TO ABOLISH GERMAN SALUTE

Movement Afoot Against Taking Off the Hat on Occasions of Meeting and Separation.

The progress in urbanity—the art of city life—which is taking place among modern Germans is illustrated by the movement for modifying, or altogether doing away with the “German salute,” says a cablegram to the New York American. Under the expression is meant the traditional fashion of taking off the hat on occasions of meeting or separation. It is a highly elaborate performance, in three motions, suggesting military precision, the first being the raising of the hat with stiffly extended arm, the second the lowering of it to the knee with a downward cutting motion and the third the similarly precise replacement on the head. The action between adults appears formal enough to draw a smile from foreigners of easier manners, but it becomes laughable when one sees it practiced with all gravity between a pair of school-boys or college students. How deeply the “German salute” is engrained in the national forms of so-called politeness is proved by the story of the independently minded subordinate official who steadily refused to make the traditional obeisance to the “chief” and got the alternative of making it or being dismissed. In Germany it is etiquette for a gentleman meeting a lady of his acquaintance in the street to take off his hat to her before she bows. In Anglo-Saxon countries the reverse is the practice, and an American woman would feel not a little astonishment, as well doubtless as some amusement, if she were brought up against one of her male friends saluting her in the German fashion.

LOVE STORY OF ARCHDUKE

Ferdinand Charles Louis of Bavaria, Wedded to Rosa Czuber, Enjoying Peaceful Exile.

The Archduke Ferdinand Charles Louis of Austria, scratched from the Almanach Gotha, scratched from the army, deprived of all his titles, ranks and orders, is peacefully enjoying perfect love as an exile. He is now known M. Ferdinand Berg, and is painting on the borders of Lake Lugano. His fault was a gracious one, for to marry morganatically has become almost a habit in the Hapsburg family. But this fault was aggravated by the fact that the marriage was celebrated without imperial authorization. His elder brother, the heir to the throne, and the duchess of Hohenberg, who were likewise separated by a great difference in station, were more adroit, and had taken into their play Madame Schrab, the mistress of Francis Joseph. Madame Ferdinand Berg, nee Rosa Czuber, has nothing with which to reproach herself for having made conquest of the archduke in an official reception at Prague. The archduke had immediately demanded her hand, but the severe Dr. Czuber made him wait five years. It is only a question now of obtaining the pardon of the emperor Francis Joseph. The archduchess Annouclade is employed to do this, but it is feared all her efforts will remain unfruitful if she can not first move the excellent Madame Schrab.—Le Cri de Paris.
