YOU DON'T NEED PILLS YOU NEED PARK & POLLARD'S "GROWING FEED"

Farmers Column
USEFUL INFORMATION FOR THE FARMER

The Growing of Tomatoes—The Raising of Turkeys—One Method of Cooling Milk—Making up the Rations for The Dairy Cow Notes.

The incubator is no longer an experiment, and the demand for poultry products suggests its more general use.

The "utility" bird is one that is not without its faults, but it is often from a good strain, hence has its own economic value.

One feeding rule is to give the hens half as much as they will eat of a morning, nothing at noon and a full meal at night.

Be sure to grade your birds according to size as the weeks pass. When you find that some are outstripping the others, take them away and put them with birds of their own size. If you have toe marked the feet and have put on legbands, you will be able to tell the facts regarding them at any time. Here is where the value of records comes in keep an accurate record or every hatch, and then grade the birds without having to feel that if you mix them up you will not be able to tell them again when you want to know certain things about them.

The following general facts should be observed in making up the ration for a dairy cow. A cow should be fed all that she will eat and digest well, giving due consideration to the cost, digestibility and composition of the food fed. The more palatable the food the greater quantity a cow will consume. Variety often increases palatability. A part of the ration should be succulent in nature as such food stimulates action in the intestinal tract, which stimulates vigor, thrift and health in the animal. Another important part of the food supply is water. Too often this is not given proper thought.

When ice or cold water cannot be obtained or where a can of milk has to be left in a place where water and ice can not be conveniently used, a wet cloth preferably flannel wrapped around the can is an aid in keeping milk cool. One end of the cloth is best left extending from the bottom of the can and immersed in a pail of water. A large amount of the sun rays falling on the wet cloth is consumed in evaporating moisture and is thus prevented from reaching the milk. So long as the cloth is kept wet it is a protection, but as soon as it becomes dry heat passes through to the milk uninterrupted.

For those persons in town who are thinking of raising turkeys or two in their back yards there is trouble in store. The back yard or pen is not the place for a bird which refuses to be domesticated. W. A. Lippincott, head of the poultry department at the Kansas Agricultural college says. The farm is the place to raise turkeys. They must have a good range. During the first months it is better to give them no grain let them forage and eat bugs. If small turkeys are cared for in this way, the fatality will be much less. Prof. Lippincott suggests that you let some farmer take your young turkeys and rear them. You might arrange to pay a little rent to a farmer for allowing your birds to roam in his pastures. Then, along about Thanksgiving, all you have to do is to go out and harvest your turkey.

ORPHANS' COURT SALE OF A VALUABLE FARM

On Thursday, September 19, 1912. By virtue of an order of the Orphans' Court of Lancaster County, the undersigned administratrix, as trustee, in the estate of Charles K. Bennett, deceased, will sell at public sale, on the premises, in Mount Joy township, Lancaster county, Pa., near Raymond's blacksmith shop, about one mile northwest of Florin, on the road leading from the Harrisburg and Lancaster turnpike to Breneman's schoolhouse, the following described real estate, to wit:

A tract of gravel land, containing 92 acres, 114 perches, neat measure, adjoining lands of Mr. E. S. Weaver, J. Harvey Raymond, Monroe B. Forney and others.

The improvements thereon consist of a two-story frame dwelling house with a frame summer house attached, a large bank barn with corn crib, large tobacco shed with cellar and stripping room all attached, chicken house, carriage house, hog pen and all other necessary outbuildings. There is a choice variety of fruit on the premises, a spring of never-falling water at the house from which water is pumped to the barn, cistern at house, with pump therein. The land is in a high state of cultivation. The property is pleasantly located and in a good neighborhood, convenient to churches, schools, mills, markets and mechanics of all kinds, and always has been producing good crops and is well worth the attention of any person wishing to invest in a farm.

This property will be sold clear of the widow's dower rights.

Persons wishing to view the premises prior to day of sale shall please call on Samuel H. Zerphey, residing thereon.

Sale to commence at 1.30 o'clock p. m. on Thursday, Sept. 19, 1912, on the premises, when and where terms will be made known by we ever shipped to Lancaster Co. These colts were bought personally by our man right in the country from some of the best Stock farms in the west and range in age from 2 to 5 yrs. and weighing from 1100 to 1500 lbs. each. They consist of the good low down kind with two good ends and a middle and with plenty of style and conformation. Mr. Grove wires us that he is shipping a load of Colts, (the best that grow) with more size, bone and quality than you will see for a long time. If in need of any good colts to feed and make money don't miss this sale, as they will positively be sold for the high dollar.

