AUTO TRUCK ON THE FARM.

Many Uses Found For This Type of Motor Driven Vehicle. Although the ordinary tonneau type of automobile is rapidly coming into general use on the farm and has proved its value for service as well as pleasure, there is one form of recent development, the auto truck, that has not received from farmers the attention it deserves, says the Farm and Ranch. This form of car is rapidly earning a place for itself in the cities as a general delivery and hauling wagon and is destined to become as widely and favorably known on the farm, for it is an ideal general purpose car and has many advantages that recommend it for everyday farm use.

A car in daily use on a 600 acre Matagorda county (Tex.) farm is a light auto truck that has proved itself to be one of the most useful pieces of equipment on the farm. The car in question is a two-cylinder, twenty-two horsepower model, with engine and working parts identical in all respects with those of the usual tonneau type. The tonneau, however, is replaced by an express wagon body about 7 feet

BUSINESS A FARM AUTO TRUCK. by 4, and fitted in this way the car will carry loads of up to a ton in weight over the average country dirt road at a speed of from three to twenty miles an hour. Its added hauling capacity in no way interferes with its use as a pleasure car, as it can be very easily converted by the addition of a couple of surrey seats built to fit on to the body and which can be put on or taken off in a moment like the ordinary back seat. So rigged the truck can carry six or eight persons comfortably, covering as much ground in a day's run as the average road car.

The truck is used for all the hauling except the very heaviest, and the work is done so much more rapidly than by team that there is a very marked saving in time, than which no other item on a farm runs more quickly into money. In addition to the direct saving in time an important feature in the use of the motor is the fact that in busy seasons all of the mules can be used exclusively for field work and there is no necessity for breaking into the regular plowing, cultivating or harvesting outfits just when they are most needed in order to get teams to do the various hauling jobs that are always coming up at such inconvenient times or to make unavoidable trips to town for freight, supplies, repair parts, etc.

Make Every Straw Count. It is possible for careless help to leave a considerable portion of the grain crop in the field by neglecting to gather up scatterings, loose bundles, etc., and by hauling grain on open bottom racks. From a few pounds to a few bushels of grain may be saved every day, during stacking, by using a tight bottom rack or a canvas over the rack that will catch all of the grain that is scattered out of the heads.—Orange Judd Farmer.

Feed Costs More Than Care. Build good hoghouses before bad weather sets in. Houses in the end are cheaper than feed at present prices, and hogs will not do their best when compelled to sleep out of doors in bad weather. A good feeding floor pays well. Enough feed is wasted on the average farm by throwing it into the mud and slush to pay the mortgages.

Lazybody didn't have time to dig his potatoes before they froze in the ground last year, and the year before they froze in the cellar before he could fix it. The Lazybodies have five dogs hanging round the kitchen door. Bill 'tows it don't pay to keep hogs, 'cause there's nothin' left to feed them.
