WOMEN AS POULTRY RAISERS

Attention is Drawn to Pleasure and Profit in This Industry on Any Farm.

I like to draw the attention of farm girls to poultry culture, says a writer in Michigan Farmer. While many girls are called, I have no doubt, to be teachers, I am sure that if some other girls knew the pleasure and profit derived from poultry culture, they might remain with their mothers; the life of the mother on the farm, with all her children away, is rather lonely.

The Leghorns are the best laying breed, as the Jersey cows are the best dairy breed. You will find more good layers among Leghorns, just as you will find more good milkers among Jerseys. For years I have kept an account with my hens, and I can board them for 60 cents a year apiece. I was much delighted when the Utah Experiment station brought out a report in which it was stated that they were boarding hens for 60 1/2 cents. The New York Experiment station boards the smaller breeds for 84 cents and the larger ones for 98 to 103 cents.

I do not doubt the stories of the hen reaching 200 eggs a year. I did personally know of one flock of hens, fed almost entirely on table scraps, that laid about 190 eggs apiece. But those were pets. Those large records belong to the people who have a few pets or those who are running poultry farms and making a very extensive study of the business. I have always had housekeeping or something else to do, and never had more than 200 to 500 hens. I have got from them 90 eggs each per year to 145.

POULTRY NOTES

Hens suffer from overeating as much as from half starving.

Charcoal pounded fine and kept in the drinking pans will keep the young and old birds in good condition.

Take care of all the chicks when they come. They will be valuable later this summer and next fall and winter.

Corn is a good feed, the year around, provided the birds have plenty of green stuff during the warm months.

A tablespoonful of baking soda placed in the drinking water two or three times a week will prevent bowel trouble.

Never close the door of the poultry house during the summer. Use wire screens to keep skunks out and to let the air and sunshine in.

Anyone knows that an old horse can't as a rule, do as much as a young one. Then why expect an old hen to lay as well as one in her prime?

Give all the spare skim milk to young and old chickens. It is just the kind of food to make young chickens grow and the kind to make hens lay.

Tests made at the agricultural experiment station at Geneva, N. Y., show beyond a doubt that hens lay better when kept away from the males.

When the little chicks begin to appear drowsy and refuse to eat, look out for head lice. Kerosene and sweet oil in equal parts applied daily two or three times will kill lice.

Many people say turkeys should be restricted in their range, but we do not believe it. We have raised many turkeys and have always found that the wider the range the better they thrive.

Filthy drinking vessels are the cause of many serious ailments of fowls; continued drinking of impure water will produce what is commonly termed cholera and the flock is soon wiped out.

With poultry, as with other animals, the faster they are made to grow while they are young the more profit there is in the business. Rush the cockerels for market and the pullets for laying.

It is not possible for all to give their chicks unlimited range and in such cases the feeder will have to make up the deficiency by feeding bone forming elements. The best of these is green cut bone.

A small spray pump at this season will soon pay for itself for whitewashing and disinfecting the henhouse and coops. With a small sprayer you can go over the surface ten times as fast as you can with a brush.

If many chicks are raised, it is a good plan to keep a large kettle near the poultry house, in which the drinking vessels can be boiled at least once a week. A handful of common soda thrown in the water will help.

 Hundreds of Mount Joy Citizens Can Tell You All About It

Home endorsement, the public expression of Mount Joy people, should be evidence beyond dispute for every Mt. Joy reader, of the merit of Doan's Kidney Pills. Surely the experience of friends and neighbors, cheerfully given by them, will carry more weight than the utterances of strangers residing in far-away places. Read the following:
 Mrs. C. Gillums, Main St., Mt. Joy Pa., says: "I can add nothing to the public statement I gave in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills in October 1907, except to say that the cure I then described has been permanent. A member of my family had attacks of kidney complaint for years and complained a great deal of a dull pain in the small of the back. This person slept poorly and felt all out of sorts. Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from Garber's Drug Store, brought relief and whenever they have been used since they have had a good effect."

Boxing on Thursday Night
 The wind-up of the Lancaster Athletic club's shows on next Thursday night, will be between Charley Collins, of Columbia, and Kid Griffo, of Shenandoah. The latter has met a number of the same men that Collins has. He is a good boy, and it should be quite a bout. The others are Johnny Greiner vs. Tommy Broderick of Philadelphia; Young Russel vs. Young Morris; Tim Dronoy vs. Al Strosser, and Joe Reich vs. Young Otto. These preliminaries are far ahead of any seen in Lancaster, for there is a bitter rivalry between three pair of boys which dates back from other matches. Morris has improved so rapidly that he thinks he can do something with Russel. Strosser and Dronoy when pitted against each other, know nothing but fight, once when they met both were exhausted in the fourth round and it was necessary to stop them. Young Otto showed in a recent match that he is one of the gamest lads in this city and he has a strong man to meet as Reich.
