The Ideal Solvent and Paint Thinner

Tur-mintine has the same boiling point, the same flash point, the same evaporating qualities as turpentine—at a fraction of the cost.
Tur-mintine is better than benzine or naphtha in mechanical excellence and in perfect safety. It is also cheaper, because, although it costs more, it loses little from evaporation.
Tur-mintine is guaranteed.

TREES TO LANCASTER COUNTY SCHOOL CHILDREN

Watt and Shand, Lancasters' Foremost Merchants, Repeat a Generous Gift

A treat is in store for the school children of Lancaster Co. Messrs. Watt and Shand, Lancaster's foremost merchants, will fulfill their promise made to the teachers of the Lancaster County schools at the last County Institute, viz: by giving away 20,000 two year old American Elm Trees. Their idea being to give one free to every county school pupil who will agree to plant and nurture it in honor of Arbor Day.

In this way, they hope to engender a love of nature in the hearts of the school children, to teach them in a practical way the true meaning of the day and its observance, to make them realize a closer personal interest in one great county and help preserve the beauty of a community that is truly named "The Garden Spot of the World." The custom of each person planting a tree on Arbor Day has largely grown of late years, and it is a beautiful one. Many cities are waking up to the importance of beautifying their streets and are taking measures to accomplish this object along the same lines and particularly in the New England States, where the American Elm is more widely known, regular societies have been organized for the one purpose of cultivating and growing trees where ever possible. Whole avenues of Elm Trees are found growing in double rows on both sides of the streets in many of the cities and roads throughout the New England States.

And right here we want to heartily commend Messrs. Watt & Shand for their generosity. We feel that much is needed and that this gift will go far to not only offset the ravages made by the wood cutters' ax but will atone for what is often wanted destruction of timber. The White Elm or Ulmus Americana as it is botanically known, is a forest tree which frequently attains a height of from 100 to 120 feet, and a diameter of from 6 to 8 feet. Its average size is somewhat smaller although it is among the largest of our hard wood trees. When growing in the open, the trunk almost invariably divides a short distance above the base, forming a wide, graceful spreading crown. Its natural growth is very extensive, ranging from Newfoundland to South Dakota and south through Western Nebraska to Texas. White Elm reaches its best development on deep fertile ground, moderately well drained but it can be grown on most any kind of soil, being a hardy tree and able to endure great extremes of temperature and moisture. It is a fairly rapid growing tree and often reaches a great age but naturally when planted in poor ground the rapidity of growth and length of life

Economic Uses

The wood of the White Elm is strong, tough, fibrous and difficult to split. It is in growing demand as a slack coopers material and its use in this industry has resulted in a rapid increase in the stumpage value. The timber is also used for flooring, wheel stock, ship building and in the manufacture of agricultural implements. Its hardness and its indifference to soil conditions make it a very suitable tree for protective planting. For ornamental planting the suitability of the White Elm is widely recognized everywhere. It is without the least doubt the most desirable of all our hard wood trees for such use. Such are the trees Messrs. Watt & Shand are giving away free to the pupils of Lancaster County. A tree that will without doubt enhance and beautify any town, village or hamlet where it is planted, and as the mouth piece of the community in which we reside we feel it incumbent upon us to go further and again thank those generous gentlemen for a gift whose real value will increase with the years and be evermore a great source of beauty and satisfaction.

SUIT FOLLOWS ACCIDENT

Electric Light Company Charged With Causing Man's Death
Suit has been entered in common pleas court by Myrtle May McFarland against the Elizabethtown and Marietta Electric Light Company to recover $10,000 damages. Several months ago John McFarland, Jr., was instantly killed in the stable of the Marietta bottling works as he went to turn on an electric light switch. The allegation is that a wire of the defendant company was responsible for the accident.

A Vacuum Cleaner Bargain Price $10

THE DOMESTIC JUNIOR is a vacuum cleaner that will do more work than many high priced cleaners and much more than any other cleaner of an equal price.
It looks like a carpet sweeper—works like a carpet sweeper—but is a vacuum cleaner—a cleaner that cleans your carpets and rugs through and through.

This shows the amount of solid dirt which the Domestic Junior took from a carpet which looked clean.
All we ask of any housewife is that she give it one fair trial—pick out the cleanest carpet in the house and run this vacuum cleaner over it—then open the cleaner—look at the amount of dirt you got out of your carpet or rug which you thought was clean.

The cost of this wonderful little vacuum cleaner is just $10.00 and is sold to you with the guarantee to be perfectly satisfactory in every respect or we will refund your money.
Drop card for circular and demonstration.