Notes for 30, 60 or 90 days will be taken with good security and paying the discount.

Raided a Melon Patch.
A week ago yesterday some person or persons made a raid on Jacob Shreiner's melon patch near White Oak, in Penn township, and destroyed all his melons by cutting them into pieces and scattering them all over the patch. Such acts of vandalism should be severely punished. Mr. Shreiner has no idea who so ruthlessly destroyed his crop.

IS DEMAND FOR ORANGEWOOD
Trees Sacrificed for Building Sites in San Gabriel Valley in California.

The sale of orangewood is a new and profitable industry, which is being developed by the owners of Michillinda tract in the San Gabriel valley. The wood is being cleared from building sites in the subdivisions and it is being sold for $22 a cord. It is said to be used in the manufacture of manicure implements.

The orangewood harvest is something new in real estate tracts. Usually wherever an orange tree grows it is something to be cherished and protected, but at Michillinda there are whole groves and some of them must be sacrificed to allow space for building.

Through a remarkable orchard system established by the former owners of the Michillinda site many of the choicest building lots, now afford a selection of orange, lemon and tangerine. Thus the builder may establish his home in a grove of semi-tropical trees, where he may select his breakfast grapefruit or orange as hangs on the trees outside his dining room window.

Already the orangewood which has been sold from this suburb has netted more than $2,000 and this from trees cut for the drives and streets through the residential park.—Los Angeles Express.

REAL FOUNTAIN OF PUNCH
Provided by a British Officer in 1664 for the Entertainment of Six Thousand Guests.

Some of the papers have recently devoted attention to the origin of punch, that famous seventeenth century drink which has long lost its popularity in this country, though it still survives to some extent in Europe.

Owing to its intimate connection with rum one might easily have imagined that punch originated in the West Indies. In fact, however, it actually came from the East Indies and the name is said to be derived from the Sanskrit "pancha," five, on account of its five ingredients—arrak (afterward rum), tea, sugar, lemon and hot water.

The most magnificent bowl of punch the world has ever seen was probably that provided by the Right Hon. Edward Russell, who, when commanding the British forces in the Mediterranean in 1694, entertained 6,000 guests at Alicante, where a large marble fountain was filled with the liquor, the ingredients being:

Four hogsheads of brandy, a pipe of Malaga wine, 2,500 lemons, 20 gallons of lime juice, 8 hogsheads of water, 5 pounds of grated nutmegs in weight, 300 toasted biscuits and 13 hundredweight of fine white sugar.

Deeper Than Highest Mountain.
The depth of 5,780 meters to which the founding line of a German survey ship is said to have sunk in the Pacific ocean near the Philippine Islands is some 1,000 meters deeper than the previous deepest sounding. Of the total water surface of the globe, 145,900,000 square miles, about one-third stands more than three miles above the bottom of the sea, but until now no part of the great oceans has been discovered deep enough to submerge Mount Everest. But if there is no mistake about this depth of 9,780 meters (32,268 feet) the world's highest mountain could be sunk there until its highest peak was 3,000 feet below the water's level. The deepest soundings have all been made in the Pacific; 23,250 feet is the record of the Atlantic, in proximity to the West Indian Island of St. Thomas; while the North sea only averages 200 feet, or about one-tenth the maximum depth of the icy waters of the Arctic ocean.

Sensitiveness of Blow-Fly.
It is well known, says Knowledge, that the blow-fly (Calliphora vomitoria) has an extraordinarily keen sensitiveness to the odor of flesh, detecting it from a distance. Xaxier Raspail has made some observations about this rapidly with which the flies find a bird has just died and he maintains that they do not alight a second before that. An apoplectic pigeon that looked dead, but was not, was left unvisited. A moribund mackle, lying beside two others which had just been killed, was left unvisited, though the flies were on the dead birds just beside it. The instinct not to lay eggs in anything not quite dead seems to be strongly developed. But Raspail goes on to draw the hazardous conclusion that in the article of death an animal gives off a volatile something of infinite subtlety, which serves as a clue to the fly.

She Knew.
The city girl, on her first vacation in the country, was sitting at the side of the first beau she had ever had, looking at the first full moon she had ever seen in a perfectly clear sky.

"Billy," she squealed ecstatically, "how perfectly delightfully dear, and yet how horribly sweetly sad is the music of those toadstools, out there in the woods!"

"Why, darling," breathed William, who had been in the country before, once—"you can't mean 'toadstools.' The noise you hear is being made by crickets."

"Of course," answered the city girl—"you know what I mean. I get the names mixed up. I knew it was something to sit on!"
