At 50c we offer the Williams Bros. make fine Egyptian yarn, shirts long or short sleeve, drawers reinforced seat and extension band at waist line.

The Imperial Union suit has come to stay. The most perfect fitting garment on the market.

Athletic underwear, showing up better each season, made of fine cloth. Not as clinging as the balbriggan and cooler. All sizes, in two qualities, 25 and 50c.

Boys' Balbriggan Underwear, short sleeve shirts, knee length drawers, at 25c a garment.

DIFFICULT TO RAISE TURKEY

Overfeeding and Vermin Among Principal Causes of Mortality—Chicken Hens Poor Brooders.

(By A. GLAIGHER, Ohio.) Turkey hens, as a rule, lay their eggs on the ground. As they begin laying very early in the season, it is best to remove the eggs from the nest soon after they are laid, and replace them with hen eggs. Be careful not to let a turkey hen see you near the nest, because turkeys are very cunning and resent intrusion. Wrap the eggs in paper and place in boxes one layer deep. They should be turned carefully every day until placed for hatching. Turkey eggs will keep in good condition for 21 days when cared for in this manner. But it is never advisable to keep eggs longer than is necessary.

Some people hatch their turkey eggs with chicken hens, but we do not think it a good practice on account of the fact that the poulters are apt to get lousy. We had an experience of this kind a few years ago. In spite of the fact that the poulters were thoroughly dusted with powder every few days they began to droop and die.

As a last resort we used olive oil and found it excellent. Do not use too much oil. Lard, or any kind of animal grease will kill young poults almost as fast as the lice will.

Turkey Hen on Nest.

Vegetable oil is different from animal oils. Never use kerosene.

Spread the wing and raise the short feathers on the shoulder, directly over the large quills. If a young turkey has lice, they will be found there. Also around the tail or wherever there are large feathers. One application of the oil is usually sufficient unless the lice are very numerous. Remember, lice are fatal to turkey poults, so they must be kept free from them.

Never use oil or grease upon a setting hen. If she has lice, use a powder. Oil, upon the shell of an egg renders it worthless for hatching.

One of the first things young turkeys need is sunshine. It is a waste of time to offer them food before they are 48 hours old. Turkeys need fresh air both day and night, but they must not be allowed to get damp.

The first feed is usually hard-boiled eggs, crushed, mixed with dry bread crumbled fine and sprinkled with clean coarse sand. Rice, properly cooked, is good for young turkeys, and pin-head oats, or coarse oat meal is also good. Corn is too fattening for growing turkeys and commercial chick-feed is too hard to digest. Whole wheat is good after they are six weeks old, but only feed a very little of it.

Overfeeding is one of the things which must be guarded against. We have always been inclined to feed too much and too often.

When turkeys have free range, which they ought always to have when the weather is suitable, they require very little grain. Grass and insects are their natural food.

Clover for Egg Production.

Clover is as much an egg producer as it is a producer of milk. It is rich in nitrogen and mineral matter. Having a high nutritive ration, it is equal to barley, and almost as high as wheat. Its action is to extend the food ration, reduce the too concentrated grain food, and prevent the accumulation of internal fat. The second crop, or "proven" clover is the best. Clover should be cut when in full blossom. Let it grow until the first blossoms begin to turn brown.

Obtaining Fertile Eggs.

If you are working for fertile eggs for hatching purposes, see to it that too many hens are not given to a single male. The fault of overcrowding is one of the most fruitful sources of eggs that will not hatch. With most breeds 15 is a good average.

TAKES RIGHTFUL PLACE

JAPANESE MERCHANT RAISED IN SOCIAL SCALE.

Heretofore Only the Soldier has Been Looked Upon as Following a Worthy Calling—Emperor Has Changed This Idea.

Japanese business methods have been widely criticized, especially in the last few years, as lacking those standards of commercial honor which prevail among Occidental nations. A writer in the Atlantic says that the question most frequently put to him since his return from the Orient has been:

"Why is it that the Japanese are so dishonest that they cannot even trust themselves, and have to employ Chinmen at the head of all their great business concerns?"

He explains this almost universal impression by saying that the average tourist usually has business relations only with the branches of the three great banks established in the treaty ports. When he cashes his letter of credit he observes the singular fact that the money is being handled by a Chinman instead of by a native.

"The simple truth," says the writer, "is that these three banks—all of them, by the way, foreign concerns—are the only business houses in the entire empire so conducted. When Japan was opened and these foreign corporations in China sent their branches into the new field, they sent their Chinese compradors with them."

"Yes, while all this can be said, and should be said, in the interest of simple justice, it is nevertheless undeniable that in Japan the ideals of commercial honor and the methods adopted in the conduct of business are not what they are in the west, and there is much of which the Occidental may justly complain."

"There is a historical reason for this. The fact that in the olden days in Japan the merchant was placed at the bottom of the social scale and the soldier at the top, while in China exactly the reverse was the case, fully explains why Japan has produced a splendid soldiery, and has woefully suffered in her mercantile life, while the army in China has been the sport of the nations though her merchants have attained a high place in the world of business credit."

"But even though the 'cake of custom' is the hardest to break, its power of resistance has been already materially weakened by the wise policy of the emperor; and the merchant is no longer the pariah of the realm. Prominent among those who by the emperor's favor have risen from the social dust into places of highest honor is a family whose history is significant."

