The Donovan Company

Successor to Foster & Cochran

32-38 East King Street, Lancaster, Penna.

RALEIGH, N. C. CHILD

Made Strong and Well by Vinol.

When we tell you that Vinol is the best remedy in our whole stock for making weak, puny, ailing children strong, robust and rosy, we are only telling you what has been proved by hundreds of mothers.

Mrs. W. O. Strother, Raleigh, N. C., says: "My little girl, Hazel, has been making Vinol to build her up after a severe spell of sickness. It has done so much good by restoring her appetite and building up her strength that I think Vinol is the finest tonic ever prepared, and I am telling everyone about it."

What Vinol did for this little girl it will do for very weak and ailing child, because sickly children need the strengthening cod liver elements and the tonic iron that Vinol contains—that is why Vinol builds them up quickly and gives them a fine, healthy color. It is not to take, and we guarantee the results will satisfy you money back if they do not.

The Week in Grain

Compiled for the Mount Joy Bulletin, at Mount Joy, Pa., by Wm. L. Bear & Co., Pennsylvania Building, Philadelphia, Pa., by D. B. Lehman, Manager, Woolworth Building, Lancaster, Penna.

Phila., Pa., December 16, 1912. The crop report issued Monday afternoon was regarded as distinctly bearish and the following day wheat prices narrowed to the lowest level of the year. After the first pressure, surrounding influences resumed effect with prize levels at the week-end, showing full recovery. The condition announced, 93.2, compares with 96.3 in December, 1911, and a ten year average of 89.9. The acreage shows some reduction at 22,387,000 against a sown area last year of 33,215,000 and 25,744,000 actually harvested. The average loss in condition from December to July for the past ten years is 9.5.

Aside from the report there has been little in a trade way to excite comment. Prices for the most part continue to drift in a narrow radius for all classes. Reports are conflicting but not enough so to disturb prices on this side. The cash trade is fairly comfortable, especially for Oats where the shipping trade is good, but stocks in all positions are liberal and receipts continue fully ample to prevent any stringency being likely. Buying for the most part is of the investment order, attracted by the low ebb of prices rather than in anticipation of developments that will afford a high level. In professional channels sentiment continues pessimistic, but depressions become increasingly difficult to bring about from present levels.

Farmers Column

USEFUL INFORMATION FOR THE FARMER

The Care of the Soil and Crops—The Manage of an Incubator—Indigestion in Horses—Hog Cholera—When Horses are Un-easy

Bright corn fodder cut and wet a little bran sprinkle over it will winter horses in good order. Shaft oats cut up without thrashing are in the same list. Be sure the straw is moistened, as it is likely to hold dust.

Cows should not stand long facing a window unless the window be covered with muslin. By the way, the muslin window in a cow stable is far better than glass. It gives a subdued light and furnishes ideal ventilation.

The farmer who feeds his stock more roughage than they will eat up clean, not only wastes his feed, but thereby runs a great risk of laying the foundation for serious digestive ailments among his stock by the overtaxing of their digestive organs.

Every farm home ought to have at least one horse that is safe for the women folks to drive. It is only fair that they should not be obliged to wait till some of the men can take them to town. A good safe driving horse helps to make farm life really desirable.

When a horse is uneasy or acts unnaturally, do not forget that he may have a sore under the harness, or some other trouble of which he cannot speak. Look him over most carefully. There is much unnecessary suffering among dumb animals because of carelessness.

Winter milk is a good thing for pigs; but feed it carefully especially if the cows are drying up. The richer the milk is in fats the more casein in the skim milk contains. Put in some water. Save the greasy dish water for this purpose and mix quantities of bran. Also feed oil-meal. Nothing is so helpful to winter swine as oilmeal, vegetables and fruit.

Those who have lambs to feed in winter should have some regular system of doing so, as they require more care and attention at this season of the year than any other. They should never be fed with the rest of the flock, but always in a separate place. The grain should consist of oats, bran and oil meal, here are a few things worth remembering. Cracked corn or navy beans may replace the oilmeal. A ration which has given great satisfaction com-prises a mixture of oats, bran and oilmeal, in equal parts by weight.

No specific cure has been found for hog cholera; but in a few instances recoveries have taken place where the preventive serum has been used. The serum, if fresh made and from a reputable manufacturer, is effective in preventing the disease. Temporary immunity is had by the single injection treatment in which serum alone is used. Permanent immunity is had by injecting serum and a very small quantity of virulent blood at the same time.

Horses frequently suffer from indigestion caused by imperfect nutrition. Have the teeth attended to by a veterinarian. Give the drink-ing water before meals, do not feed any bulky feed at noon, or work horse soon after a meal. Allow free access to rock salt. Bed with saw-dust or planing mill shavings, if he eradicates both of these is by a eats his bedding. Feed whole oats (old) and one-sixth part of do not thrive except on land where a wheat bran, wetted at feeding time. Allow one pound of this mixture for each 100 lbs. of live weight, and give like amount of mixed or timothy, or prairie hay.

When you start that incubator, place the strongest chicks. Ventilate the incubator room, as foul odors will jeopardize the hatch. The fresher the egg the better the hatch. Never place the neubator near the window. After the fourth day of incubation turn the eggs both night and morning. Too high a temperature will quicken a hatch, while one too low will prolong it. It is wisdom to have all the large ends of the eggs pointing the same way. A hatch that has been delayed can be quickened by adding to the incubator sponges dipped in hot water. Begin colling the eggs after the fourth day and continue until the eighteenth day. In colling eggs it is best to place a thermometer on them after being turned. Return the tray to the machine when the temperature has reached 85 degrees. In heating a machine do it gradually.

Crops can give but poor returns where weeds and insect pests are present. The easiest method to eradicate both of these is by a systematic charge of crops. Insects do not thrive except on land where a one crop system is followed. A change from corn to small grain and then to legumes and grass does not allow pernicious weeds to gain a foothold. If we think of the soil as a complex factory where plantfood is refined from raw material, we may get a better conception of soil conditions and will be able to understand better the result of our labor on the field. Any grist mill that attempted to run by the sale of flour alone would soon be swamped with shorts and bran, and in the face of to day's competition would be forced to close its doors. Then too, the by products would soon be infested with vermin, and if unprepared would become wet and sour. Before long the workers could no longer stay around the place. It would be uninhabitable and even if the compensation from the flour were sufficient to pay the running expenses the mill would be forced shut down because of unsanitary conditions. Now our cropping to corn as it is the corn belt resembles the mill that sells its product and dumps the back yard.
