WILL BE DEADLY FOE SHEPHERD OF THE SEA

GERMAN CLAIMS HE CAN MAKE AIRSHIP INVISIBLE.

Proposed Terror Is to Be as Large as the Steamer Olympic and Able to Defy the Telescope at the Distance of a Mile.

The invisible airship has already been patented by its inventor Baron Roenne. Baron Roenne is well known in England as an airship and naval engineer, so more respect must be paid to his ideas than to those who try inventing without any technical knowledge.

Baron Roenne has submitted his idea to the officials at the Greenwich Royal Observatory, and they declare that it is based on scientific principles, and most certainly practicable. They say this remarkable airship is made invisible as follows:

Take a white wall and paste a white sheet of paper on it. At a distance of a few feet you may be able to detect where the paper leaves off and the wall begins. At a hundred yards the wall looks all white. You would never suspect the paper of being there if you did not know already. That is Baron Roenne's idea.

The outside covering of his airship is made of metal, the composition of which is a secret. It is almost as strong as steel, yet it only weighs one-fourth as much. No hydrogen can leak from a vessel made of it, so the danger of an airship exploding from that cause disappears.

It is due to the discovery of chromium, in fact, that the invisible airship is possible. The most important thing about the metal, as far as Baron Roenne is concerned, is that it possesses a very highly polished surface. This is covered over with a thin coating of transparent varnish. The whole surface of the dirigible, in fact, acts as a mirror, and reflects the same color as its surroundings. If the sky is dull, so is the airship. If the sky is blue, so is the airship.

The sides of the keel of this new airship are also reflecting mirrors, and by an ingenious arrangement of them the darker shade reflected from the earth is made lighter. The keel will taper to a point, and thus there will be no shadow on the bottom of the airship. In fact, it will be like the chameleon, and always like the color of its surroundings. In other words, it will be invisible.

Baron Roenne's new terror of the skies will be as large as the Olympic. The Olympic, if it could float in the skies, would easily be detected at a height of four or five miles, yet Roenne's dirigible will be absolutely invisible, even to telescopes, at a distance of less than a mile!

It is designed to carry 400 passengers, or their equivalent in cargo, and it will be fitted with 15 motors, developing nearly 2,000 horse power. Patents have already been taken out in England.

What this "new sky scraper" will mean in time of war can hardly be realized. It could carry enough ammunition to utterly wreck any city, or blow the world's biggest navy to pieces.—Pearson's Weekly.

Ah-Tish-Oo!

The only attention we pay to a sneeze at the present day is to endeavor to get rid of the chill which causes it, or to a sneeze in the days of old Greece was a matter of great concern and import.

There was then a god of sneezing, and great undertakings would even be abandoned if a man sneezed at an important moment, the act being looked upon as the oracle of the god.

A sneeze between midnight and noon was looked upon as a fortunate sign, but between moon and midnight it betokened great misfortune. To sneeze to your right was lucky; to the left unlucky. Two or four sneezes were lucky, one or three very unlucky, and any undertaking in hand should, if possible, be abandoned; more than four sneezes did not count.

There is a saying in many parts of England today, "Once a wish, twice a kiss, three times a letter, four times something better." If people sneezed together it was a good sign, particularly if they happened to be discussing business.

Biddy's Blunder.

Mrs. Howard Hinckle has recently had a remarkable experience with a new Irish girl:

"Biddy," said she, one evening, "we must have some sausages for tea this evening. I expect company."

"Yes, ma'am."

Tea time arrived, and with it, the company; the table was spread, the tea was simmering, but no sausage appeared.

"Where are the sausages, Biddy?" inquired Mrs. Hinckle.

"And sure they're in the tay-pot, ma'am! Didn't you tell me we must have 'em for tay?"

As a Man Is Known.

"A man, like a watch, is known by his works," observed the epigram maker.

"And by the hours he keeps," added the wife.

"And by the spring in him," said the athlete.

"And by his being sometimes fast," remarked the reformer.

"And by the way his hands go up," put in the pugilist.

"And by his not always going when we want him to," finished the girl who'd been robbed of her beauty sleep.

HUNGARIAN MAN OF WEALTH HAS EARNED TITLE.

Has Long Devoted Life, Fortune, Talents and Strength in Ministering to Emigrants From His Own and Other Lands.

Count Vay de Vaya, lord abbot of St. Martin's in Hungary, has earned the title of "The Shepherd of the Seas," because he spends his life and wealth, his talents and his strength, in ministering to poor emigrants seeking fairer chances for life in distant lands. A man of lowly birth, and one bred amid scenes of squalor and suffering might so spend his life without creating wonder that he should seek to help those who are his equals and intimates.

