Iron Age Hardware, Recognized as the Leading Trade Journal of America, in a Recent Issue, Contained the Following Complimentary Remarks in Reference to One of Our Local Industries—A Model in Every Particular

The development and manufacture of that familiar article known as the food chopper while not strictly new are of interest, and, while it has for several years been included in the line made by a number of manufacturers, it has more recently become the subject of special treatment, especially as competition has brought about the necessity of a cheaper product, which must retain all the good points of a standard chopper, and in many cases have special features in order to insure its permanency in the market. The food choppers made by the New Standard Hardware Works, Inc., Mt. Joy, Pa., cover a wide range, being made in 15 sizes and styles, and, with the exception of a toy or midget size, are all subject to the same detail in manufacture, the low-priced smaller choppers receiving the same handling, machine work and finishing as do the large restaurant and hotel sizes.

THE TWENTY-FIFTH ANNUAL COMMENCEMENT

High School Celebrates Completion of Quarter Century of Existence by Rendering a Program of High Merit—The Orations

The High School of this borough rounded out a quarter of a century of its useful existence on Friday. Commencement exercises were held in the evening in the presence of a large representative gathering, and parchments were presented to twelve graduates. The class of 1912 richly deserved their diplomas. It ranked above the average in scholarship and industry, which means so much in this place, where the standards have always been maintained at high levels. When it came to a question of awarding honors it was found by the marks that but little margin divided the leaders in Senior ranks, which divide equally as to sex. They left a creditable record in the history of their school and enter upon mature careers equipped with solid foundations under the competent instruction and leadership of their principal, Prof. I. R. Kraybill, and his assistants, Misses Marguerite M. Herr and Mabel F. Donovan.

The Class Roll Following were the graduates: Frances Shelly Bailor, Mary Eshleman, Lucy Alta Gibbons, Miriam Janet Kendig, Bertha Katherine Shire, Martha Musser Strickler, Howard Bishop Arutz, Elmer Ellsworth Blocher, Carson Carson Engle, Harry Wachstetter Greiner, James Emmett Kendig, Roy Henry Longenecker.

The Decorations Decorated in the favorite colors of the class, red and blue, and with their choice of flowers, the pink rose and countless other beautiful blooms contributed by the townfolk, the hall presented a very inviting appearance. The stage was flanked with greens and plants of varied descriptions and the pupils of the High School, who occupied the center, completed an attractive picture. The class motto, "Venimus, Vidimus, Vicimus," was displayed prominently on a banner above the stage arch. One of the distinct features that added greatly to the pleasure of the audience was the rendition of the choruses by the High School. They were sung with a freshness and vigor of spirit that was unusual in the ranks of public school pupils. Miss Kendig's piano solo and the recitation of Miss Eshleman revealed the
