HOME HEALAH CLUB.

By Dr. David H. Reeder, Chicago, Ill

An emergency case: Since this is the age of automobiles, rapid transit, and outdoor sports, the Emergency Case properly equipped is a necessity.

Possessed of an Emergency Case, containing the articles suggested herein, and good common-sense, combined with a knowledge of how to give the Home Health Club treatments, you will be able to render first aid to the injured, or to one suddenly stricken with some acute disorder, when the opportunity presents itself, thus relieving a fellow-being from pain or, perhaps, saving life, which act will always be a source of self-satisfaction, and that sort of self-satisfaction in nothing more or less, than a proper reward for a kind act, and is in no way reprehensible, but quite the contrary. Besides, in owning and using such a case you will be acquiring useful information, almost imperceptibly.

This case is merely for personal or home use. For elaborate and extensive one may be devised for schools, camps, factories, ships, mines, etc. It is better to prepare such an important thing before there is need for it. The sense of providence will indorse that. It is, of course, necessary that such a case should be on hand where one is not in touch with a drug-store. It is handy on an outing and as a sort of insurance against accidents. In case of accident there is always more or less of excitement. Owning such a case you know just where to go to get what is needed in an emergency.

Never Lock The Case: You may have trouble finding the key in a hurry but always keep it where the children or meddlesome persons will not easily find it.

Absorbent cotton, 2 4-oz. packages gauze bandages, 6; cotton bandage, 1 (1 yd. square); adhesive plaster, 1 (1 roll 1 inch wide, 5 yds. long); gauze, 1 (1 yd. long); gauze bandage, 1 (1 yd. square); mustard In-stor (1 dozen); Sesqui Chlor Iron Sol; Splinter Forceps; Antiseptic tablets; rubber tubing (for turn-quet or stomach tube); 1 pair of scissors; and Triangular bandage.

Everything should be wrapped in wax paper to keep it sterile and clean until needed.

Don't wait until you have to have these things before you get them. Have them where they will do the greatest possible good. Have them like the fire department always ready.

CLUB NOTES.

Dear Doctor:

I wish to know what to do for hay asthma? I am a man 32 years old; work in a grocery. Am affected in August and September.

J. S. Some years ago the writer picked up a little book, written by a German physician, who is long since dead, and in glancing over it found a brief mention of hay fever or coryza. He suggested that salt was the cause and that sufferers were liberal users of salt on their food.

In his investigations, he found that the system and tissues of such a person needed the salt and was crying out for it, and following the demand the sufferer ate large quantities of it. The trouble all arose, he said from the fact that the salt eaten was not presented in a form that was acceptable to the system or that could be taken up and assimilated by the tissues. He stated further that the salt must be supplied in the proper manner and a cure would surely follow.

The writer himself at that time being a sufferer from hay fever, said the point and procured an attenuated preparation of Sodium Chloride and took small doses four times daily. The result was a most agreeable surprise for after a few days treatment the hay fever was gone.

We do not wish to be understood as saying that all cases of hay fever are met with in those who use salt freely, for that would not be true, but the doses of Sodium Chloride in sugar of milk can be safely depended upon where indicated.

Among the many measures which contribute to the relief of the sufferer are these: keep the skin active by frequent bathing, eating and drinking intelligently, deep and skillful manipulations of the muscles of neck and shoulders, and keeping the entire intestinal tract clean and free from waste matter.

Warrensville.

Dear Doctor:

Our little boy twenty one months old is a large heavy child and his ankles turn in quite noticeably, so much so that his shoes are run over on the inner side. He did not until 15 months, but now wants to be out of doors walking most all day. Will he outgrow it? What would you advise?

M. A. L.

I am glad to see that you recognize the condition as being an abnormal one, and starting early to correct it. There are very few deformities that a child will outgrow. The old idea that a child, if let alone will outgrow most deformities is responsible for many crippled and deformed adults. Daily on the streets, in the country, country towns, and everywhere one sees this evidence of neglect, carelessness or ignorance, whichever it may be, on the part of these responsible. Any of these poor cripples could have been given strong, straight bodies.

It is evident that the food your little boy has been getting did not contain sufficient quantity of bone forming material. Let him play out doors all he likes, he will thus reduce his own weight and increase strength of his ankles. Feed him whole cereals, that is, those containing the whole grain, with cream and a little sugar. Also give him plenty of fresh milk to drink. If his ankles do not gradually strengthen up within three months, write me again.

All readers of this publication are at liberty at any time to write for information pertaining to the subject of health. Address all communications to the Home Health Club, 5029 Cottage Grove Ave., Chicago, Ill. U. S. A. with name and address in full, and at least four cents in postage.