"The Mitsui family of Japan have been called the Rothschilds of the east; but while the fame of the latter has gone abroad over the world the Mitsuis have remained practically unknown except to a few western merchants who have had extensive dealings with the Orient. The European family owes its great renown to the fact that for a century there has been no slightest stain upon its commercial honor."

"But its career, it should be remembered, has been passed in a world where business itself has been held in honor; while the Mitsuis, engaged in a pursuit utterly contemned by public sentiment, for three centuries, in spite of the demoralizing influence of the social ban, have been trusted by government and people alike, and have kept the honor of their name unblemished. Now, thanks to the new spirit animating the nation, they no longer stand so conspicuously alone."

Model Sermon.

A correspondent, a churchman, somewhat moved by a paragraph regarding sleeping in church, wrote that he has no particular objection to the congregation going to sleep, when it has an excuse for doing so. "But," he writes, "I want to ask you what you think of this: I attend a church where the assistant sleeps during the sermon, and a few Sundays ago he had the 'nerve' to tell the rector it was the finest sermon he had ever heard him (the rector) preach, when he had been sleeping through it!" This is certainly very shocking. We submit, however, that if the assistant slept calmly through the sermon he could do no less than compliment it.

Wise Woman.

"Now for $3," announced the star gazer, "I'll furnish you with a platter which will make your husband love you to the exclusion of all others."

"I don't think I'll invest," decided the practical housewife. "But if you have a platter which will make him bring home some of his salary on payday I'll allow you a percentage on all sums realized."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

As to Hubby.

Inquiring Friend—I should like to know your husband's attitude on the question of woman suffrage. I suppose, though, when it comes to that, he's up in the air, as the saying is. Mrs. Leader—One foot is, anyway; he's a kisser.

In the Cause of Freedom.

"I told the lawyer I wanted an absolute divorce," said Mrs. Plimgit. "and what did he say?" "He told me he was an old friend of the husband and as a favor to him he'd take the case."

Many "Holy Lands."

Christians use the term Holy Land to designate Palestine, as being the scene of the birth, ministry and death of Christ, but, interestingly enough, other religious sects employ the same term for places sacred to them from association. Thus the Mohammedans speak of Mecca as the Holy Land, it being the birthplace of Mohammed. The Chinese Buddhists call India the Holy Land, because the founder of their religion was born there, while the Greeks bestow this name title on Elis, where was situated the temple of Olympian Zeus.

HEAVY CHICKENS IN DEMAND

They Are Often Purchased in Preference to Turkeys—Chicks Hatched in Natural Way Best.

We had a lot of chicks that were hatched early in May and sold at Thanksgiving for $4.50 per pair. I could have sold a lot more, too, at the same price, for my customers took them in preference to turkeys, that of White Plymouth Rock Cock.

Late years have been high in price if not in quality, says a writer in the Baltimore American. The difference between what I received and what cockerels of that age would have brought, was my pay for spending about five minutes each to caninize them in July.

Chicks hatched in the natural season are much easier to raise than those coming earlier or later, and in my experience either pay just as well. But I plan the marketing in a somewhat unusual way. I keep Plymouth Rocks of a light pullet mating, because then I can tell the sex when they are only a day old. Then during the months of May and June I sell as baby chicks all the pullets as fast as they are hatched. When you find a fellow who has not hatched quite as many chicks as he had planned, it is right easy to sell him baby chicks by just saying that you will pick out all pullets. That gets them nicely out of the way.

POULTRY HANGER IS USEFUL

Devise Found Quite Convenient by Eastern Poultrymen in Holding Fowls While Killing.

Here is a device which poultrymen of Boston have found very convenient in holding fowls during the killing process. Nothing could be simpler or more effective. It consists of a string and a thin disk of wood hung from a nail, as shown at a in the drawing herewith, says the Orange Judd Farmer. When to be used the fowl's legs are brought together in a horizontal position, as shown at b, and the disk passed around them as indicated by the heavy dotted line. The disk is then placed beside the legs, but beyond the vertical part of the string. Now the fowl is lowered and allowed to hang head downward, as indicated at c. If applied in this way there is no danger of the fowl working loose. To release the bird the position is reversed and the disk slipped to one side.

POULTRY NOTES

A flock of birds neglected are money losers.

The poultry needs plenty of green feed all the time.

Breeding fowls to be healthy and prolific should not be pampered.

Ducks need to be fed only twice a day if they are allowed a good grass range.

If the eggs are a little pale in the yolk, a trifle more corn will deepen the color.

Chickens that have to hunt and scratch for their feed are seldom troubled with leg weakness.

Dry wheat bran along with chick feed is fine for young chicks; it keeps their bowels in good condition.

It is not just what we will gain this year that counts; it is rather what course to follow in a series of years.

Once a week give the drinking dishes a scrubbing and scald with hot water in which a small quantity of common baking soda has been dissolved.

To reap profits from poultry the flock must be separated into pens of small numbers. Overcrowding is one of the greatest mistakes, and this has been demonstrated.

The Plover Season The game season for 1912 will open on Monday, July 15, when plover may be shot. No restriction is placed upon the number of birds taken by sportsmen and they are game until December 1. No other game may be taken until September 1, when the shore bird, blackbird, snipe and dove seasons open.
