SALUNGA

Dr. J. S. Kendig made a little run to Highland Park and Philadelphia the fore part of the week. Miss Mary Hopton of Philadelphia is visiting her friend Mrs. R. D. Ruffenberger for several days. Mr. R. D. Rodgers on Sunday visited his sister in Philadelphia, who is slowly improving after a severe illness.

The farmers are in tantrums about the excessive wet weather, as corn planting is delayed and all work is at a stand still.

We learn that there is considerable alarm in our county among hog feeders as there have been reported quite a few cases of hog cholera.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Peifer and children Mary and Levi and Mr. L. S. Shuman visited Mr. and Mrs. Willis Kreider in Lampeter township on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Sheesley and children Harry, Carol, Edwin and Ellnor of Harrisburg and Miss Mabel Nissley of Oberlin spent Sunday with Mr. Samuel Eby and family.

The little fish pond in the Hiester and yard is suggestive as well as beautiful and unique. Many of us could have such little beauty spots in our yards instead of old stumps by utilizing our spare moments.

Mr. Samuel Eby is placing some embellishments on his residence and store which with a few touches of the artist's pencil will look quite swell. A change but not an improvement is the white bran sack which suggests the use of old sheets instead of burlap for the purpose.

A shrewd one of Celtic origin but now of Salunga recently took unto himself a wife. A cathumpian demonstration was unavoidable, for the boys had just to come back at their former tormentor and friend. There was the blare of a few fish horns and the rattling of chains but only for a very short period for the foye Benedict had the crowd in the folds of the storage place of a half barrel of beer half a mile away and there was such a scamper to sample the malt and hops that there was no further concern for wedding proceedings.

It has been discovered that radium will restore hardened arteries but will it give back the napeppable desire to find a word that rhymes with Maud?

Possibly the New York cafes were required to close at midnight in order to conserve the lobster supply which is in danger of extinction.

WHEN IRVING PLAYED ROMEO

Silence, Light and Actors, the Three Things Necessary for Artistic Effect and Atmosphere.

Wendell Phillips Dodge relates an incident growing out of the first meeting of Robert Mantel with Sir Henry Irving, back in 1882, when both were playing Romeo in London. There were reviewers who found Irving too old for the youthful Romeo, and one advised that he should make way for "the young fellow over at the Olympic." Irving prepared a special afternoon performance in the Lyceum, to which all the players in London were invited. After it was over, Mantel went back of the stage and Irving asked him how he liked the performance. "It has been like an afternoon at school with congenial lessons," replied Mantel. "How do you do it? How do you manage effects? How do you get such atmosphere, such a realization of the glory of the tragedy, with such little effort? Is there no recipe?" "There is; indeed there is," answered Irving, "simple, too, only three things to remember. The first is silence, and plenty of it behind the scenes, so that the actor may be at ease, with nothing to distract when striving for his shadings. The second is light, regulated as far as possible so that nature is counterfeited—so that, young man, is the recipe."

"But," protested Mantel, "you said there were three things to remember; you have mentioned but two. Is there a third?" "Did I say a third?" asked Irving. "Um, perhaps I did, perhaps I did; but what could I have had in mind? Let me see. Ah, yes, silence, light, and—um, shall I say—silence? Remember that, my boy, actors—silence, light, and—actors, that is the third."—London Strand.

RELICS OF THE BRONZE AGE

Remarkable Find of Prehistoric Weapons and Ornaments Made in Karst Mountains.

