SALUNGA

The Brethren held night services in their church Sunday.

Mr. M. G. Peifer called on friends in our town on Monday.

Mr. Philip Metzgar is spending a week with his son Philip and wife in Elk Co.

Miss Mary Young spent Saturday night and Sunday at her home at Petersburg.

Mr. Scofield of New York, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Weiss on Sunday.

Mr. Doerstler and friend of Man-or spent Sunday with his sister, Mrs. F. S. Strickler.

Miss Anna Johnson of Lancaster, visited Captain Q. O. Reitzel, wife and other friends here about.

Miss Mary Kendig entertained the M. E. Church Choir and the minister Rev. Dione, last Sunday.

The supper held in the Levy Warehouse on Saturday night by the Ladies Aid for the benefit of the heater fund, was well patronized and the receipts were beyond expectation.

In the west end of town our citizens are pelted with the air of the Skunk while the eastern section is treated to the sweet aroma of the ripening apples.

Last week we reported the champion rabbit shooter. This week we would say that Young America does its share too. Claud Fackler brought us a fine one, not the only one either.

It is a foregone conclusion that because Pres. Taft received the nomination at Chicago and because he and Roosevelt had the popular vote, that had Roosevelt kept out of the way Taft would have been elected. We should rather think as Roosevelt had much the heavier Progressive and Republican vote that he would have been the safe standard bearer and the hope of the old Republican party.

A pig chase on the Harrisburg Avenue last Saturday afternoon, afforded some amusement to on lookers. While Ira Herr, Butcher and his men were unloading a car of hogs one of the sharp backed kind made a break for liberty, and on the instant all the boys ranging in age from 5 years up to 15 were on the hunt. As you may suppose each individual kid was in the right place exactly in the wrong time much to the delight of old bristles. The hog turned, cavorted, rushed from centre to flanks and was last seen with snout toward the setting sun, while the beaten kids went their weary way toward their respective homes.

Popular Fallacies Concerning Bees

The following interesting extracts are taken from the Pennsylvania Bee Bulletin recently written by Prof. H. A. Surfacto, State Zoologist, and issued from the Bureau of Zoology of the Department of Agriculture, at Harrisburg.

"In a general, popular way there is much more that is not known about bees than is known. Among the fallacies are those which are corrected by the following statements:

1. The question does not control or rule the hive in the sense of giving orders for its management.

2. The queen does not lead in swarming.

3. The queen is not mated in the hive, but when flying through the air.

4. Bees do not follow the remains of their keeper at the time of his death, and the idea is absurd to the effect that they should be notified of his death by knocking upon the hive.

5. It is not true that bees formerly owned by a person who has died will not thrive. It is remarkable how deeply rooted is this fallacy.

6. Bees do not bite open fruits, although they may suck their juices after they have been opened by other causes.

7. When a bee stings and leaves its sting it dies, and does not turn into a drone nor grow a new sting, as is sometimes believed.

8. Bees are not important factors in carrying the germs of plant diseases, such as pear blight, as these are carried by so many other means that their distribution would be practically as extensive, even if there were no bees.

9. Bees do not become entirely dormant during the winter, as is often believed, but continue to feed and change relative positions in the cluster.

10. There is no such article as "artificial comb honey." Honey can not be made nor sealed artificially notwithstanding the published, popular stories in this regard.

11. Granulation of honey does not mean adulteration by sugar, as absolutely pure honey is quite liable to granulate, particularly if it becomes cold, and may remain in a granulated condition until warmed.

12. Bees do not carry any of the diseases which afflict human beings. The diseases which sometimes destroy them are in no way whatever related to the disease of mankind."
