HEROES IN DAILY LIFE

NOT ALL BRAVE DEEDS ARE DONE ON FIELD OF BATTLE.

Demand of Duty Responded to, Frequently With Sublime Heroism, in the Common, Every Day Walks of Humdrum Employment.

While war, in the very nature of things, abounds in opportunities for valorous exploits, and its every deed is written large on the page of history, the humbler and quieter sphere of private life affords even more and keener opportunities for the display of true heroism, writes Gen. H. M. Chittenden in The Forum. The physician or nurse who voluntarily goes into a plague stricken district, the miner who braves the fire-damp to rescue his imprisoned fellows, the crew who stand at their posts while their vessel is sinking, the fireman who scales a tottering wall to save a human life, the patrolman who enters a den of desperadoes at imminent personal risk—whoever, in the pursuance of duty, no matter how humble, subordinates his personal safety to that duty—is as much entitled to the commendation of heroism as a soldier who does his duty in war can possibly be. War against physical nature and the evils of human nature, and their ultimate subjugation to the intellectual and spiritual dominion of man, constitute a struggle which will give ample scope to the energies of the race beyond our remotest ken. We cannot even guess its ultimate possibilities; but so long as there are mountain barriers to be overcome, floods to be controlled, deserts and swamps to be reclaimed; so long as men are denied equal opportunities, and "predatory wealth" has any other than a historic meaning, man need not feel that war is necessary to call forth the best there is in him.

The age of true heroism, the age of the ideal "strenuous life"—when some philosopher of the distant future shall write a history of civilization—will not be that of Alexander or Caesar or Napoleon, but of those later periods when the energy of the race is directed to friendly co-operation instead of bloody conflict or incessant preparation therefor. It will be an age in which every virtue of militarism will find a higher and fuller expression, while its manifest vices, and particularly the horrors of war, will be laid aside. Let nations wage all the Panama wars that they like—the more the better—but let them outgrow as rapidly as possible their Gravelotter and Plevnas and Port Arthurs.

Greenland Is Green.

Greenland is green in more ways than one. Its wonderful miniature trees are a most beautiful green, and travelers declare no such color is found elsewhere in the world. Greenland is practically a great group of green mountains covered with ice that has a green tint, and which has formed great leobound glaciers, that are tied between the mountain ranges and can be penetrated only by a drill. Where the sun strikes with sufficient force the ice and snow let go, and the glaciers, which are called "live," often melt enough to slide and dash down the mountain, or drop with an awful force into the inlets. Very often such glaciers do a lot of damage to shipping that has sought shelter in bays or inlets. During the long night period the country is often illuminated with what we term northern lights, or aurora borealis. Without this electrical display, the country would be wrapped in darkness of a peculiar density.

Sweet corn and melons should not be cultivated too deeply. The roots grow near the surface, and merely stirring the soil sufficiently to create a dust mulch is all the plant requires.

One reason why potatoes have degenerated in the past is that the potato growers of the United States have planted their culls and screenings under the erroneous impression that such methods in seed selection would produce as good results as any other.

"B. T. Babbitt" Came Before "A, B, C's" In Grandma's Time.

Probably her first bath was with Babbitt's Soap. Before she could toddle she learned to reach for that cake of Babbitt's Soap in the daily bath.

Then, as she grew up, imitating her mother, she washed dolly's clothes with Babbitt's Soap. She heard mother, aunts, neighbors, and the old servants praising those old, reliable soaps, for their manifold superiorities—for toilet, for laundry, for cleaning and scouring.

To her "B. T. Babbitt" was truly a "family name," and, when established in a home of her own, it was

That made her housework easier, her home brighter and sweeter, and helped to make her life happier. And the custom was passed on down to her little daughter, and then to her little granddaughter, until to-day there are twelve immense buildings and eighty-one acres devoted to making B. T. Babbitt's Soap and Cleansing Products—a monument to a famous American institution.

Save Babbitt Trademarks---Originators of Premiums

B. T. Babbitt was the pioneer in coupling "good-will" premiums with soap of 100% quality. To-day users of Babbitt's products can exchange Babbitt's Trademarks and secure any one of thousands of articles.

Simply cut the Trademark from the wrapper, or, if you do not know how, bring the wrappers. Trademarks or wrappers should be put in packages of 10. As little as 10 trademarks now secures a premium.