Count de Vaya is one of the richest and one of the most influential men in Hungary. This wealth he is using to help the poor emigrants from his country and from other countries, and he has forsaken the ease and comforts that his riches would bring to sail with them on many troubled seas and teach them how to conduct themselves in the new life they are to face.

"At home," he said, "the poor are forever watched over by the parish priest, who is their spiritual father. He tells them how they should conduct their lives and listen and obey. Then also there are the neighbors with whom the peasant hopes to stand well and to be respected. This environment helps him to lead a Christian life, to be honest, industrious and strong to resist temptation. Then he hears of brighter opportunities in a new land, and he sells all of his little possessions and sails away. Everything that has helped him in the past, the teachings of the priest, the good word of old neighbors, the traditions of his home, are swept away from him and he finds himself on the sea with nothing to do and an absolutely vacant mind, ready to be filled with anything anyone cares to pour into it.

"This is a very trying period. All his life he has been a worker. He has toiled all day and at night there were the family and friends to fill his mind. But here, upon the deep, his mind grows vacant. It has nothing to anchor it. Like the mind of a little child, it is very receptive. If evil is poured into it, that evil may last as long as he lives and be the controlling influence of his life. But if it is good, why, then he will be a good man as long as he lives. Now, the work that I am trying to do with all of the gifts that God has given me is to meet with these poor people and to fill them with the thoughts of our creator, with the duty we all owe to one another, and with the peace that comes from good and the torment that comes from evil.

"I opened the first Hungarian church in the slums of Chicago. This was in 1895. I have visited all of the different labor centers in the United States, and I have crossed the ocean 18 times. And always I am seeking to place in the hands of the helpless the sword of righteousness, with which to fight temptation. On one ship, the Ulltonia, from Flume, I preached to 2,300 emigrants. I speak nine languages, and I preached to them, so all could understand in Hungarian, in German and in the Slav. A more devout people I never saw. I am glad to say that I have seen something of the results of the seeds that I have sown. And if the work is continued, in a generation or two it will go far toward bettering conditions all over the world."

Belasco's Idea of Venom.

An actor, at the Players' club in New York, praised David Belasco. "You can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear," he said, "but Mr. Belasco, time and again, has made a skillful and fiery artist out of a cold and awkward amateur."

Mr. Belasco has a happy way, at rehearsals, of driving home his points. Thus, one day, he wasn't satisfied with the contempt that a leading lady was putting into a certain speech.

"More contempt!" he said, "More spite! More venom!"

"Oh, I can't do any better than I am," said the lady.

"Rubbish! Of course you can," cried Mr. Belasco. "His the lines as you'll miss the word 'Musquash,' if you saw a lady friend in a great, long imitation sealskin coat."—New York Sun.

One Leg on the Ground Always.

In 1872 Gov. Leland Stanford of California had an argument, which ended in a bet, with a friend, whether a horse ever has four legs off the ground at the same moment while running.

Eudward Maybridge, an Englishman and a photographer, had become interested and put up twenty-four cameras on the race track, so arranged that the horse would have to break the strings. The individual pictures were all of even size. He pasted these together, then used the toy known as a "zootrope," and it was found that all four feet never leave the ground except in jumping.—By the Narrator.

Rare Gift for Mrs. Taft.

Among the strange gifts Mrs. Taft has received are several sacred tea plants from the garden of the Buddhist priests in Ceylon. The plants were sent to the Secretary of Agriculture, who will have them cared for in the tea farms of the Carolinas, which are under the supervision of the department.

Man Struck by Lightning

During a recent heavy thunderstorm Samuel Eby, Jr., residing near Elm, was struck by a bolt of lightning and the wonder is that he is alive to-day. He was knocked down and for about four hours was unconscious from the effects. He is now about about again as usual. Mr. Eby certainly passed through a remarkable experience.

DOUBLY PROVEN

Mount Joy Readers Can No Longer Doubt The Evidence

This Mt. Joy citizen testified long ago.

Told of a quick relief of lasting benefit.

The facts are now confirmed. Such testimony is complete—the evidence conclusive.

It forms convincing proof of merit. Mrs. L. P. Hellig, Main St., Mt. Joy, Pa., says: "I had been troubled by kidney complaint for some time and nothing had helped me. My back was often so weak that I could not get about and I had severe headaches and dizzy spells. Spots flashed before my eyes and I felt all run down. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I procured a box at Garber's Drug Store and began their use. I consider this remedy worthy of my endorsement." (Statement given October 26, 1907.)

Confirmed Proof

On January 29, 1911, Mrs. Hellig added to the above:

"I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills just as highly now as I did over two years ago when they gave me such great relief. I take pleasure in confirming my former statement."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., New York, sole agents for the United States.
