is the allowance we are getting at this present time.

When Jakey Shank stepped into the tobacco cellar last Friday morning he had his legs encased in gunning sacks that reached to his knees. We did not catch on to the racket until an explanation was made stating that snow banks of no mean dimensions were the obstacles he had to contend with in his perambulations.

Harvey Hostetter was busily employed in hauling stone for Horace Will near the Mount Tunnel Cemetery for building purposes.

They inform me that wild geese were seen sailing majestically thru the air near here on Sunday. Hence the snow storm.

Information has reached us here that Howard I. Neideigh, who farms the Brandt estate back of Mount Joy lost a valuable horse last week by colic. He is a brother of Mrs. Annie N. Williams of the fort.

The Mississippi

IT IS THE LONGEST WATERWAY IN THE WORLD.

Some Remarkable and Interesting Facts About the World's Greatest Waterway—We Can Ride 4,200 Miles in a Boat in This Stream.

The longest voyage possible from New York to any European port via one body of water, the Atlantic Ocean, is less than 4,000 miles. But an American may make a longer voyage via one body of water and never leave the interior of his own country. For the length of our great Mississippi River, which geographers now consider really the main stream is 4,200 miles, writes a traveler.

It is a wasteful river; enough good soil is ejected annually from its mouth to make a great many farms. If it were possible to collect and compress this sediment, it would make a block 260 feet high and one mile square at the base. Or, think of it as being a quantity of rich silt sufficient to plaster six inches deep 300 farms of 1,000 acres each.

And water! Stand on the levee bank at flood time anywhere below the mouth of the Ohio, and for every pulse beat of your wrist there passes before you 14,000,000 cubic feet of water; $40,000,000 every minute.

Curiously enough this vast mass of water flows up hill to the Gulf. For it has been found that the mouth of the river is much further from the center of the earth than is its source.

It is the so called "centrifugal force" or inertia, produced by the rotation of the earth that keeps the stream moving toward the equator. The water is acted upon somewhat as it is when you rapidly swing a pail of it about your head. If the old earth should stop rotating, the Mississippi would flow north; as it is, inertia throws it southward.

That is not the only curious effect for which the rotation of the earth is responsible. Another most queer thing is that the right bank wears more than the left one, owing to a westward inertia produced by the earth's motion eastward.

Any one who has ever had to lie in bed in one place for a long time knows how tiresome it gets and what a relief it is to make a change. Perhaps this is why old "Father of Waters," as the Indians called it, shifts so restlessly; for it has been lying in its bed a long time. As it lies there upon its back, with its arms outstretched across great States, it shifts and tosses very uneasily. Sometimes it grows fretful from very weariness, no doubt, of lying in one place; and then it flings itself right out of bed for its banks are low.

These wriggles are tremendously relieving to the old stream, but they bring disasters and dismay to farmers ensconced near-by. They feel deeply aggrieved, not to say annoyed, when the old father squirms out to lie quietly. For this reason the banks, or sides of the bed, have been raised by "levees," just as the sides of your bed were built up high when you were very little and prone to toss about. The tendency of the stream to make "cut-offs" across its multitudinous crooked tangle of bends is productive of curious results. For many of these necks are long and narrow, 15 or 20 miles around and only two or three miles across. At time of flood the river has a tendency to take the shortest cut. It often rushes across these narrow necks, establishing new and shorter channels.

Then a town which was a "river town" when the sun set will find itself at sunrise far in the country, miles away from the river. Sometimes a planter goes to sleep upon his farm in one State and wakes to find himself in another State and his farm transferred to the domain of another.

"My father left me thousands of rich acres," said an old woman to me down in Greenville, Miss. "I never transferred them; the Mississippi did it for me. There they lie, across the river now, owned and cultivated and enjoyed by my neighbor in another State."

In all the world there is no stream that traverses such a variety of climates as the Mississippi. I have left its upper reaches near St. Cloud, Minn., when they were fast bound in ice and snow, and traveling by train to Louisiana, have stood on its banks again, two days later, and watched its waves lap lazily against grassy levees in the warm sunshine—levees that lead through green forests of magnolia and liveoak, scented gardens and orange groves.

The area drained by the Father of Waters is over 1,245,000 square miles. Or, think of it another way; think of it as an extent to land that is not only the heart of the country, but it is almost the country itself, for it is only a trifle less than three-fourths of it.

Viewed from the standpoint of the farmer it comes near being the whole thing, for the 28 States and Territories from which the Mississippi Valley claims tribute of drainage contain 90 per cent. of all the improved farm land in the United States.

The Susquehanna Ice Bound The Susquehanna River at Columbia was ice bound Thursday. Until Wednesday there was a channel on the Columbia side. During the afternoon the channel was filled with floating slush ice, and Thursday morning the space was closed. The ice beyond the channel is said to be about six inches in thickness.

30 Days Trial in your Home

Our enthusiasm concerning The FREE Sewing Machine is so great that we are absolutely certain that if you once have it in your own home you will never think of owning any other—that if you once find out the convenience of its scores of 20th Century improvements then the time for you to think of possessing any sewing machine but