A remarkable find of prehistoric weapons and ornaments has been made in a cavern at St. Kanzian, in the Karst mountains, not far from Abbazia. The cavern, which is known as the "Cave of Flies," from the number of insects which, apparently breeding there, issue forth at certain times of the year, is a subterranean chamber with a perpendicular depth of about fifty feet, the only entrance to which is by a hole in the roof. It was recently explored by some climbers with the help of a long rope ladder. A Roman helmet, dating from the beginning of the Christian era, which the owner had apparently dropped down the hole, was first found. Encouraged by this the Imperial museum sent men to dig into the earth and stones which have fallen from the roof and sides and form the floor of the cavern, and at a depth of three feet they discovered over a thousand articles of bronze, including two hundred lance heads, a number of sword axes, clasps and vessels. The last named had all been burned through by fire. The date of the articles is estimated at about 1000 B. C. Since it appears impossible that men in the hole should have lived at the bottom of such a deep and inaccessible cavern, archeologists believe the weapons and vessels must have been thrown down the hole as a sacrifice to some subterranean deity.—Vienna Correspondence London Standard.

RENOWNED POOL OF SIVA

Wonderful Waters Credited by People of India With All Sorts of Magnetic Attributes.

A remarkable Indian ceremony is the Kumbakonam Mahanamak festival. This feast takes place once a year, but the Hindu gods are supposed to visit the sacred tank on each twelfth anniversary. It is said that the god Brahma once requested Siva to collect the essence of all the waters in the world. It is understood that Siva succeeded in doing this, placing the fluid in a pot, which he hid away on the top of a mountain. During the flood this pot floated away from his position, and when the waters subsided it rested at a spot some distance away, now known as Kumbakonam. Siva, who happened to be hunting in the vicinity, saw the pot and, craving his bow and arrow, shot at it with disastrous results. The water, rushing out, filled a hollow, and this at the present time is the renowned tank. This tank is now a place of pilgrimage, where, during the festival, untold thousands of the faithful dip themselves in the wonderful water, which is credited with all sorts of magical attributes.—Wide World Magazine.

BUILD TIGER PROOF HOUSES

Malay Natives Perch Their Houses High Up in Trees to Escape Enemies.

The ordinary Malay house is built on posts from five to seven feet high; but one which I came across was perched high up in a tree. It was the home of a man, his wife and family, and they informed me that it was placed in this unusual situation so as to be out of the way of the numerous tigers which then infested the neighborhood.

As tigers have been known to jump 18 feet in vertical height somewhere above 20 feet is considered to be the limit of safety. The Malay house is a fruit and fitting measure of sticks tied together with rattan threaded with palm leaves and walled with plaited bamboo, or, as in this case, with the bark of a tree.

It is therefore an easy matter for a tiger with its great strength to break into a house at its attack the inhabitants. Many instances of this have been recorded in Malaya. In one well known case a whole family were killed except one man, who climbed up into the roof, and thus escaping the notice of the tiger, was a horrified observer of the cruel mauling and ultimate slaughter and devouring of his relatives.—Strand.

Why Have "Nerves"?

This is the reason why women have "nerves." When thoughts begin to grow cloudy and uncertain, impulses lag and the warnings of pain and distress are sent like flying messages throughout limbs and frame, straightaway, nine times in ten, a woman will lay the cause of the trouble to some defect at the point where she first felt it. Is it a headache, a backache, a sensation of irritability or twitching and uncontrollable nervousness, something must be wrong with the head or back, a woman naturally says, but all the time the real trouble very often centers in the womanly organs. In nine cases out of ten the seat of the difficulty is here, and a woman should take rational treatment for its cure. The local disorder and inflammation of the delicate special organs of the sex should be treated steadily and systematically.

Dr. Pierce, during a long period of practice, found that a prescription made from medicinal extracts of native roots, without the use of alcohol, relieved over 90 per cent. of such cases. After using this remedy for many years in his private practice he put it up in form of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, that would make it easily procurable, and it can be had at any store where medicines are handled.

Mrs. LILA B. HAWKINS, of Zeus, Va., writes: "I had been failing in health for two years—most of the time was not able to attend to my household duties. Female weakness was my trouble; and I was getting very bad but, thanks to Doctor Pierce's medicine, I am well and strong again. I took only three bottles of 'Favorite Prescription,' and used the 'Lotion Tablets.' I have nothing but praise for Doctor Pierce's wonderful medicines."
