USEFUL INFORMATION FOR THE FARMER

What a Good Stand of Corn Means The Care of Wet Grain—Protect Your Dairy Cows—Keep Your Soft Corn Separate Killing Trees

A good way to make a start with the use of cement on the farm is to build a concrete feeding floor for hogs. If every farm could have a good feeding floor of some kind, it would mean the saving of many bushels of the corn crop.

Feeling trees in the late summer will kill them. The stumps can easily be removed with a stump puller or if the ground is cultivated around them they will rot in time. They may be destroyed by fire or blasted with a small can of dynamite. Sprouts can easily be killed after the trunk is dead by continually cutting them under the surface with a mattock and by steady cultivation.

In the northern part of the corn belt there will be inevitably this season a good deal of soft corn. This fact should suggest the wisdom of keeping the soft corn separate from the sound corn at husking time, and if this precaution is taken it will tend to prevent the grief that a whole lot of farmers had three or four years ago, when they cribbed this corn together and a few weeks later had to take the sides of their cribs off and scatter it over the ground to keep the whole crop from spoiling.

There is probably no type of neglect from which dairy cows suffer more and to the loss of their owners than from being allowed to sleep on the cold and wet ground in early spring or late fall when giving a heavy flow of milk. A cow's udder is a very delicate as well as a sensitive organ and is particularly subject to such exposure. Often carelessness in this regard has resulted in seriously impairing if not entirely destroying the usefulness of many a good cow. A dairy cow is entitled to a dry and warm bed, and it is good daily management to see that she has it.

It is a serious mistake to thresh grain wet or even damp, because the proposition of making it marketable is always expensive and is frequently the cause of serious loss. The farmer who is compelled, from any cause to thresh his grain when wet should lose no time in taking immediate care of it. A few dry bricks thrown into the grain as it is put into the bins will absorb large quantities of moisture, says a writer in the Farm and Home. Sticks of very dry stove wood will answer the same purpose. A dry cedar post or sticks of cordwood from poplar, basswood or jack pine trees will absorb their weight in moisture from a bin of damp grain. Burlap or jute sacks filled with dry chaff and buried in a bin of damp grain will absorb moisture readily and also provide space for air. I have used them with excellent success. Those simple and inexpensive methods of protecting wet grain are practical and are much more desirable than shoveling over day after day to keep it from heating. Grain that gets hot in the bin is worthless for seed. Musty wheat is no good for flour and should not be sold or used for that purpose.

While the variety of corn grown and fertility of soil have much to do with determining the yield of this staple cereal, there is little question that the matter of stand is more largely responsible for the poor yields that bring the average for the whole country down to less than thirty bushels per acre. The force of this statement is the more clearly seen when it is realized what a full stand of corn means. If an acre of land has an average stand of three stalks per hill and the hills are three feet six inches apart, each way, there will be approximately 10,676 stalks on tract. This result is got by dividing 42,560, the number of feet in each acre, by 4.08 square feet, the space occupied by each stalk of corn.

Dogs Meet With Peculiar Death A. R. McKain, who resides in East Donegal Township, just outside the limits of Marietta, lost two valuable dogs Friday, and their death has caused considerable excitement. Mr. McKain arose early yesterday morning to prepare for a gunning trip. His dogs were then chained in their kennels. About 4 o'clock he started out, accompanied by his brothers, Samuel and George McKain of Marietta, but left the dogs at home. They returned home about noon, when Mrs. McKain, not seeing the dogs, asked her husband where they were. He replied in their boxes. She declared they were not and an investigation was made. The collars were found and the search was continued. Finally Mr. McKain discovered the jaw bones and small portions of the skull bones of the animals. All bones contained the marks of teeth. It is supposed the animals were killed and eaten by some wild animals.

Hurt at Landisville Church Hiram Stehman, one of the members of the building committee in charge of the erection of the Landisville Mennonite Church, was accidentally struck by a piece of scantling at the new building, which caused him to lose his balance, and he fell a considerable distance. He broke two ribs and sustained other internal injuries. Dr. Jerome Kendig, of Salunga, is attending him.

