SALUNGA

Preaching in the Mennonite Church next Sunday morning. Mrs. C. Breneman of Lancaster visited friends in our town on Wednesday. Miss Edith Dietrich of town is a winner for the European trip this summer. Communion services were held by Rev. Devine in the M. E. Church on Sunday morning. The sun is hot, the earth is dry and hard while the potato bug is an unmitigated nuisance, and that is the situation which confronts the farmers. Class Day exercises of the Mount Joy High School will be held in the Hall on Thursday evening and the Commencement will be held Friday evening. Rev. O. R. Cook and wife were the guests of Dr. B. E. Kendig and family on Thursday and helped to enliven the occasion of the reunion on the Landisville Camp Grounds. Mrs. Philip Metzger went to Philadelphia on Saturday. She took two of Salunga's choicest maltese kittens along, one for the daughter and the other for the son. The professors and teachers of our county High schools are certainly hustling the boys and girls to some purpose. New Holland had a tie for first honors while Mt. Joy's three highest on the roll were less than one point apart. Some of our townspeople attended the Baccalaureate services in St. Luke's Episcopal Church, Mount Joy, on Sunday. Those who were fortunate enough to get inside the building were greatly pleased with the exercises and felt amply repaid for the trip. Rev. Berghaus seems the intimate friend of our girls and boys.

Remove All Loose Stones

From the Manheim Sentinel. A Law requires road supervisors to remove all loose stones from the public highways during the months of May, June, August and October. The act is very specific and makes it the duty of the supervisors to remove the loose stones under a penalty of $10 for each and every offense in neglecting to do so; the fine to be collected by prosecution before a justice of the peace in the county. Loose stones are an abomination. This law should be rigidly enforced. Will our roadmasters attend to this?

HALLMAN'S HORSE SALE AT THE FRANKLIN HOUSE, LANCASTER, PA.

On Monday, June 3, 1912. At one o'clock, p. m., an express load Ohio horses, consisting of trotters, pacers and general purpose horses. You will find among this load some extra well broken carriage horses. These horses were bought by my son and myself in Payette and Highland counties, Ohio. This is an extra good load of horses.

Special Mention—These horses are all well-bred, some of them great green trotters, fearless of all objects. Also, some fine pacing horses, showing good gait.

C. C. HALLMAN, I. N. Rehman, Auctioneer. H. R. Bassler, Clerk. I will hold my regular Auction, in rear of Manor Hotel, every Monday morning at nine o'clock when I will sell horses, mules and wagons on commission for anyone. C. C. HALLMAN.

CAUSES OF APOPLEXY

PRIMARILY RECOGNIZED AS ACCOMPANIMENT OF OLD AGE.

Undue Worry, Even in Those of Comparatively Youthful Years, Will Also Induce Dreaded Malady—Victims Sometimes Recover.

The word "apoplexy" generally means a sudden paralysis caused by the rupture of a blood vessel in the brain; it is popularly called a "stroke." It is a result of a softening of the arteries that often follows primary hardening or arteriosclerosis. The disease is a common accompaniment of old age, so common indeed that it is regarded by many as the one characteristic senile change.

It is not confined to old age, however, for many comparatively young men who have gone too fast and too far in the pursuit of wealth or who have met with reverses and have worried unduly over them have hardened arteries and are killed or disabled by apoplexy.

In their hardened blood vessels there may be softening spots which, bulged by the hydraulic pressure of the blood, form little aneurisms. A little extra strain on the vessels, caused by some violent emotion or the lifting of a heavy weight or running to catch a train may then rupture one or more of these little aneurisms and so let the blood pour into the brain tissue.

If the blood escapes rapidly and in large amount it causes immediate loss of consciousness and paralysis; if the blood escapes gradually and in small amount it causes either severe headache and tingling and numbness in one or more of the limbs, or progressive loss of power, gradual dulling of the mental faculties and ultimate unconsciousness.

Apoplexy is not always fatal; indeed complete recovery without any paralysis sometimes occurs. The sufferer's immediate fate is commonly decided in two or three days—either he dies without regaining consciousness or his mental faculties gradually return. He is then seen to be paralyzed in either one arm or in one leg, or in one side of the face, or in all three. In less serious cases the paralysis lessens, the facial expression becomes normal. Even when the paralysis is permanent there is almost always more or less improvement for some weeks after the stroke.

Apoplexy can be treated only by the physician, but those who fear an attack can do much to avert it. Quiet and calm should for them be the rule of life. They should never make any severe muscular effort. They should never run for cars or climb stairs quickly. They should avoid hearty meals and the drinking of much fluid, even water, at any one time.—Youth's Companion.

Parrot's Shrieks Start Murder Scare.

A large green parrot, supposed to have escaped from the Oceana of the Bermuda line, stopped traffic at Montgomery and Washington streets, Jersey City, and stayed on the job until it had called out the police reserves and the fire apparatus, says the New York Evening World.

Crowds on their way to work were startled to hear loud shrieks coming from an upper floor of the Lincoln Trust company building. "It's a murder!" said a fat man. "It's a foreign lady," declared the fat man. "Why don't somebody save her?"

Hundreds of people crowded the streets, when Martin Grady, head porter of the trust company, found the bird in a small recess under the eaves.

When a fireman got half way up the ladder the parrot flew away.

Why Clink Glasses?

"What have you got against that man at the corner table?" asked the bartender of the regular customer. "That was a positive insult you handed him a minute ago. You never offered to clink glasses with him." "What's the use?" said the customer. "He is deaf, and deaf men seldom clink glasses. Why should they? They couldn't hear it. People only clink glasses to satisfy the fifth sense. At any rate that was why the originators of the practice did it, and succeeding generations have perpetuated the custom. In the ordinary process of quaffing a glass of liquor we are inevitably bound to see the stuff, touch it, smell it, and taste it. That leaves the ear alone unsatisfied. So we clink for its gratification."

Outlook Promising.

On Sixth avenue, New York, two young women walked behind her, conversing audibly above the roar of the elevated.

"And how are you liking your husband?" asked one. "Oh, he's steady," returned the other; "he don't drink, he stays home nights, and I kind o' think I'm going to like him." How fortunate! thought the woman.

One of Nature's Noblemen.

"Money don't seem to have spoiled Mr. Winkerson a bit." "I know it. He's just the same as ever. Last night him and his wife come over to play bridge with my husband and I, and he never done a thing to show that he didn't think folks that hadn't money was just as good as anybody, as long as they was refined."—Judge.

He Had Nothing on Sandy.

A Scotch gamekeeper who had been left in charge of an estate was being questioned by an English visitor. "Are there many deer on the place?" "Hundreds, sir." "Many hares?" "Thousands, sir." "Well, now, are there many gorillas?" asked the Englishman sarcastically. For a moment the gamekeeper hesitated, then he replied: "Weel, sir, they—they come like yersel', just noo and then."