ALL GRIST FOR THE BRIDE

Other Women in the House Have Small Chance of Receiving Brides That Are Sent Home.

An uptown woman who nearly got stalled in a Ninth street car with a bundle of merchandise gave this reason for carrying home her own parcels, according to the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

"There is a prospective bride in our boarding-house," she said. "Everything in the dry-goods line is right to the mill of the woman about to be married. Other women who have the misfortune to live in the same house shop and dimittles. The only way they can insure the enjoyment of their own purchases is to carry them home.

"If the things are delivered the bride snaps them up. Possibly she has no real shoplifting propensities, but circumstances combine to make her a thief. Servants bring to her room all parcels of whatever size and shape that come to that front door. So many of the things do belong to her that to read the label or list to what the delivery boy says is considered superfluous exertion. And the bride is equally disdainful of a preliminary examination. Egotistically she slips off wrappers and digs into contents.

"Yesterday I heard her raising the roof because a certain shop had sent her six pairs of black silk stockings, instead of the pink, blue and tan she had ordered. After she had sent the stockings back and had the money refunded I discovered the stockings were mine. I cannot afford to contribute these parcels to the bride's wardrobe, so I am carrying them home."

FOUND AN ECONOMICAL PAIR

Most Joyous Occasion of Life Failed to Make Them "Loosen Up," to Young Clergyman's Dismay.

A clergyman in Cherryvale tells Mrs. Moffett that when he was a struggling young preacher and a marriage fee looked like several square meals to him, he was called upon to officiate at the wedding of a wealthy young farmer to the daughter of another farmer, also very wealthy and widely known in the county. The night of the wedding was a stormy one and the train to the little country station was two hours late, so the preacher hired a rig and drove the entire 12 miles, getting there just in time to miss supper. The wedding was a brilliant affair and after the ceremony the groom called the minister aside and told him how much he appreciated his coming through the storm and handed him a $2 bill—not enough to pay the team hire. As the preacher sat stunned, gazing at the money, the bride's father came in and the groom left. "How much did he give you?" asked the father. "Only two dollars," replied the preacher. "Why, that is a shame," exclaimed the father. "After all your trouble, too. He's terrible close with money. Don't say a word to any one, but take this." And as the old man slipped away the preacher, much touched, opened his hand and found a $1 bill. —Kansas City Star.

Honesty Increasing.

On her return from marketing, the young matron of the upper West side said to a caller: "I believe the sense of honesty is increasing in New York, at least in this locality. This morning I called the attention of a salesman to a small mistake he had made in giving me change, the mistake being in my favor. The proprietor, who was standing near, said to me: 'You're honest. You'll get along all right.' Not so many years ago the thought that seemed far too prevalent in this country was that only some clever form of dishonesty could 'get along all right.' The merchant who could trick a customer was supposed to be the smart fellow, and it was assumed an honest person was sure to get the little end of everything. I am delighted to find even one man who realizes that honesty is actually indispensable to success, and it is especially pleasing to find him in a place where I can deal with him regularly." —New York Press.

Appropriate.

Gazing at a group of nine children gathered about a small stoop, an old lady called one of the little girls. "Are all of these children your sisters and brothers?" she asked. "Yes, mum," replied the youngster. "What is the largest one named?" "Mickie, mum." "And what do you call the smaller one?" "Minnie, mum."

The Week in Grain

Compiled for the Mount Joy Bulletin, at Mount Joy, Pa., by Wm. L. Dear & Co., Pennsylvania Building, Philadelphia, Pa., by D. B. Lehman, Manager, Woolworth Building, Lancaster, Penna.

Phila., Pa., August 28, 1912. A liberal movement of Wheat and Oats has continued to all primaries, but the price movement has been definitely strong owing to an exceptional demand in cash channels. Exports of Oats have been on a very large scale with cash houses on the buying side against eastern sales quite as extensively as in reverse by reason of western acceptances. Corn receipts continue small, with cash increasing its premium and forcing sharp advances in next month deliveries. While the influence upon new crop months has been less marked, the price low in the fifties is in striking enough contrast to cash counselling above $0 to invite a considerable volume of investment buying.

In this autumn period when the early distribution is at the full, price movements are naturally within a restricted range. Good crops of all classes are either harvested or practically assured, and professional sentiment naturally inclined to the selling side. Nevertheless, the slow increase in the visible supply is attracting much attention and may easily incite the buying that the market now lacks. The tone is strong, in the face of liberal marketing, and we favor the accumulations of holdings when it may be accomplished to advantage, especially of Oats which impress us as extremely cheap.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. No cases out of ten are cured by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.