Dodge the Deadly Pneumonia Peril

Are your bedroom windows tied to the thermometer? Does every drop of a few degrees in temperature on these crisp October nights exert a corresponding influence on the windows of your sleeping room?

To avoid a few moments of fancied discomfort in the morning have you begun to rob yourself of a sufficiency of fresh air for eight hours every night? Perhaps you still cling to the old wives' superstition that "night air is dangerous," though you'd laugh heartily enough at the equally absurd superstition that "seven hairs from the tip of the tail of a black cat owned by a cross eyed woman is a potent charm against the ague."

Suppose you found your laundry washing your clothes in last week's wash water, of course you would wax wrathful at her slovenliness. It is equally uncleanly and vastly more dangerous to try to force your lungs to purify your blood with foul and stagnant air.

Pneumonia with its high death rate is a sure accompaniment of the winter months, not because of the lowered temperature but because of the ill ventilated, over heated homes, school houses, shops, work rooms and cars. Pure air, day and night, is your safe guard.

Buy an extra blanket, nail your windows up, not down, and you will come down to breakfast with a clear head, bright eyes, and ruddy cheeks.

Sick Women

When shown positive and reliable proof that a certain remedy had cured many cases of female ills, wouldn't any sensible woman conclude that the same remedy would also benefit her if suffering with the same trouble?

Here are five letters from southern women which prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

LETTER FROM VIRGINIA. Elliston, Va.—"I feel it my duty to express my thanks to you and your great medicine. I was a sufferer from female troubles and had been confined in bed over one third of my time for ten months. I could not do my housework and had fainting spells so that my husband could not leave me alone for five minutes at a time."

"Now I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier. Whenever I see a suffering woman I want to tell her what these medicines have done for me and I will always speak a good word for them."—Mrs. ROBERT BLANKENSHIP, Elliston, Montgomery Co., Va.

LETTER FROM LOUISIANA. New Orleans, La.—"I was passing through the Change of Life and before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was troubled with hot flashes, weak and dizzy feelings, backache and irregularities. I would get up in the morning feeling tired out and not fit to do anything."

"Since I have been taking your Compound and Blood Purifier I feel all right. Your medicines are worth their weight in gold."—Mrs. GASTON BLONDEAU, 1541 Polymnia St., New Orleans, La.

LETTER FROM FLORIDA. Wauchula, Fla.—"Some time ago I wrote to you giving you my symptoms, headache, backache, bearing-down, and discomfort in walking, caused by female troubles."

"I got two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and a package of Sanative Wash and that was all I used to make me a well woman. I am satisfied that if I had done like a good many women, and had not taken your remedies, I would have been a great sufferer. But I started in time with the right medicine and got well. It did not cost very much either. I feel that you are a friend to all women and I would rather use your remedies than have a doctor."—Mrs. MATTIE HODNOT, Box 406, Wauchula, Florida.

LETTER FROM WEST VIRGINIA. Martinsburg, W. Va.—"I am glad to say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done wonders for my mother, daughter and myself. I have told dozens of people about it and my daughter says that when she hears a girl complaining with cramps, she tells her to take your Compound."—Mrs. MARY A. HOCKENBURY, 712 N. 3rd St., Martinsburg, W. Va.

ANOTHER LETTER FROM VIRGINIA. Newport News, Va.—"About five years ago I was troubled with such pains and bloating every month that I would have to go to bed. A friend told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I soon found relief. The medicine strengthened me in every way and my doctor approved of my taking it."

"I will be glad if my testimony will help some one who is suffering from female weakness."—Mrs. W. J. BLAYTON, 1029 Hampton Ave., Newport News, Va.

Why don't you try this reliable remedy?

Fell From Pear Tree H. A. Resh met with a painful accident on his farm at Kinderhook on Monday. He was engaged in picking pears from a ladder, when the ladder slipped and threw him to the ground, a distance of about twenty feet. He landed on his back and sustained painful injuries to his back and ribs. The soft earth of the ploughed field under the tree saved him from serious injury.
