

"FAGGED-OUT" WOMEN

Will Find a Helpful Suggestion In This Letter.

Overworked, run-down, "fagged out" women who feel as though they could hardly drag about, should profit by Miss Richter's experience.

"One of my friends advised me to take Vinol, and it has done me great good. The tired, worn-out feeling is all gone, and I am strong, vigorous and well."

Thousands of women and men who were formerly weak and sickly owe their present rugged health to the wonderful strength-giving effects of Vinol.

Cat in Mail

A live pussy cat was sent thru the mails by parcel post at Lebanon last week. The animal, in a small box with openings for air, was taken by a clerk and the contents were not discovered until another clerk felt the animal moving.

A council of clerks was called and after due inspection of the inside of the box it was decided that the animal did not come under the ban recently placed by the Post Office Department on members of the cat family known as skunks.

The box was closed again and sent on to its destination, a rural mail carrier taking the box along.

Good, if True

Editor Westafer in the last issue of the Elizabethtown Chronicle says: "It is reported that the P. R. R. which has secured control of the Cornwall and Lebanon R. R. will make Elizabethtown the terminus of the latter road. The Pennsylvania, according to report, will utilize the old trackage north of Elizabethtown and will run a spur from the trackage over to the Conewago and Lebanon line between Belleaire and Conewago. It is said this change would be for passenger trains only and that Conewago freight yards would be enlarged and Conewago made a freight terminal."

MOUNT JOYANS WERE THERE

Lines From the Pen of Lieut. J. H. Wert of Harrisburg

A forty-eighth anniversary poem on the conflict at Fort Stedman, in front of Petersburg, March 25, 1865 in which a number of our veterans participated is appended:

Quick on the startled ear of night, Above the roar of sudden fight Rang out the cry: "The line is rent! And thru the ever widening vent The ranks in gray came surging in Amid the wild, infernal din.

One desperate effort Lee will make— Success or ruin is the stake— To sever with a deadly blow Our army grand. On came the foe: Resounded shrill the Southern yell, As banners rose, as banners fell.

Above the battle's chorused peal, Responsive cheers from hearts of steel Told Pennsylvanians were at hand To strike for flag and native land.

Brave sons of State to manhood led Who like to us for each can feel? The elbow-touch has knit our lives: Honor to him who yet survives; Honor to those who fell that day, Where Hartranft moved his scathing way.

Honor, for are each hero true Upon whose last and death-glazed view, Shone out the Red, the White, the Blue— The Flag by father's valor won, By them bequeathed from sire to son.

Again round it new glories twine That night when Gordon broke the line; And Pennsylvanians barred the way And saved red Stedman's fate-fraught day.

Graduated From W. F. T. S.

Mr. Walter W. Greiner, son of Mr. Philip Greiner of this place, was one of a class of 58 that graduated at Williamson Free Trade School at Philadelphia on Saturday.

Mr. Greiner is a carpenter. A year ago the president of the school announced that he would make the student who had a clean record for conduct for one year, a present of $25. At the exercises it was announced that out of the 225 students there were twenty-five with clean records. As there was only $25, a number of those present, including some of the leading citizens of Philadelphia, contributed enough cash so that each of these twenty-five students received $25.

Mr. Greiner was one of them. Walter was also awarded a gold medal almost the size of a silver dollar, for the best shop, academic and conduct record in the Senior Class. He is now here on a visit to his parents and will leave April 15, for Worcester, Mass., where he has secured employment.

GET AFTER THEM NOW Early Spraying for The Apple Aphid Says Prof. H. A. Surface A prominent nurseryman of Pennsylvania sent two infested apple twigs to State Zoologist H. A. Surface, at Harrisburg and received the following reply concerning the Apple Aphid, which is a pest that has been one of the very destructive insects in the apple orchards of Eastern America during the past five years: "The specimen of apple twig sent by you is infested with the eggs of the Apple Aphid. I discussed this subject with some care at the recent meeting of the State Horticultural Association at Harrisburg. There seems to be a general idea that lime-sulfur spraying when dormant does not destroy these eggs, but I have found that they can be killed with the dormant spray if directions are followed. In fact, about a dozen persons at the meeting testified that they had controlled the Apple Aphid by the lime-sulfur spray, while a few others had not done so. The element of success in spraying for this particular pest is in getting the material on them at the right time, or in waiting until the buds are bursting and spraying after the green leaves commence to appear. I have sprayed when the leaves were one-half inch in length and of course, before they expanded. By the time the green leaves are peeping out of the buds one-fourth inch the Aphid eggs have hatched and the young Aphid have crawled to them and commenced to feed. Spray them with the regular lime-sulfur solution, the same as for San Jose scale and you will destroy them. That is also a good time to add two or three pounds of arsenate of lead to fifty gallons of the lime-sulfur solution to kill the Bud moth, if any are present in the orchard. I am of the opinion that spraying while the buds remain perfectly dormant may not kill them. There is no reason why one should not increase the strength of the spray liquid to the specific gravity of 1.04 for the eggs of the Apple Aphid. If they are not killed by the dormant spray they cause the leaves to curl and stunt the growth of leaves, twig and fruit and cause considerable damage, unless after they occur on the undersides of the leaves you will spray them with a strong to-bacco decoction. This is the best material to use after the leaves expand, but it really should not be necessary to use it, as the strong lime-sulfur solution applied when the buds are bursting or immediately thereafter, also destroys many other species of insects, as well as Mites causing the Blister Mite troubles of leaf disease germs of various kinds, especially the one causing the Peach leaf curl."
