USEFUL INFORMATION FOR THE FARMER

Treatment of Flesh Wound That is of Value to Every Owner of Live-Stock. Whitewash for the Cow Barn—The Buying of a Cow

Don't give the sow too much bedding.

Never feed a horse when he is very warm.

Clipping a horse's legs is not a good practice.

Exercise sweating in a horse indicates weakness.

You cannot begin to feed and train a colt too early.

There is a growing demand for bacon—good bacon.

Kindness beats gruffness in getting work out of horses.

Drive a colt the first time with a fast walking horse.

Silage can be fed to sheep with satisfactory results.

Buckwheat straw is not a suitable bedding material for pigs.

It is important that some grain be fed pigs intended for the market.

Treat the herd boar with kindness and also with considerable caution.

Stock raising is the best insurance against an improverished agriculture.

Handling colts from the start obviates breaking and substitutes training.

The use of silage for sheep feeding purposes has been tried out to a limited extent.

For horses doing a considerable amount of road work there is no grain equal to oats.

So far as cooking feed for cows or any kind of live stock, only in rare instances is it profitable.

The localities where some sort of live stock may not be profitably maintained are few and far between.

For winter feed or summer feed there is no cheaper or better balanced ration for horses, cattle, sheep and swine than silage.

Mules of all sizes find a ready market.

The mule is less subject to disease than the horse, easier cured when sick and has a longer period of services.

It is a mistake to buy a cow for the dairy herd solely on the recommendation that she is an "easier keeper," meaning, of course, that she consumes but little feed. The only cow worth having in the dairy herd is one that has the room and ability to change a large amount of feed into butter fat, the more the better.

In preparing whitewash for the walls, ceilings, posts of the cow barn, etc., it is best to add some antiseptic. Slack the fresh stone lime by adding water gradually and stirring it until it is a smooth, thick cream body. Add a pint of crude carbolic acid for every ten gallons. If it is to be put on by hand, it needs only a little more thinning with water. But if it is to be applied by a spray pump, much more water is needed, and the wash must be strained through a cloth. The whitewashing should be done when the cows are not in the room. The doors and windows should be open to allow rapid drying. Ordinarily, it is not necessary to do the whitewashing oftener than every six weeks through the winter season, but let the fall application be done and very thoroughly.

The following treatment of flesh wounds by Prof. Glover, of Massachusetts is of value to every owner of stock, as he is a recognized authority. The ordinary wound will heal if not interfered with. This interference may be from germs, parasites meddling with the wound, on the part of man or the animal itself. The first thing to do, of course would be to stop the hemorrhage. This can be accomplished by a tight bandage of clean, white muslin applied over the wound or above it. A thread may be run under the artery by using a needle and tied. Do not use flour, dirt, cobwebs or anything of that sort on the wound; they are unnecessary and may produce dangerous infection. Having checked the bleeding remove the clots of blood and cut off the ragged edges of tissue with clean shears. A pan of antiseptic solution should be provided, and one of the best antiseptic on the farm is creolin. Add a teaspoonful of this to a pint of water that has been boiled and use it on the wound two or three times a day. Place the knife, shears, etc., in this solution and wash the wound. See that there is good drainage from the wound up with covering of any kind. In about one week it may be well to change to dry dressing. In the meantime it will be well to get in communication with some skilled veterinarian who will advise you in the case from time to time. I do not mention sewing up the wound for the reason that in ragged cuts it is better not to do so. Remember that the principal thing is to get the wound healthy at the start and then it will heal with very little interference.

A GREAT RECORD

Hard to Duplicate it in Mount Joy

Scores of representative citizens of Mount Joy are testifying for Doan's Kidney Pills. Such a record of local endorsement is unequalled in modern times. This public statement made by a citizen is but one of the many that have preceded it and the hundreds that will follow. Read it:

Mrs. F. Conrad, David St., Mount Joy, Pa., says: "I suffered intensely from kidney trouble and it would be hard to describe the misery I endured. There was a constant, dull pain across my back that made my housework a burden and I was annoyed by chills and dizzy spells. The least work tired me and I always felt languid. When I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, I decided to give them a trial and procured a box at Garber's Drug Store. The first few doses helped me and I grew better rapidly as I continued their use. I am today in better health than I have been for a long time, thanks to Doan's Kidney Pills." Statement given October 26, 1907.

A Lasting Effect

Mrs. Conrad was interviewed on January 29, 1910 and she said: "I am glad of an opportunity to re-endorse Doan's Kidney Pills. My health has been of the best since I took this remedy two years ago."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.
