Veterans at Gettysburg

Sixteen From Mount Joy and Vicinity Are There

LIEUT. D. H. NISSLEY POST IN ATTENDANCE

Visitors Can Go Thru Camp Whenever and Wherever They Please—No Free Toll Roads to Gettysburg As Advertised—Warm Weather Tying on the Veterans

Twenty five thousand veterans in blue and gray, the biggest army of its kind gathered together in fifty years, woke on the field of Gettysburg to the call of reveille and the war-like rattle of pots and pans in a score of mess tents.
Veterans who sat about camp fires until late last night were up long before the sun climbed over the hills of the Blue Ridge. Before the electric lights of this modern camp were turned out to make way for the sun the veterans were singing the songs of war-time, and the wide streets of the tented city echoed with the hoarse yell of his brother from the North.
The regular army men in charge of the camp expected 15,000 veterans to come into Gettysburg today and by tonight they will be prepared to tent and mess the more than 40,000 men without hitch or delay. There was no set program today and the veterans were left free to look up old friends and old enemies, swap stories of '63 and enjoy themselves in any way they saw fit. Just as soon as the rations of bacon and eggs, "fruit in season", fresh bread and butter were disposed of in the way all good soldiers dispose of them, the real inspection of the battlefield and the retelling of the story of Gettysburg began, with all the pointed criticism that the private soldier knows so well how to make.
"I ain't seen a reb yet who didn't charge Round Top and take it all by himself," said a lanky Southerner as he wandered into the quarters of the Pennsylvania contingent.
"No, and I ain't seen a Yank who didn't break up Pickett's charge by his own self," said a smiling Pennsylvanian, as they shook hands.
On the Gettysburg battle field, exactly the same place where the Union and Confederate soldiers opposed each other just fifty years ago, are encamped thousands of the surviving veterans this week.
The scribe visited the scene yesterday and found as follows: East Pennsylvania, on Fifth street, in tents Nos. 201 and 202, are the quarters of the following from this place and vicinity who did service in the Civil war: Messrs. H. H. Nissley, D. R. Wagner, Wm. Manning, Samuel Shirte, Aaron M. Baker, Christian G. Sherk, A. J. McLean, David Smith, Jacob D. Boyce, P. J. Dieter, Wm. Bookman, J. G. Metzgar, Jacob Brown, Ell Helman, Geo. Baughman, Charles Hofer and Harry Stoffenbaugh.
The vets gave us a warm welcome, and we were shown about their quarters, after which they posed for a photograph by a "staff" photographer. All are well, happy and extend a cordial welcome to all from here who may visit Gettysburg this week.
Rumors and newspaper stories afloat that all toll roads to Gettysburg would be free during encampment is incorrect.
Pedestrians or automobilists going to Gettysburg can go wherever they please through the encampment. All avenues are named and every tent is numbered. To find the Mount Joy delegation go out Baltimore street from square at Gettysburg to large sign reading "To Encampment," turn to left and you are there. Then go south to Fifth street and tents No. 201 and 202 shelter our old soldiers.
On all roads over battlefield teams and autos are only permitted to travel in one direction.
Will Close July 4th
All the barber shops in town will close on Friday, observing July 4th.
Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Fair of Florin, announce the birth of a daughter early this morning.
Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Brandt and children of Crafton, Pa., are spending their vacation with the former's mother, Mrs. Martha Brandt.

DRAGGED BY A MULE
Mr. William Crist, tenant on the O. M. Donaven farm, several miles northeast of town, met with a very painful accident Monday that will keep him off duty for some time.
He was returning from Mt. Joy with a team and was riding one of the mules. The horse fell and he became entangled in the harness and was dragged quite a distance. He sustained a number of bad bruises. His ankle, knee, hip and arm are cut and bruised. He was attended by Dr. F. L. Richards.
