The Next Republican Convention

RAILROAD TRESPASSING

Pennsylvania Railroad will Redouble its Efforts to Stop it

Determination to put a stop to trespassing on Pennsylvania railroad property has caused General Manager S. C. Long, of the lines east of Pittsburg, to address to the members of his staff a letter characterized to redouble their efforts to keep people off railroad property.

In 1907, when 916 people were killed while trespassing on Pennsylvania railroad property, the management of the company inaugurated a campaign to educate the public in the dangers of trespassing. The co-operation of city and county authorities was invited, and wide publicity was given to the efforts the company was making to put an end to this evil which was annually costing so many people their lives. As a result of the efforts of its officers and employees, a reduction of 173, or more than eighteen per cent, in the number of trespassers killed on the Pennsylvania railroad in 1908 was effected. The railroad's activities in this direction were redoubled in 1909 and again was the death toll from trespassing reduced to 633, or about fifteen per cent. There was a reduction of thirty-six per cent in four years. The records for 1910 show that 585 deaths resulted from trespassing on Pennsylvania railroad property.

Having succeeded in decreasing the practice of trespassing on its lines, the Pennsylvania system is now preparing to conduct an even more aggressive campaign during 1912. Tracks will be re-posted with warning notices, the enactment of stringent laws will be requested and every officer and employee of the system will be asked to lend his assistance to decrease still further the number of deaths resulting from trespassing on the property of the Pennsylvania railroad system.

The renewed and diligent efforts the Pennsylvania railroad is making to stop trespassing will be measurably influential, the management believes, in arousing the public to a realization that in accidents to trespassers it is the individual who loses his life, than which there can be no greater sacrifice.

A Girl's Wild Midnight Ride

To warn people of a fearful forest fire in the Catskill a young girl rode horseback at midnight and saved many lives. Her deed was glorious but lives are often saved by Dr. King's New Discovery in curing lung trouble, coughs and colds, which might have ended in consumption or pneumonia. "It cured me of a dreadful cough and lung disease writes W. R. Patterson, Wellington, Texas, "after four in our family had died with consumption, and I gained 87 pounds." Nothing so sure and safe for all throat and lung troubles. Price 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by S. B. Bernhart & Co.

A plea of nolo contendere to a charge of selling liquor on election day was entered by George Martz, of Bainbridge. Counsel for Martz argued that he did not knowingly violate the law, all residents of the community urged that under the circumstances sentence be suspended. It was explained that the law respecting the closing of hotels on election days had undergone a number of changes and many persons were not thoroughly informed as to the exact and most recent provisions. Court stated that hotel keepers' duties required them to be thoroughly informed as to the law, and Martz was sentenced to pay a fine of $100 and the costs.
